Marching Band has successful trip to Florida

The Cumberland High School Marching Band returned from their weeklong trip to Florida on Saturday July 1st. While touring the sunshine state, Cumberland students were treated to six consecutive days of 90-degree temperatures and high humidity.

"Fortunately, all of our kids were well hydrated and physically prepared for these conditions" said band director Dan Hopkins. Adding "I'm very proud of their mental and physical toughness."

The marching band was the featured group in two parades; the Epcot Parade and the Magic Kingdom Parade at Disney World. In addition to those performances, band students enjoyed a day at Cocoa Beach and visited Disney's Animal Kingdom and Hollywood Studios. Band members will now enjoy a month off before the start of fall band camp and competition season.

Cumberland Federal Bank announces building plans

Cumberland Federal Bank has announced the expansion of their current building on Second Avenue in Cumberland. The expansion will be constructed to the east of the current building and will provide an additional 3,000 square feet of building space. It will provide better handicap accessibility and a community-usable conference room.

The drive-up lanes will not be affected. The parking lot spaces will be reduced to the south side of the building and become customer exclusive.

The expansion project will take approximately six months to complete.

New Building Inspector Contract approved at July City Council meeting

The regular Cumberland City Council monthly meeting got pushed back a day to Wednesday, July 5th, to accommodate the festivities on Independence Day.

Action items included approval of a Resolution to petition the Secretary of Transportation for Airport Aid. The money would be used to replace the current fuel tanks with larger units, allowing the Airport to get a better price on fuel purchases, as well as accommodate the increased fuel sales/needs they are experiencing. The two older tanks would be repurposed, one at the airport and the city would re-use the other.

Also approved was the new City Building inspector contract. Josh Melstrom was awarded the position.

Chippewa Concrete was awarded the bid for the for the sidewalk, curbs and gutters along 2nd Avenue. The winning bids was $27,260.

In other business, the Mayor announced he is looking into forming an Ad Hoc committee to give the City Ordinances a going over for the purposes of eliminating ones that are archaic, unused or unenforced.

It was also announced that the Cumberland Municipal Utility is looking into the purchase of solar energy from a solar energy farm.

The meeting adjourned at 7:17 p.m. The next regularly scheduled meeting is on August 1st at 7:00 p.m.

Mark Stary on the Island City Music stage July 18

After a one-week break for the July 4 holiday, the Island City Music concerts resume on Tuesday, July 18, with a performance by Turtle Lake native Mark Stary. The oldies-country-blues singer will perform from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. on the east shore of Library Lake in downtown Cumberland.

Stary, who lives in St. Paul, Minn., has performed many times on the deck at the Five O'Clock Club and at dozens of other venues in the Twin Cities and northwestern Wisconsin. When he's not singing and playing guitar, he works as a therapy-dog handler and portrait artist.

Stary's concert will be the sixth performance on Tuesdays sponsored by the Cumberland Area Business Alliance, Cumberland Connect and individual businesses, including The Advocate. Nezy's is the title sponsor of the Mark Stary performance. And speaking of Nezy's, that establishment's event center is the rain venue for the Island City Music series.

Baseball With Buckley Tours; The Western Ballparks

by Mark R Fuller

It's something I've been doing since the mid-80s, heading out on a Buckley Baseball Tour each summer. The oldest baseball tour group in the United States, Buckley Baseball Tours hosts over 25 different opportunities each year to travel the United States and see Major League Baseball. I've been serving as a tour guide since 1986 and this summer, as has been standard for me, I've signed up to host two of these unbelievable trips. I am beholding to Jay and the new owners of the company, Matt and Stephanie Thornton, for this tremendous honor.

I've been to every area of the United States. Trips generally vary from five to 12 days, with choices from the South and East to the Midwest and West. To think I've been in Fenway Park and Yankee Stadium 20 times each was an unfathomable dream for me as a kid growing up in Wisconsin Rapids, Wisconsin.

This summer I recently headed out West with a second trip to Chicago, Milwaukee, Cleveland, and Cincinnati coming up in early August. I've been fortunate to have had several Cumberland area residents with me on some of these excursions, including Dick Thorp, Tim Gagner, Don Gray, Craig Greener, Bill Suech, Joe Waite, George Ricci, and Gary Kallsen.

My co-hosts on these trips has ranged from Barb, and my daughter Jana, to one I did with Mike Schoonveld and another with Tim Tschida. Over the past 12 years, however, my partner on these travels has been my good friend, Marty Paulsen, who just completed his 49th year as head baseball coach at Fond du Lac High School.

A good time was had by all ages!

Keep Your Grass Clippings Out of the Street
When mowing your yard, make certain that you do not blow grass clippings into the street. When mowing, make the first few passes with the lawnmower blowing the grass clippings into the lawn NOT the street. If there are grass clippings on the street or sidewalk, use a broom or leaf blower to blow them back into the lawn. Do not use a hose to wash them into the street or storm drains.
Grass clippings that are blown into the street eventually enter the street storm drain. The grass clippings then form blockages in the storm drains or flow down to the lakes. Grass clippings contribute nutrients such as nitrogen and phosphorous, which cause unwanted and uncontrolled growth of algae and aquatic weeds in the waterways.

Northwoods Newcomer: Becoming a Wisconsinite after 34 years in Minnesota

by Larry Werner

Readers of this space know that while I fell in love with Cumberland after buying a home here three years ago, I've divided my time between Wisconsin and Minnesota, where my wife, Ann, owned a business. Notice the past tense – owned – since she sold Whitewater Learning two weeks ago.

Because her business involved selling online professional-development courses to Minnesota educators, it seemed prudent to keep our primary residence in the Twin Cities. And since her clients and employees were in Minnesota, we've been doing a commuter marriage for three years, which has involved my spending the weekdays here and visiting my wife on weekends.

I'm happy to report that the commuter marriage is over, and we're in the process of making the Badger State our primary home. I haven't figured out exactly how to do that, and I'm pondering some questions that arise from the process of immigrating to the land of milk and Honey Weiss.

For example:

- Do I have to give up my Vikings jersey for one of those plastic cheddar hats? I'm not sure I can do that, but after a few years in Minnesota, I relinquished my loyalty to the Detroit Lions, whom I grew up following, and began cheering for the best team to never win a Super Bowl. And I never thought I'd like Brett Favre, but did after he abandoned the Pack for the Vikes.

- Must I keep a stash of beef jerky in the glove compartment rather than Pearson's Nut Goodies? It's not that I don't like Wisconsin's official snack, and

I admire a company that can make Sasquatch into a loveable creature mistreated by humanoids. It's that chewing on a tough chunk of dried meat seems like a lot of work. But I have to report that my daughter, a bit of a health-food nut, began chewing jerky after taking up with a Cumberland boy.

- Should I start buying fireworks to shoot off when the kids and grandkids come for the Fourth of July after living more than 30 years in a state where those things were illegal?

But seriously, folks, it is a tad daunting to give up residence in a place where you raised your kids, spent the better part of a career, voted and owned seven homes. I've changed addresses many times in 34 years, but always within Minnesota.

However, it's time to trade Minnesota's high income taxes for Wisconsin's high property taxes. It's time to trade the blue and white license plate for red and white. It's time to answer with the word "Cumberland" when someone asks where I live.

Frankly, that sounds pretty good.

When I was getting the mail in the lobby of our Eagan, Minn., apartment building last Thursday, the building manager said she had passed through "your town" on her way to a campground near Spooner. "That looks like a pretty place, with all the flags along the street," she said.

Yes, Cumberland is my town. And, I guess, Wisconsin is my state now.

But I think I'll still cheer for the Vikings.

Something You Should Know About New Dining Surprises at the Cumberland Senior Center

by Hope Lee Vicich

Lately, we have been singing the praises of all the great activities available during the summer here in Cumberland. But, as I was reminded by one of our readers, Ethel Anderson, there is a great activity that is available to Cumberland folks all year round, namely the Cumberland Senior Centers monthly eating adventure, Dining at Five.

Dining at Five is offered through the auspices of the Aging and Disability Resource Center. The program started about five years ago. Once a month, on the third Thursday, they offer an evening meal in Cumberland. Rita Vanek, who oversees the meal programs at the Senior Center, told me that Dining at Five offers patrons a more "enhanced" dinner experience. Having the meal at 5 p.m. also allows working folks, who need a later serving time, the opportunity to take advantage of the meals program. The concept behind Dining at Five was to be able to offer a more varied menu with bolder food choices. For example, this month's menu for the meal on July 20th will be beef burgundy over bowtie pasta, yellow/green beans, carrots, baby spinach salad, crusty warm french bread and berry cheesecake. Each meal also includes milk and coffee. Any adult age 60 or better can dine at a suggested donation of $6.50. Any person under 60 can also dine at the full price of $8.00. If you are looking for a home-style meal and want to get together with friends, the Senior Center invites you to "come and join us." reservations for Dining at Five must be made by the Tuesday prior to the event. Contact the center at (715) 822-8794 to reserve your spot!

While we are on the subject, Rita also wanted everyone to know of another innovative dining program being offered by the Cumberland Senior Center and the Barron County Nutrition Program. It is called, appropriately enough, "Salad Bar." On Tuesdays from 11:30 am - 1:00 pm the Senior Center noontime meal features a soup and salad bar. No reservations are needed. Any adult age 60 or better can dine at a suggested donation of $4.00. Any person under 60 can also dine at the full charge of $8.00.

The Salad Bar has plenty of variety and local favorites as requested. It includes a tasty homemade soup, homemade desserts, bread, milk and coffee. To make the Salad Bar even more unique and nutritious, during the summer, some lettuces and herbs are grown on site in the Center's own garden! Rita says the selection always includes cottage cheese various salads and jellios as well as the "usual fixin's and pickled herring, too!" The Salad Bar is very popular. Rita said that the average attendance at the noon meals is between eight to 12 people, but on Salad Bar days, attendance can jump to over 25 people. Rita says she thinks the homemade soup and desserts are the reason!

Rita told me she feels that the key to both Dining at Five and Salad Bar are that they give people more options for nutritious meals "outside of a box." "We are trying to keep the Meals on Wheels concept fresh by offering new experiences."

For more information on either program you can contact Rita at the Cumberland Senior Center at (715) 822-8794. Remember, both programs are open to the public - you don't have to be a Senior to take advantage of some yummy food and great company.

Highview at Augustana on July 15th

Kormann Family perform at Stanfold Lutheran

Kormann Family

Stanfold Lutheran Church continues their summer concert series on Sunday, July 16 with the Kormann Family. The Kormann Family is a group of very talented family members who entertain with classic gospel favorites as well as newer praise music. Children and adults of all ages sing and play many instruments. These charming musicians will quickly become a favorite of many. The group will perform at 9:30 AM as part of our worship service and continue with a concert after service. Following the service and performance, a meal will be served. Admission to the concert and dinner is free and open to the public. A free-will offering will be available for those wishing to donate to offset the travel expenses of the group.

Stanfold's concert series will end with the astounding Higher Vision quartet on August 6. Stanfold Lutheran Church is located 5 miles west of Rice Lake on Highway 48. It is interesting to watch “the passing parade” every day in the newspaper. This week I saw that bastion of Christianity, Hobby Lobby’s exposed clay feet as they were fined three million bucks for illegally purchasing and importing antiquities from Iraq. The news says the total number is somewhat north of 5,000. The corporate line is something about not knowing the law - Right, I sure believe that!

This past weekend, Sharon and I traveled, to Spring Green, to the American Players outdoor theatre to see a production of Shakespeare’s “Midsummer Night’s Dream.” If you enjoy legitimate theatre and can see only one play this summer, this is the one for you. It is a tremendous production, full of laughter and energy from the opening scene to the curtain call, it is a marvelous experience. Take the time and drive to Spring Green. It will be an evening you won’t forget.

It is that time of year when all of the fresh vegetables and fruits become available from our local farmers. Don’t miss area farmer’s markets, as the season is short and then we have to wait over the long cold winter, making due with imported veggies and fruits that just don’t taste as good.

Ole and Lena were sitting around the house one evening when the phone rang. Ole answered, listened for a minute and said - “How should I know, it is 500 miles from here.” He then slammed the phone down. “Who was that and what did they want,” asked Lena. “Oh, it was just Sven and he wanted to know if the coast was clear,” replied Ole. SEE YOU NEXT WEEK!

Inside Wisconsin by Tom Still

As Foxconn spec continues, Wisconsin wins just by being on the map

MADISON – There was a time, and not so long ago, when Wisconsin didn’t show up on the radar screens of businesses and national site-selection consultants looking for places to grow.

The reasons ranged from “bi-coastal bias” toward states in the East and West, lingering impressions of a Rust Belt economy and perceptions that talent and ideas were more easily found elsewhere.

That has changed of late as those same businesses and site selectors have discovered that Wisconsin and other Midwest states offer affordable business costs, a strong physical infrastructure, an increasingly diverse economic base and creative people who aren’t afraid to set an alarm clock every work day.

Those factors and more are likely why Foxconn, the global firm known best for assembling Apple’s iPhones, is considering Wisconsin along with a few other states as places to build some sort of manufacturing plant.

That much alone is a win for Wisconsin, because other companies that might have deemed Wisconsin as “fly-over” land in the past now see it as a place to land and stay. Regional economic development groups in parts of Wisconsin are seeing a surge in requests for information from site selectors, a process that began even before reports of Foxconn’s interest surfaced.

Here are points to consider as speculation swirls around Foxconn’s interest in building a plant in Wisconsin:

- Wisconsin won’t win a straight-up bidding war for a Foxconn facility. Other states on the list have deeper pockets for government incentives such as tax credits. If the competition comes down to a beauty contest over dollars, Wisconsin will be crowned “Miss Congeniality.” If other tangible business factors are considered, such as talent, location and overall costs, the state could be smiling and waving to the crowd.
- Don’t get fixated on predictions of 10,000 new jobs. In an age when automation is king, the actual number of jobs involved could be much smaller in a brand-new plant. It’s better to manage job-creation expectations, especially for the shorter term.

This may not be a winner-takes-all sweepstakes. Because Foxconn has several divisions and product lines, it may be considering multiple plants with different functions. For example, the company acquired Sharp last fall, and may want to manufacture television and other display screens sets in the United States due to the size of its market. It could choose to produce other electronics elsewhere.

A win for Racine or Kenosha counties would not be a loss for Rock or Dane counties. The supply-chain needs for Foxconn would be significant and could be locally sourced in many cases. Other industries that are core to Wisconsin – such as industrial equipment, power electronics, papermaking and medical devices – are part of larger clusters than have grown up around them in Wisconsin over time.

It’s a team effort and better look like one. Company leaders don’t like political dysfunction because they can imagine getting caught in the crossfire. So far, it appears state government and local governments are playing well together in the sandbox. Republicans such as Gov. Scott Walker and Democrats such as Kenosha County Executive Jim Kreuser are on the same team. Higher education, public and private, will be involved in demonstrating the capacity of the state’s research and development sectors.

The outcome of the state budget debate over transportation funding could affect Foxconn’s decision. If Walker and the Legislature don’t agree soon on a transportation funding deal, it might trigger unease among Foxconn executives who want to be sure products get to market via road, rail and air.

With a decision expected this summer, Wisconsin will know soon how it places in a beauty contest that may have more than one winner.

Cumberland came in for a bit of notoriety Monday, when a local resident, Kenneth J. Callahan, 52, was arrested at his home on the east side of Kirby Lake, in connection with the kidnaping of Mrs. Virginia Piper of Orono, Minnesota on July 27, 1972. Also charged with Callahan is Donald Larson, a former resident of Pine County, MN., who is serving a life term in Stillwater State Prison for the murder of five persons, including family members last year. Callahan and Larson are close and have been for some time. The FBI alleges that Callahan took Mrs. Piper at gunpoint, drove her to Jay Cooke State Park near Duluth and held her until her husband gathered 50,000 $20 bills and dropped them off. Only about $4,000 of money has been recovered. Callahan became a suspect in the case from the very beginning. Since he has been a resident in this community his activities have been under surveillance by the FBI.

At the annual School Board meeting held on July 8th, the School Board called for a resolution giving it the authority to proceed with plans for the construction of a new high school building. The resolution was approved after a short discussion. A limit of $850,000 was set by the resolution in connection with the cost of the proposed building. The issue, which had been expected to provoke the greatest amount of discussion, the site of the new school building, turned out to be much less of a problem than had been anticipated. The site, chosen as the best by the UM survey team, the School Board, and Monday by the voters, includes about 41 acres, part of which is now in hilly terrain and lowland located at the northwest corner of Collingwood Lake. About half of the land will be given to the school by W. G. Talbot and the remainder sold at a minimum price.

The public is invited to the Grand Opening of Bona Casa Foods at their new building on County Highway T on Sunday July 14th. Bona Casa Foods started in September, 1954, by Mr and Mrs. Tom Ricci who felt there was a need for good Italian sauces for the food market. They began in the kitchen of their home and sold spaghetti and pizza sauce and later a chicken sauce. The business prospered, then the kitchens were set up in the basement of their home. As public acceptance grew Mr. and Mrs. Ricci began to make plans for a separate building. Capacity production in the kitchen was 48 pints of sauce per day. After moving to the basement’s larger area as many as 20 cases a day were turned out. Last fall production of pizza pies were added to the line and routes on which the products were sold were extended. Since the operation has moved to the new building the rate of production has stepped up from 225 pies to

Daniel J. Swessel, 33, of Rice Lake, has been charged with false imprisonment, repeater, misdemeanor battery, repeater, misdemeanor intimidation of a victim, repeater, possession of methamphetamine, repeater, and possession of drug paraphernalia, repeater.

The criminal complaint states that on July 4, 2017, at approximately 2:29 p.m. Barron County Deputy Winkler responded to a 911 call from an individual, E.S., who indicated she was near fire number 948 on 13th Street, and had indicated that Daniel Swessel had taken off on foot in a wooded area west of the vehicle she was at. Deputy Winkler had previously been made aware of a 911 call from E. S. indicating that she had found a male subject sleeping in her driveway, who was identified as Swessel, and that she was in the vehicle and he was refusing to stop and let her out. In the initial call she indicated they were south on Highway 25, at which point dispatch indicated that she was screaming and then they lost connection with her.

Upon his arrival at the area on 13th Street, Deputy Winkler observed a silver vehicle parked in the middle of the road, which was listed to Daniel Swessel. Deputy Winkler made contact with E. S., who indicated that she had come home from work and noticed Swessel in a vehicle in her driveway on East Division Avenue in Barron. She said she went inside the residence and when she came back out the vehicle was still there and he was inside the vehicle. She approached the vehicle and opened the passenger door to confront him. She said during their conversation she did enter the vehicle and asked what was going on with him, to which he responded that he was sleeping. While they were talking an argument ensued and he took off eastbound on Highway 8. E. S. told him she wanted to go home when they were at approximately the A & W restaurant in Barron. He turned around and continued westbound on Highway 8 towards her residence, however he did not stop at the residence and continued southbound on Highway 25. At that point she called 911. However, when she was on the phone, he took the phone from her and threw it out on Highway 25 near the First Lutheran Church in the City of Barron. The argument continued and as he continued south on Highway 25 near 13th Street, he stopped the vehicle.

E. S. attempted to grab his phone to call 911, but it was dead and at some point during their argument, he had grabbed onto her head by her hair and pulled her head back. She also stated she had been punched several times in the head. At some point he stopped the vehicle in the middle of the road and she got out of the vehicle to try and wave down a vehicle and ask for help. At this point Swessel took off on foot eastbound into the ditch. However, he returned, at which point she locked herself in the vehicle and she saw him take some type of black jacket out of the truck and again take off on foot. He came back to the vehicle a third time and then took off in a field heading eastbound.

Deputy Weise also responded to the call and attempted to locate Swessel in a wooded area near where the initial contact took place, but was unsuccessful in locating him.

Deputy Weise backtracked to the area on 13th Street where E. S. indicated Swessel had gone down into a ditch on the east side of 13th Street and had possibly stashed a black jacket in the ditch given the fact that she saw him go down in the area with it and when he came back up he did not have it. Deputy Weise went to the area she pointed out and he could clearly see where someone had gone in the tall grass and left a trail through the grass. He followed that trail to the base of a telephone pole and located a black backpack. He seized the backpack and found various items in it that appeared to be related to the usage of methamphetamine. That backpack was turned over to the Barron Police Department.

After locating the backpack, Deputy Weise continued to search the general area and while having contact with several landowners, he observed a male come walking out of the woods. Deputy Weise detained this individual and identified him as Daniel Swessel and took him into custody.

If convicted Swessel may be fined not more than $40,500, or imprisoned for not more than ten years and four months. However since he is a repeater in all charges his imprisonment may be increased by not more than twelve years. His driver's license may also be suspended for not more than ten years. His preliminary hearing is scheduled for July 20, 2017.

Adam D. Johnson, 35, of Rice Lake, has been charged with operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated, 5th, and operating a motor vehicle after revocation of his driver's license, 1st.

The criminal complaint states that on Sunday, July 2, 2017, at approximately 5:40 p.m. Cumberland Police Officer Chafer was advised that there was a domestic disturbance at a convenience store in Cumberland. The caller advised the subjects were in a black Chevy and gave him the Minnesota license plate number.

Officer Chafer responded to the scene where he observed the vehicle parked toward the door of the store. There was a male subject in the driver's seat and a female in the passenger seat.

Officer Chafer asked the driver for his driver's license and the driver said he did not have it. Officer Chafer noticed the odor of intoxicants coming from the driver and his eyes were bloodshot and glassy. The driver was identified as Adam Johnson. The female subject said they were just having a disagreement.

A subject advised she was the one who told the employee to call the police. She said he heard the female yelling at the male to let her out of the vehicle and he would not let her get out. She said she was concerned for the female's safety.

Officer Chafer asked Johnson to perform field sobriety tests, which he agreed to do, but failed to perform satisfactorily. Johnson was placed under arrest for operating while under the influence.

A sample of Johnson's blood was taken and mailed to the state hygiene lab. A preliminary breath test at the jail showed a reported value of .182.

If convicted Johnson may be fined not more than $28,100 or imprisoned for not more than 11 years, or both. His driver's license will also be revoked for not more than three years and six months. He will also be ordered to submit to alcohol and drug abuse assessment and to comply with treatment as a condition of reinstatement of his driver's license. His preliminary hearing is scheduled for July 18, 2017.

Wayne A. Rogers, 59, of Turtle Lake, has been charged with intentionally abuse a hazardous substance, and misdemeanor bail jumping. (Failure to comply with the terms of his bond by committing a new crime).

The criminal complaint states that on Saturday, July 1, 2017, at approximately 9:47 p.m. Turtle Lake Police Officer Traczyk was called to Maple Street in Turtle Lake, for a report of a male holding another subject on the ground.

When Officer Traczyk arrived he observed three subjects in front of the Maple Street address, and observed a male subject being held on the ground by another male. The male on the ground was identified as Wayne Rogers. The other male was identified as the homeowner.

As Officer Traczyk exited his squad car he asked what was going on, and Rogers said "I was in his shed." Officer Traczyk asked Rogers why he was in the shed, ad Rogers said, "I was huffing." Rogers has been arrested multiple times in Turtle Lake for huffing gasoline. Rogers admitted the gasoline belonged to the homeowner.

Earlier in the week, the Turtle Lake Police Department received another call from the homeowner reporting Rogers was in his yard. When officers arrived, Rogers had fled from the scene and was not located. Rogers was aware he was not allowed on that property.

The homeowner reported he was in his house when he looked outside and saw Rogers enter his shed. He said he went outside and confronted Rogers, who attempted to run, but the homeowner ran after him and tackled him to the ground yelling for neighbors to call the police.

Officer Traczyk reports inside the shed there was a red plastic container filled with gasoline. The lid had been removed.

If convicted Rogers would be fined not more than $20,000 or imprisoned for not more than one year and six months, or both. His hearing is scheduled for August 23, 2017.

Tina A. Huehn, 40, of Cumberland, has been charged with disorderly conduct.

According to the criminal complaint, on Saturday, July 1, 2017, at approximately 12:56 a.m., the Barron County Sheriff's Department received a 911 complaint advising Tina Huehn was at a residence on 9th Street in Cumberland honking the horn and would not leave the driveway. The caller reported Huehn was yelling and screaming, which could be heard on the 911 call.

While en route Deputy Allen was advised Huehn was pounding on the door of the vehicle and causing a disturbance and threatening to hurt S. M. As deputies got closer to the residence they were advised Huehn had taken off in a vehicle.

DNR Outdoor Report summary for week of July 12, 2017

Beautiful weather brings out crowds for Fourth of July; water levels still high but some beginning to recede

Some beautiful weather over the Fourth of July holiday had many people out enjoying parks and forests, with campgrounds very busy. While some rain fell over the weekend it was considerably less than the state has received in previous weeks.

Water levels have started to recede but are generally still well above the long-term average for this time of year on most river systems. A few sandbars are starting to reappear on the Lower Wisconsin State Riverway. Water levels remain high on the Rock and Crawfish rivers and slow no wake rules are in effect on the Rock from the Dodge County line to Lake Koshkonong.

Early morning calls of loons are being heard in the Northwoods while evening have been filled with calls of the hermit thrush, veery and winter wren. Eaglets are fledging and goslings and ducklings are getting pretty big. Grouse coveys have been seen by lots of visitors to the Flambeau River

State Forest, a good indicator of the grouse population. Deer antlers are growing big enough now to start showing branching.

Blue flag iris are still blooming in some Northwoods swamps, where the dainty partridge berry is also in bloom. Wild bergamot is about to bloom in open grassy areas.

These warm July nights, especially after a rain, are an excellent time to get outside after dark to watch the fire flies. This weekend also brings July's full moon--the full "Buck" moon and a number of full moon events are scheduled around the state.

Ripe wild strawberries are a treat for walkers; hopefully, blueberries are not far behind. Blackberry plants are setting their fruits, and it looks like the upcoming blackberry crop will be tremendous. Copious moisture sure helps with fruit development. Blackberries are of great importance to a wide range of wildlife for food and cover. In excess of 100 bird species eat blackberries, as well as raccoons, chipmunks, squirrels, and black bears

DNR to hire 20 full-time conservation wardens

New and experienced urged to apply

The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources Bureau of Law Enforcement has announced it will hire 20 full-time conservation wardens to fill vacancies statewide in a process officials say will recognize experience in compensation packages and welcome all levels of applicants.

Lt. Jeffrey King, bureau assistant training director who has been a conservation warden for more than 17 years, said the application period opened Friday, June 30, and close at the end of the business day on July 14th. Those new to law enforcement as well as experienced law enforcement officers are encouraged to apply for what King calls a career bigger and more diverse than the entire Wisconsin outdoors.

"The level of experience of each applicant will be considered in compensation," King said. The group of 20 will start in January and become the Class of 2018.

"I came to be a warden from working as a county sheriff's patrol deputy. I can say this is a career that is bigger than the outdoors that wardens strive to protect - and the people who enjoy all those resources," King said, adding wardens will work in the open land and water areas as well as state forests and parks. "This is a career rich with opportunities, diversity and responsibilities. It is hard work without a doubt, but incredibly satisfying."

Warden John Sinclair, chair of the bureau's Warden Recruitment Committee, says the career not only is a good fit for those passionate about the resources and ensuring the safety of those enjoying those resources, but also looking for balance. "The warden career is fulfilling - with the benefit that it is loaded with variety and flexibility many are looking for," Sinclair said.

Canada, As Good as it Gets!

Hello friends,

The ability to take and enjoy harsh weather. Getting along with eight family members and friends for seven days without seeing another person, staying up very late at night and thoroughly enjoying fishing are all requirements for a seven day Canadian, fly-in fishing trip.

Wednesday, June 21st

Last night was another one of those nights where the first of us went to bed at 3:30 and the last two were still standing at 6:00 a.m. That may sound a bit off the wall to you but we come here from as far away as Walker, Louisiana and each of us knows the importance of getting every possible minute out of an experience like this and we always have.

So here is the scoop! Today is day five on Shultz Lake (Chimo Lodge and Outposts). As usual, we have had an excellent breakfast and everyone will head out of camp at about 11:00 and will return at 10:30 tonight.

Our new guy this year is David Nelson who is in his late 20s and is Jeff Moll's nephew. David was just married in March (I went to his bachelor party on Fox Lake, camping, fishing, staying up late).

When we leave for the day it's a big deal, as you have to pack everything from a days worth of night-crawlers, to snacks, rain gear and some beverages.

All nine of us were about to head out when David mentions his wedding ring is missing. After a quick hunt, we find it on the edge of our boat pier. David had put on sunscreen and it made his ring fall off. We are all happy and David is putting his ring on and in front of all eight of us, he bobbles it, just about catches it, misses it and it falls between the boards on the pier, bounces off the rocks underneath and vanishes.

That my friends, is life for the Canada Gang. After hard work and a hunt, the ring is found in the water, between some rocks.

Something that is tradition and stupid, unless you are part of this gang, is when you come back to camp at the end of the day, you do several circles in front of camp with your boat and hoot and holler, if someone else is coming into camp at the same time a friendly game of "boat wars" takes place.

Lures that catch us fish and win the most daily/ weekly northern pike and walleye bets! The night crawler harness with a 1.5-ounce bottom bouncer or a floating jig on a bottom bouncer wins almost all eight of those bets.

For gators that can be the pretty interesting. Last year, my 16-year-old daughter Selina picked out a pink and white Dare Devil for her new lure to try out. That choice caught Selina a 40-inch gator and three over 35.

This year my nephew, Trent Schuster, who is 25ish, is leading the big gator contest with a 38 5/8 inch fish with the pink and white Dare Devil.

Friday, June 23rd

High 59, low 47

Today is our last full Day on this adventure and I would be fishing with Selina and my brother-in-law, Dick Schuster. We would travel seven miles by boat, do a hike to another boat/lake, drive this boat to another trail and then hike to a lake called Thunder.

As soon as we reached Thunder Lake, we could see the storm clouds were brewing. Thunder Lake is known for having big northern pike and naturally I was throwing the two ounce, Musky "Red Eye". That lure has won me the gator contest the last two years, though it does not catch you a lot of fish, big fish like to eat it.

We know our time is limited due to the approaching weather, which has been the norm this week. We are doing 500-yard drifts in a bay that is about six-eight feet deep. I like to fan cast the Red Eye and figure Trent is gonna win big gator and Selina's big walleye with a 28.5 that she caught on Tuesday.

A big fish hits my lure; it is close to the boat and strong. The wind pushes us hard and fast and the big gator is under the boat. I get lucky and maneuver the gator away from the boat and up wind.

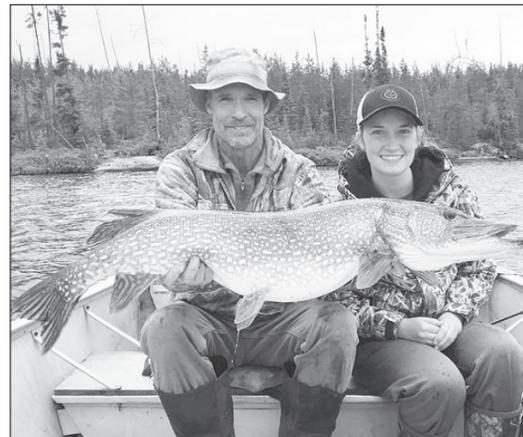

Dick is great with the net; the gator is 41.75 inches and the true definition of obese. Just before we released it Dick says "sorry Trent" and life is grand in my world.

Deer Camp and Shultz Lake, the best two weeks of the year!

Barronett News By Judy Pieper

Lots of stuff has been going on here since I last wrote to you. The Fourth of July, the Rodeo, plans for Barronett Lutheran Bible School, visitors--the list goes on and on.

First of all, I have to tell you about the plans for Bible School this year. Peg Thompson, our youth leader, Judy Norton, Laura Maginnes and I met for about an hour this past Sunday afternoon to get all the ducks in a row. Bible School will be held at Barronett Lutheran, naturally, and will run from August 7th until the 11th from 10:00 a.m. until 1:30 p.m. The theme this year is wild west adventure and there will be all kinds of things to do. Line dancing, games, prizes, skits, music, and of course, learning Bible stories. We will be providing lunch and snacks for the kids, and everyone age 4 to 12 is invited. We're hoping that some of them will bring their friends along. We are very excited about having Vacation Bible School at our church again this year.

We were happy to welcome a couple visitors to Barronett Lutheran on July 2nd. Patty and Ron Weegman, who reside in Louisiana in the winter, have some wooded land over by Sylvan Lake and they plan to spend the summers here in God's country now. We hope they will be frequent visitors to our church. We told them that the place to be for breakfast is the Red Brick Cafe, and we saw that they took our advice one morning this past week.

We couldn't have had much better weather for the Fourth of July, could we? Duane and I went to the fireworks in Shell Lake this year, brought our lawn chairs, and sat on the sidewalk by the Scoop and Brew. We had a perfect view of all the "ooh-aahs" and we had a chance to visit with lots of friends, neighbors and relatives during the show. And, of course, we ate some great appetizers from Lakeview (courtesy of Art and Jill Adams) and way too much ice cream from the Scoop and Brew.

Joanne and Russ Birus traveled up from Plato, MO. to have one of Beth's famous burgers at Barronett Bar and Grill. They decided that as long as they were in the area they might as well take a little time to visit with family and friends. They went to Mary and Mike Rogers' home on July 4th for their annual family get-together and fishing contest. And they went out to eat many, many times-to Buckhorn Bar & Grill, Country Inn, County Line and Bona Casa just to name a few. Russ said that he is still busy carving, but instead of carving those beautiful fish, he took some lessons from Phil Odden and is now doing Norwegian style carving. Joanne is still doing quilting. I think I will go on the internet and see if they have a website where I can view some of the things they have done.

Lynn Thon and her entire family, Garrett, Kandice and Kane Thon and Jamie, Scott, Kaitlynn and Jessica Holmen, watched the fireworks together on the beach at Shell Lake. Lynn said that Kane, who you probably know is two years old, was just fascinated by the display. I thought he might be afraid of all the noise and brilliant lights, but that little guy is fearless. The only thing he is afraid of is being put down for a nap.

Jim Copus and his girlfriend, Donna, were at the fireworks too, and after everything was over they stayed for about 45 minutes talking to us. That was the greatest thing ever, because then, by the time I walked a bout a quarter mile to get to the car, the crowd was gone. Driving through town was about like driving in Shell Lake on a normal Wednesday afternoon in the winter. No traffic to stop for.

Jim and his family and friends were all up at his campsite on Sand Creek for the holiday. They all had a great time sitting around the campfire, playing games and eating way more sweets than they should have. On the Fourth of July, Jim and Donna went to Jack and Maxine Kohel's home on Rice Lake to watch the fireworks. They could see Governor's Island perfectly, and they said the display was magnificent. And, of course, they had a great time visiting too.

Jay and Marcia Olson and family were up from Clinton, MO. for the Fourth. They spent the evening of the Fourth at Kenny and Jackie Sparish's house and Jay said that he has never seen such a beautiful display of fireworks.

Jim and Summer Marsh invited us to their cabin on Long Lake on Friday before the Fourth. They had a bunch of people over for supper and a bonfire. The kids were having a lot of fun fishing off the docks, and we had a lot of fun baiting hooks and watching them pull in little sunfish. The food was delicious. Summer made her specialty which is "dead man's pork," and of course, there were lots of salads, veggies and desserts. Next year we are going to go to Jim and Summer's cabin on July 3rd and watch the fireworks there.

The Lehmann family had some very special guests at their Fourth of July celebration at Kevin and Kate O'Neil's cabin by Turtle Lake. Randy Lehmann and John Libra were there, of course, and some of their friends Simon, Kristina and Gustav Thomsen from Borup, Denmark joined them. Anita and all the rest of the Lehmann family were there as well, and everyone enjoyed playing games and eating the delicious potluck food.

Randy, John, Simon, Kristina and Gustav took some time out of their busy schedule to visit Jeremy Olson and Miriah Lehmann's arena in rural Shell Lake while they were here. Kristina and Gustav had never been on a horse in their entire lives, and they both took a turn on Tru's horse, Coop. They seemed to think that was petty thrilling. Randy, who hadn't been on a horse for years, also rode Coop around the arena a couple times. Simon didn't ride a horse, but he has been on a camel ride in Spain, so I guess he could have handled a horse if he had wanted to. The Danes seem to have a very good time while they were here, and the Lehmann family members were very happy to welcome them.

The Heart of the North Rodeo in Spooner was great! Lynn Thon and I went on Friday evening and enjoyed every moment. The mutton busters were the cutest, of course. The little guy who won was interviewed by Kelly Kenny afterward and was told he would get two wonderful prizes, the first being a trophy, and the second a kiss from Spooner Rodeo Queen Missa Taylor. When asked if he wanted a kiss, he said "nope," so she high-fived him instead. He'll probably regret that decision some day.

Anitia Lehmann went on Saturday evening with Pat and DeEtte Fankhauser and Ralph Feldhacker. She said that she enjoyed the entire evening except that she was hoping Jeremy Olson would win the calf roping event. I talked to Miriah Lehmann later, and she said that the calf that Jeremy was roping stepped through the loop with one front foot after he had lassoed its head, so it was difficult to nearly impossible to get the legs tied properly. She said that Jeremy was pleased with the way his horse performed though, and wasn't too disappointed that he didn't win. Jeremy's friend, Casey Hume, who is also from Wisconsin, won the calf roping event this year.

Duane and I and Jerry Marsh went to Oregon, WI. on Saturday for a graduation party for Hayley Copus. We enjoyed visiting with all the family gathered there and, of course, over eating because there was way too much great food. After we left the party we stopped by Don and Virginia Hook's home to visit for a few minutes. Dawn and Jerry Birk were there visiting too and Jerry told us about his exciting fishing trip with his son-in-law Brandt. Brandt had decided to try musky fishing for the first time, so they went out, he threw in his bait and caught a 50 inch musky. Jerry had a picture of it on his phone, naturally, and the thing was a monster. I bet Brandt thinks that it's no big deal to pull a fish that size out of the lake-what the heck, he did it the first time he tried.

Oh, I almost forgot to tell you-I got the cutest birthday card from Elmer and Donna Anderson and I'm going to use it for the joke of the week. There are two farmers standing by a corn field and one says, "You know what the most common crime committed by corn is? The other says, "No, what?" And, the answer is "Stalking." Thanks, Donna and Elmer. You made my day.

Okay, I have to run. This is getting way too long but so much has been going on. You have a great week now, and I'll see you next time.

Life on the Family Farm Under an Open Heaven

By: Tom Heck

We Get To Do It

A couple days ago, when I was out in the barn feeding the cows, something that happened many years ago came to my mind. I was surprised because I hadn't thought about it in years. But, it brought a smile to my face and I then realized that I had to write about it.

I had just returned home from the hospital with strict orders from the doctor not to do any work for a while. It was hard for me to sit around and recuperate and watch my family and neighbors do my work. But, I pretty much did that, although I did do a little bit of light work. I just couldn't sit and do nothing. I'm sure many people reading this can relate.

On one particular day my two young children came into the house and told me that the tire on one of our chopper boxes had gone flat. It was obvious that it needed fixing and I couldn't do it. I told them we had one of two choices: they could take the tire off, or we could have our neighbor take it off and take it into the tire shop to get it fixed. I told them if they wanted to do it, I would come out and help them. They were all smiles and readily agreed to it. "We get to do it!" they said to each other as they ran out of the house.

Catherine carried a lawn chair down to the shed for me to sit in while Joshua got his tool box. Then he had to run back to the shop and get a jack and some blocking. My part in all of this was to give them advice when they needed it and only when they asked for it. This was their project. They were so excited; this was the first time in their lives that they were getting to change a tire all by themselves. What's more, Joshua was getting to use some of his own tools that he had received for Christmas. You know he couldn't use my old tools; it had to be his new ones!

They started out by blocking the wagon good and then Joshua jacked it up and tried to break the lug bolts loose, but the wheel turned for him. He said to me, "What do I do?" I replied, "What do you think?" "Let the jack down some?" he answered. To which I said, "Yes." So he quickly scurried under the box and let the jack down some. Joshua tried with all his might to break the lug bolts loose, but couldn't. He looks at me and says, "Now what?" To which I reply, "What do you think?" He sat there thinking a few seconds and answered, "Get an extension pipe for my breaker bar?" To which I smiling said, "Yes."

He takes off running up to the shop to get it and then runs back down. He can't walk; this is just too much fun. With the extension pipe he gets them all broke loose. Then I stop him and ask them what to do next. Catherine replies, "Jack it up higher?" To which I nod my head. Then they get the bolts all out and the tire off. This all took about an hour, but were there ever big smiles on their faces. They had done it. The next day, our neighbor, Howard, took the tire along with one of his own into town and got them fixed.

With the tire back home, the kids were just itching to get it back on. I knew that tire was pretty big for my young kids to get back onto the hub. I told them if they couldn't get it, we would ask Howard to do it. But they were determined to do it, so off to the shed we went with the tire. I was happy to go out to the shed and sit in the lawn chair and supervise them; it sure beat sitting in the house.

They tried to get it on, but the hub was too low. So Joshua scurried under the wagon and jacked the jack as high as it would go. They tried to get it on then, but the hub was still too low. One of the kids said to me, "What do we do now?" To which my answer was, "What do you think?" Suddenly, Joshua's face lit up and he said, "Get another jack and blocking?" To which I only had to smile and nod my head. He took off running and returned a couple minutes later with them.

Having jacked it higher, the next thing was to get the wheel back on the hub with the holes lined up perfectly. That proved to be quite a job for them, but with much persistence they got it on. Then they put the lug bolts back in and tightened them down good. With that done, they took the jacks and all the blocking out. Their faces were just beaming; they had just changed their first tire all by themselves, and a good-sized one at that.

In this world today, I see so many young people who don't work and aren't given any responsibility. I think, 'how sad'. Their parents might think they're being nice to them in not making them work, but nothing could be further from the truth. Children need to be given work and responsibility; they need challenges. They need to do profitable things and make good use of their time.

Children who are taught to work early on and to do a good job normally make excellent workers later on when they're adults. They normally do very well in the work place and are very blessed and fulfilled.

I can't imagine not working, nor can my kids. I enjoy getting up every day, going out and working on the farm here. My wife and kids do too. And if I have a tire to change? I have two kids that are eager to do it with big smiles on their faces. They always remember that first one that they did and how much fun it was.

Watching Fireflies

By Joseph J. Mazzella

It was a Summer evening almost 30 years ago. I was rocking my baby boy in my arms and when he fell asleep I put him gently down into his crib for the night. My wife worn out from a long day of work was half napping and half watching TV in the living room. Not caring for the show I poured myself a glass of iced tea in the kitchen, took a lawn chair off our porch, and walked into the front yard to gaze at the stars.

As soon as I stepped onto the yard I heard the sweet sound of laughter drifting through the air. On the hill next to our house the neighbor's children were chasing fireflies, hoping to catch one in a mason jar. I sat down in my chair and watched them for awhile. As fast as they ran, though, they couldn't seem to catch the slow moving lightning bugs. Finally, exhausted they both sat down in the grass and just watched the little guys flying through the air, blinking their lights on and off. I sipped my tea and joined them in their awe and appreciation. It felt so good getting to see one of God's many miracles lighting up my front yard on a warm, Summer night. It made me feel a bit closer to the Divine and a part of something far greater than myself.

Over the years since then I have appreciated and enjoyed all of the glorious light in this world. I have taken it into my heart and welcomed it into my soul. I have found it in nature, books, music, animals, prayer, and most of all in the lives of those around me. I have never tried to catch this light, however. I have learned that true light and true love must come from within. It must flow freely between us and can't be captured in a jar.

The next time you see some fireflies then, take a seat and enjoy their light. Let them remind you to shine your own light as well. Let them remind you to fill your life with the brightness of your love. Let them remind you that you too are one of God's miracles in this world.

"What is Love?"
By: Pastor Gary Dorn
Cumberland Baptist Church

We live in chaotic times! Today I read an article about a therapist who wants to change traditional beliefs about marriage. She believes that it is damaging to people to feel "trapped" in marriage as they, and their partner, change. Beginning marriage knowing that divorce is an option, she maintains, is far healthier. Really?! Honestly, it seems to me that we already live there as a society, but...REALLY!? It seems to me that the most pervasive problem in our world is failing to understand "love." In English we use this one word to cover a broad range of ideas. But, generally speaking, we seem to water the concept of "love" down to an emotional response. This is why people are "in love" (feeling the emotion) and "out of love" (no longer feeling the emotion). Being "in love" justifies any sexual partnering, and being "out of love" justifies divorce.

The primary word used in the New Testament, for the highest form of love, is "agape." I like to define agape as "sacrificially seeking the best good of others." This "love" is not limited to emotion, but involves choices and actions, and considers how others are affected. This is why the Apostle Paul prays, in Philippians 1:9-11, "And this is my prayer: that your love may abound more and more in knowledge and depth of insight, so that you may be able to discern what is best and may be pure and blameless for the day of Christ, filled with the fruit of righteousness that comes through Jesus Christ to the glory and praise of God."

"Love," that will accomplish God's purposes, needs to be discerning. It should be able to distinguish between what is "good" (for me) and what is "excellent" (pleasing to God and beneficial to others). In order for "love" to be discerning, it needs to be informed by knowledge (of God) and depth of insight (how God's creation rightly functions).

Real love will never enter marriage with one eye on the exit; it will seek the partner's best good by growing in understanding of God, learning to sacrificially serve, and discerning what is excellent for the "loved." Who would ever want to leave a relationship built on real love? Let's not open the door to divorce; let's learn what love really is!

PUBLIC NOTICES

PUBLIC NOTICE TO ALL CUSTOMERS OF THE CUMBERLAND MUNICIPAL ELECTRIC UTILITY

The Cumberland Municipal Electric Utility has filed an application with the Public Service Commission of Wisconsin (PSCW) to increase electric rates. The increase is necessary to reflect changes in operating costs, capital improvements, and a need to review and adjust the rate tariff structure since the last electric rate case in 2013.

The requested increase in revenues is an overall increase above the electric utility's present revenues of $465,227, or 12.35%. This request is detailed in the utility's electric rate application submitted to the PSCW on March 6, 2017. After review, Commission staff proposes an increase in rates of $383,834, or 9.98%. The actual change to individual customers will vary with electricity usage, class of service and the ultimate rates authorized by the Commission. If the application is approved by the PSCW as filed, the average residential customer using 597 kilowatt-hours (kWh) of electricity per month will see a monthly increase of approximately $10, or 15%. The average single phase general service customer using 1,880 kWh of electricity per month would see a monthly increase of approximately $27.94, or 13%. Changes of the monthly bills in other types of customers may vary from these averages.

A telephonic public hearing on the application has been scheduled for Wednesday, July 26, 2017, at 1:30 p.m. in the Cumberland Municipal Utilities office. Scheduling questions regarding this hearing may be directed to the PSCW at 608-267-9816.

AT&T Ballpark in San Francisco

West Coast Baseball Trip...

The West Coast trip began in San Francisco. We flew in on Saturday, June 24, and check into our Double Tree Motel. We had a few hours to explore the area before meeting with our travelers at 8:00 p.m. that night. We were pleased to find that five of our bus group have been on previous trips with us.

Repeat customers are not uncommon and speak well about Buckley Tours. The goal of some customers is to see all the ballparks and this offers the best chance to do just that. Couples, a dad and a son, and friends who enjoy the game make up most bus groups. There is something for everyone in each trip.

The cities and parks are tremendous on the West Coast. Unfortunately, the travel between these cities is up to six hours away. The banter on the bus travel, to and fro, makes this time pass quickly, however. Stories fly and a movie and a stop or two make things go quickly. Soon another game and look at an amazing city is in front of us.

Sunday provides just that as we headed to San Francisco's AT&T Park sitting in San Francisco Bay. We can see the Bay from our seats and picture opportunities are incredible. The Mets ruin the day for the hometown crowd, but most of us don't care. The Dodger fans outnumber the Giant fans three-to-one on our bus, so the cheers for the visitors victory come from these West Coast rivals.

We then dropped off our group at Fisherman's Wharf for a walk and dinner. We watch the seals sleep and play before eating dinner with Alcatraz staring at us from our restaurants window-side-table. San Francisco is a must-see city.

Seeing part of a city is common on these trips. Besides the games, I've had the opportunity to visit Gettysburg, tour nine different ballparks, tour the Football Hall of Fame, and walk around Times Square in New York as part of our activities. It is a great way to see the top sites in the United States. For that reason, we often have people from other countries take advantage of combining baseball and seeing the United States. I've had people from Australia to Norway on my busses in the past. This year, David Moy from England, has joined us, his third time on a Buckley Tour.

The next day takes us to Dodger Stadium in Los Angeles. The third oldest park in the country offers a historic stop. A beautiful day provides a great picture of the downtown from the top deck of the stadium. We then headed down to our lower level seats along the first base line. Great seats are typical with Buckley trips. We will sit in the lower deck at every one of our parks over the next four days.

Day three took us into the heat of Arizona. We were lucky that Chase Field is a domed stadium as 109-degrees awaits our arrival. The trip took us from 109-degrees to the need for a jacket in Oakland and San Francisco. Our travelers were prepared for every encounter as our backpacks carry the essentials needed for what we run across.

The Diamondbacks defeated the Cardinals in an exciting 10-inning victory. A walk-off hit in the bottom of the 10th makes for a lot of discussion on the bus as we head to our Drury Inn Motel. The bus is filled with great personalities. A retired police officer, three lawyers, numerous teachers, and others share dialogue about the activities of the day as well as their own stories about baseball. A gentleman who grew up in Cuba shared interesting stories of Havana in his youth.

The next day took us to beautiful San Diego. A typical 72-degree day allowed us to take in some of the surroundings of the area before entering the stadium. Some go in quickly to try and get a baseball during batting practice. Two younger boys on the trip come away with two balls each during our six stops. Others find a restaurant for dinner or walk the area to look at the areas historic sites, before heading in.

Our motel that night was only a mile from the park, so we get there around 10:00 pm. Located near "Little Italy", Marty and I walked up there before retiring for the night to revisit an area we spent five days in last summer, while hosting the All-Star Game Tour. I fondly remember the great spaghetti and meat balls I ate last July.

Thursday morning started with a trip to the famous San Diego Zoo. It is a great morning as we rode the tour busses, walked the trails, and look at the animals that ranged from their famous Pandas to some very curious monkeys. We grab lunch at the Zoo and I buy gifts for five of our grandchildren. Everyone shares their enjoyable morning and early afternoon as we made our 60-mile trip to Angels Stadium in Anaheim for the night game.

Our treat for the evening was a pitching match-up between the Angels and their opponent the Dodgers, which included the games best pitcher, Clayton Kershaw. A Dodger victory provides our baseball fans with the highlight of watching this talented lefthander take the pitching victory.

We all concluded the trip had gone too quickly as Friday provided our last game of this quick moving vacation. We moved to Oakland, where we visit the fourth oldest stadium in the game. Although the crowd is smaller, the Oakland fans are fanatical in their support of their favorite team. We met one of these fans, a gentleman, who came up to us after seeing our shirts. Surprisingly, we soon find out he will actually be on the next trip Marty and I host. We can tell we'll enjoy our time with him.

This game offered a run at a no-hitter as the Atlanta pitcher, Mike Foltynewicz kept the home team hitless through seven innings. Something I've never witnessed live, my hopes were dashed in the eighth on an Oakland single. Nevertheless, it is a great ending to another fantastic Buckley trip.

Hugs and emails were exchanged as we ended our six days together at our San Francisco motel where it all started. We saw a few of these people the next morning as they head to the airport for their trip home. We'll all share the memories of our West Coast adventure.

The trips begin in New York, Chicago, and out West. Most, however, start from La Crosse, an easy drive from here. Our next trip includes a tailgate in Milwaukee, a rooftop game at Wrigley Field, and a suite in Cleveland, among our other games. You couldn't do these trips alone any cheaper or easier than Jay Buckley Tours will offer.

Marty and I spend a day in San Francisco before flying home on Sunday. A boat trip under the Golden Gate Bridge and around Alcatraz are part of our day. Much of the time is spent along the way, talking about how lucky we are to be able to be part of these great Buckley Baseball Tours. If interested, more information on these trips can be found at www.jaybuckley.com.

Court News...

Deputy Allen arrived at the residence and spoke with S. M. and S. S. S.M. reported Huehn arrived at the residence about 10 minutes prior to the 911 call and was cursing, yelling, driving around crazy including driving in donut circles on the property. Deputy Allen observed track marks consistent with this and observed S. M.'s vehicle was covered in mud.

S. S. advised this all started on June 30th, at approximately 6:45 p.m. when Huehn showed up to pick up their 5-year-old daughter. He stated when Huehn goes to work she drops the child off so he can watch the child throughout the day. He advised when she came to pick up the child, she was in a very agitated state and driving around erratically. He explained he was concerned for his daughter's safety and Huehn causing a disturbance in front of the children. He recorded the altercation which is approximately 17 minutes long. The video shows Huehn yelling multiple obscenities and swearing at him. At one point she reached into his vehicle and slapped him. Deputy Allen also observed Huehn driving erratically on the property. S. S. told him he asked Huehn several times to leave, and the entire altercation takes place in front of the child, who is in the vehicle and appears to be upset.

Deputy Carroll located Huehn and placed her under arrest for domestic disorderly conduct. She submitted to a preliminary breath test at the jail and the reported value was .10.

If convicted Huehn could be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned for not more than 90 days, or both. Her adjourned initial appearance was scheduled for July 19, 2017.

Correction: It had previously been reported that Tammy M. Perzichilli, 50, of Almena, had been charged with theft. That was incorrect. She had been charged with disorderly conduct. We apologize for the error.

Anyone interested in bidding can register by contacting Keith Kolpack, retired Barron FFA Advisor at kolpackk@gmail.com or Jason Erb at Citizens Community Federal in Rice Lake at jerb@ccf.us. Bidder registration can also take place on the day of the sale, with bidding numbers and registration available at the sale arena. Questions regarding the livestock project or sale can be directed to any Barron County FFA Advisor, and/or Barron County UW-Extension office at 715-537-6250. FFA Advisors include Kristin Hanson, Barron FFA, hansonk@barron.k12.wi.us; Peter Kolpack, Rice Lake FFA, kolpackp@ricelake.k12.wi.us, Arlaina Meyer, Cumberland FFA, ameyer@csdmail.com, Courtney Deetz, Prairie Farm FFA, deetz@prairiefarm.k12.wi.us, Cathy Koser, Turtle Lake FFA, ckoser@turtlelake.k12.wi.us; and Jeff Ladd, Cameron FFA, jladd@cameron.k12.wi.us

The objective of the livestock project and sale is to provide an incentive for 4-H, FFA and other youths to participate in the livestock project, an educational experience in selecting, raising and showing beef, sheep and swine. Following the motto, "learning by doing," livestock exhibitors gain valuable hands-on experiences as food producers by caring for their animals, maintaining production and financial records, and taking personal responsibility for their role as quality meat producer in the livestock industry. The Livestock Sale provides a financial incentive to do well, as buyers have traditionally paid above market prices for member's animals, recognizing the high quality of animals, and hard work and dedication of project members. Members reinvest these proceeds into their livestock project or set aside the funds for continuing their education. Many members can proudly state that their livestock project animals helped to pay for their education beyond high school.

To be eligible for the sale, project members must participate in Meat Animal Quality Assurance training, follow a code of ethics, and satisfy final weight, rate of gain, live grade, and live rank requirements. Of the animals meeting the weight, rate of gain, and grade requirements, the top 30 beef, 40 hogs and 25 lambs are sold. Students may either breed and raise their own animals or select and purchase animals their project animals.

Students register the animal at initial weigh-ins held in March and April. All animals are identified with RFID ear tags, and initial weights recorded. Final weigh-ins will take place on Tuesday, July 18 at 6:30 p.m., for sheep, and Wednesday, July 19, beginning at 8:15 a.m. for beef, with hogs to follow. All species will be analyzed using ultrasound technology to measure loin eye area, back fat and marbling for grading and carcass judging. Spectators are welcome to watch this process during the final weigh-ins at the Triebensee Memorial Barn on the fairgrounds. Live animal evaluation will take place at the following times- Sheep- 3 pm -Wednesday, July 19th, and Thursday, July 20th - Hogs at 8:00 a.m., Beef at -2 pm.

At the first annual sale in 1964, a total of 32 animals were sold for a gross sale of $2486. The 2016 event sold 95 animals and three cheese boxes from top dairy exhibitors with gross sales of $148,040. All prices are based on the live weight of the animal determined on the first day of the fair. Buyers of animals of each species with the champion rate of gain, champion live rank, champion carcass rank, and overall champion animal will receive special recognition. Over the past 53 years, it is estimated that over 5000 youth have been impacted and nearly $ 5 million in local economic activity have resulted from this project.

WJMC Radio will carry a presale broadcast on Friday morning, giving information about the beef, swine, and sheep shows and general information about the livestock sale. Sale catalogs will be available on Friday morning at the Fairgrounds, and WJMC will also carry a live broadcast of the sale from the fairgrounds.

Animals sold at the sale will be processed at the Almena Meat Company at Almena; The Butcher Shop, Rice Lake; Bob's Processing, and Lotts A Meat, both in Bloomer. Once carcass quality is determined, overall awards are determined based on rate of gain, live rank and carcass merit. The overall winner is the exhibitor with the best ranking in all three areas, and will be announced at the Livestock Carcass Show & Awards Program on Thursday, July 27th, 7:00 pm, at Barron High School. All carcass show data will be available at the awards program. Overall champions of each species will be named based on rate of gain rank, live rank, and carcass rank, and all other livestock awards for the beef, swine, and sheep project will be presented at this time.

The livestock project shows and sale are supervised by the Barron County Junior Livestock Committee, which consists of parents, project members, 4-H leaders, FFA advisors, and others interested in advancing the livestock industry. The committee's role is to design, implement and evaluate learning activities for project members, including setting educational goals for the project, as well as standards for finish weight, quality grade, rate of gain, and live rank for animals to qualify for the sale. Anyone wishing to serve on this committee should attend the September meeting of the committee or contact the UW-Extension office at 715- 537-6250.

Safe Boating Tips by Cumberland Fire & Rescue

No matter how much experience you have, it's always a good idea for everyone to review boating safety rules before departures. At the end of the day we all want to come home and that's why Cumberland Fire and Rescue wants you to review these 10 basic boating safety tips to help you stay safe and have fun:

1. Be Weather-Wise
Always check local weather conditions before departure; TV and radio forecasts can be a good source of information. If you notice darkening clouds, volatile and rough changing winds or sudden drops in temperature, play it safe by getting off the water.

2. Follow a Pre-Departure Checklist
Proper boating safety includes being prepared for any possibility on the water. Following a pre-departure checklist is the best way to make sure no boating safety rules or precautions have been overlooked or forgotten.

3. Use Common Sense
One of the most important parts of boating safety is to use your common sense. This means operating at a safe speed at all times (especially in crowded areas), staying alert at all times and steering clear of large vessels and watercraft that can be restricted in their ability to stop or turn. Also, be respectful of buoys and other navigational aids, all of which have been placed there to ensure your own safety.

4. Designate an Assistant Skipper
Make sure more than one person on board is familiar with all aspects of your boat's handling, operations, and general boating safety. If the primary navigator is injured or incapacitated in any way, it's important to make sure someone else can follow the proper boating safety rules to get everyone else back to shore.

5. Develop a Float Plan
Whether you choose to inform a family member or staff at your local marina, always be sure to let someone else know your float plan. This should include where you're going and how long you're going to be gone.

A float plan can include the following information:

- name, address, and phone number of trip leader
- name and phone number of all passengers
- boat type and registration information
- trip itinerary
- types of communication and signal equipment on-board, such as an Emergency Position Indicating Radio Beacon (EPIRB) or Personal Locator Beacon (PLB)

6. Make Proper Use of Lifejackets
Did you know that the majority of drowning victims are the result of boaters not wearing their lifejackets? Make sure that your family and friends aren't part of this statistic by assigning and fitting each member of your onboard team with a life jacket prior to departure. Wear it!

7. Avoid Alcohol
Practice boating safety at all times by saving the alcohol for later. The probability of being involved in a boating accident doubles when alcohol is involved and studies have shown that the effects of alcohol are exacerbated by sun and wind.

8. Learn to Swim
If you're going to be in and around the water, proper boating safety includes knowing how to swim. Local organizations, such as the American Red Cross and others, offer training for all ages and abilities. Check to see what classes are offered in your area.

9. Take a Boating Course
Beginning boaters and experienced experts alike need to be familiar with the boating safety rules of operation. Boater education requirements vary by state; however, some require validated completion of at least one boating safety course. Regardless of your individual state's requirements, it's always important to be educated and prepared for every circumstance that might arise. You can learn boating safety rules by taking a local community course or online course to help educate yourself.

10. Consider a Free Vessel Safety Check
Take advantage of a free vessel safety check from the US Coast Guard. They offer complimentary boat examinations to verify the presence and condition of certain safety equipment required by state and federal regulations. Free of charge, they'll provide a specialist to check out your boat and make helpful boating safety tips and recommendations. They also offer virtual on-line safety checks as well.
