Summer School classes announced at April School Board Meeting

The Cumberland school board met on Tuesday, April 17th for open session at 7:00 PM. After dispensing with business items they heard reports from students from the Island City Academy telling about their recent trip to the Wisconsin Environathon competition in Stevens Point. This was the rookie year for the middle school team and they took second in Soil. They are looking forward to competing again next year. The students also announced the upcoming Senior Capstone Project presentations, which are being hosted by the Library in May.

Athletic Director, Lorne Majewski gave a report on the slow start to the spring athletic season due to the unseasonably cold weather and large amount of snow still on all the athletic fields. They are hoping to get things cleared off at Endeavor enough for a track meet and soccer game this week.

In "action items," the 2018 summer school class handbooks were passed around and Elementary School Principal Jim Richie, who is overseeing the project, is very pleased with the wide variety of courses being offered. This year's selection also includes the return of swimming lessons being offered through the Community Ed department.

The board then went on to approve the Early College Credit program requests for four students. This program replaces the former Youth Options program and allows students who are pursuing career choices that require classes we do not offer, to take them at UWBC or WITC.

The board also approved the resignation of Justin Peterson as Assistant Wrestling coach. They thanked him for his service. He is looking to broaden his involvement and doesn't want to concentrate on just the high school level of wrestling.

Lastly, the board approved Erickson Excavating as the general contractor for the Islander Park project. Their's was the lowest bid at $177,988. Superintendent Barry Rose stated that at the current time the project is 63% funded from outside sources and he hopes that, by the time the project is completed, that number can be moved up into the 70 to 75% range.

In the administrative reports, Colin Green spoke about the sixth grade's recent trip to Wolfridge Environmental Learning Center. He stated it was a great adventure, and that during his time there (he spent the whole week this year), he actually could swear that he saw individual growth in all the students. He felt they were not the same kids that left Wolfridge as they were when they arrived. Green went on to thank the school board and the community for all the support they have given the Wolfridge program through the years and feels it is a vital part to the growth of our students in this district. He stated that "the experiences they have and the lessons they learn stay with them for a lifetime."

Finally, Barry Rose showed the plaque the board had made to honor Don Horstman 21 years of service to the Cumberland School Board. This meeting marked Horstman's last regular board meeting as President of the school board and as a school board member. Next months meeting, which is scheduled for May 21st at 6 PM for open session, will be the organizational meeting when the new board will be sworn in. The plaque will be presented to Horstman at the graduation ceremony on May 19th. The board thanked Don for his leadership and mentorship and Jonelle Gideo stated that her commitment to continued service on the board is due to the lessons she learned under Don's leadership.

Safe Prom 2018

by Sheriff Chris Fitzgerald

With most of the high school prom events happening in the county at the end of April, I thought this would be a good opportunity to make some plans for a safe and fun night. Prom is one of the most exciting times in a teen's high school experience. It's a celebratory time to mark the end of the school year, and a time that our teens will remember for the rest of their lives. Sadly, every year, some teen's prom night gets cut tragically short whether from drinking and driving or alcohol poisoning. According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, one in three teens who die in alcohol-related incidents die during prom or graduation weekend.

Luckily in Barron County our teens have taken the lead to reduce underage alcohol usage along with these terrible accidents but it is our

A View from the Lake: Beaver Dam Lake Management District Update by Tom Schreoder, President

Last Friday, Commissioner John Epple and I were returning from attending the annual Wisconsin Lake Partnership Conference, when we noticed that WE Energies had started lowering the gas main along hwy. 63/48 by the Library Lake SW storm water pond project. WE Energies has been waiting for the weather to moderate a bit so this work could be completed. The lowering of the gas main was necessary to provide clearance for new concrete storm water piping. Within the next few weeks Hwy. 63/48 will be detoured to allow the installation of new concrete piping that will carry the storm water from the highway, 4th and 5th Ave, and adjacent drainage areas to the completed pond structure at the SW corner of 5th and Hwy 63/48. Once complete, this project will prevent a significant amount of silt, sediment and phosphorus laden water from entering Library Lake. Watch for further notices about the highway closure and the detour.

In my previous "A View from the Lake" article I referenced that the Beaver Dam Lake Management District (BDLMD), applied for a WDNR Lake Protection grant to support storm water infrastructure upgrades along Jeffery Blvd. and 3rd Ave. I am pleased to report that the grant in the amount of $200,000 was awarded to the BDLMD.

Engineering of the upgrades to the various catch basin and outfall infrastructure is currently being completed by Emmons & Olivier Resources, Inc. - EOR. The present schedule is to do the work after Labor Day.

I again learned a lot from attending the Wisconsin Lake Partnership Conference. First and foremost, we are very fortunate to have the continued support of everyone to keep invasive species from entering Beaver Dam Lake. It is scary to hear the challenges and problems that invasive species have created for other lakes in Wisconsin. Many are dealing with such invasive species as the Starry Stonewort, Zebra and Quag-ga mussels, Rusty Crayfish, Chinese Mystery snail, the round goby (a small minnow like fish) and New Zealand mud snails. Then there are the invasive aquatic and land plants that are not in our lake but are appearing in Wisconsin such as Yellow floating heart, Parrot feather, Hydrilla, Water Lettuce and Yellow Iris. All these plants plus many others threaten our Lake and surrounding lands. For more information about Invasive Species please go to www.dnr.wi.gov key word "invasives."

For now, let the snow and lake ice continue to melt and bring on summer. Remember to mark your calendar for the BDLMD Annual Meeting on July 14, 2018.

It's almost SUMMER LAKER TIME and we want your summer fun photos of fishing, waterskiing, pontooning, picnics, etc.

If your photo is used in The Laker you will receive a one year FREE subscription to The Cumberland Advocate. Please either mail pictures to P.O. Box 637, Cumberland, WI, 54829

(Photos can be picked up after publication) or email to: news@cumberland-advocate.com no later than Friday, May 11th. Thanks

The orange barrels direct traffic as WE Energy crews lower the gas main at the corner of Elm (Hwy 48/63) and Third Avenue so that crews can start work on the storm water retention ponds.

The Cumberland Ski Jump

By Mark R Fuller

The City of Cumberland loves its sports and is known for its lakes, golf course, and numerous high school sports. This extended winter, however, takes us back to a time when the Island City also offered a pair of ski jumps for the residents of the Island City.

Building them was the idea of John Plichta, a High School Teacher who joined the District in the fall of 1928. Plichta had a strong background in ski jumping, including some time spent in New York with the Lake Placid Ski Jumping Club. Once featured in a picture in the Saturday Evening Post as he made a jump in Lake Placid, he would continue his passion while here, by participating in jumping contest in Superior.

That first fall, Plichta promoted a campaign to build jumps in Cumberland. He was given a five-year lease by Magnes Wolke to build on his land on the back road to the golf course, not far from where Hines Lakeview Drive stands today.

The plan included a beginners jump of 33 feet and larger jump of 70 feet. John Erickson was to be the contractor, while Nels Anderson and Nels Oslund donated their time. The two towers were to be wired by the telephone companies to keep them from falling during a storm. The cost for the project was estimated at $200.00.

By December, the money was raised and the jumps completed. Most of the money came in $1.00 and $2.00 donations. The largest amount raised was a $13.00 donation from the faculty of the high school. The Advocate said those involved in construction felt, "Cumberland was a pioneer in a sport which will become a favorite sport everywhere in the near future."

Many people would try the jump with both successes and failures. Among the best jumpers were Vernom and Raymond Nyman, who joined Plichta for jumping events in Superior. They did well despite all their training being done on Cumberland's small hill.

The School system also held contests with the high school kids jumping off the big hill and students from junior high through fourth grade leaving from the 33-foot smaller hill. In awarding places, one point was granted for each foot jumped and five points were deducted for a fall. In the first Tournament, Raymond Nyman won the senior boys division with 34 points.

Admission was charged to help pay for upkeep and additional lumber to maintain the project. Cross Country races were also part of Tournament day. The hill was to run every Saturday and Sunday, "Until the snow lasts."

Everything would be fine until July of 1930, when "One of the worst windstorms to ever devastate this section" hit town on a Sunday night. Several buildings and silos in the area were toppled. Unfortunately, among the casualties were Cumberland's ski jumps.

Plichta would leave town the following spring to take a teaching position in his hometown of West Allis. The jumps would become part of the history of the city and were never rebuilt. For a little less than two years, however, Cumberland had been part of ski jumping lore thanks to Plichta.

Safe Prom...

job as adults to make sure this continues. So how can we help our teens make wise choices and ensure that their prom night will be safe and fun?

1. Build student awareness. Talk to the kids about making good safe choices. Set the rules up front! Remind them that the choices they make today affect what happens tomorrow

2. Keep parents informed and involved. Make sure you up-to-date information about the school's prom night schedule and talk to them and ask questions about prom night plans. Parents should get a cell phone number and other contact information for their children's prom date and their parents. They should be encouraged to supervise (or at least be home) for any pre- or post-prom parties in their home

3. Make safety a top priority. Can't stress this enough

4. Enforce a strict no-alcohol and drugs policy. Alcohol and drug use pose major safety hazards for students at prom, both at the event itself and before and after.

We want everyone, including the worried parents, to make it a night to remember not regret.

Here is to a safe and fun Prom 2018.

Cumberland Healthcare goes through a computer conversion August

On August 1, 2018, Cumberland Healthcare will go through an exciting change in our Electronic Health Record. An Electronic Health Record (EHR) is used to document and track patient's information from visit-to-visit. The new EHR system is called athenaNet and will enhance the care of the patient by holding patient's medical information in one location. What will this mean for patients?

- You will be asked to present your insurance card when you come to an appointment. Please bring this information with you.

- You may be asked if staff can take your picture. This is another way for staff to positively I.D. a person upon arrival to the hospital or clinic and helps to protect patient information by having the proper identification.

- You will be asked for a cellphone number and email address. When we enter this information into the system we can use these methods to communicate appointment reminders and other information if you wish.

Library hosts Author Chad Lewis

Author Chad Lewis will be at the Thomas St. Angelo Public Library of Cumberland on Thursday, May 10 at 6:30 p.m. to discuss lake monsters of Wisconsin.

Some of the places he has explored in search of strange and unusual monsters include Lakes Superior, Monona, and Red Cedar.

The Friends of the Library will provide refreshments.

To reserve your seat email the library at cupl@cumberlandpl.org or call 715-822-2767.

mation if you wish.

• You may also be asked more questions regarding your past medical history, medications, and allergies. This is simply to confirm all of the information in the new Electronic Health Record is accurate so staff are able to provide you the best care possible.

"We are so thrilled for this new change and we cannot wait to see how it positively impacts our patient's in the community" said Hilary Schieffer, RN Clinical Informatics Specialist. "We thank you in advance for your patience and understanding. More updates will be released to the public in the future".

Cumberland Healthcare is an independent, not-for-profit; community based rural healthcare facility providing a full spectrum of services to all ages, every step of the way.

Opinion

By Craig Bucher

In my travels about town this past week, I came into contact with several merchants that want me to use their “rewards” card. “Spend so much,” they trumpet and you will get these fabulous prizes or in some cases, so much off each gallon of gas, or reduced prices on selected goods or services. Both grocery stores that we shop at offer reward cards. Two of the three gas stations that I frequent, offer reward programs and Menards and Target want to know if I will be using their charge cards for my purchases. If I took every rewards card, I suspect that I would have a billfold full of these cards. Oh, I forgot, both the specialty bread store and the pizza shop we frequent have reward cards. Now, I suspect that some very careful shoppers are able to cash in on some of these cards. I also suspect that some chain stores are able to capture a certain amount of repeat business by using these types of programs. However, I wonder how much success there is on the bottom line when you add in all the necessary cost is needed to just launch the promotion. I wonder if it doesn't cost almost as much to run the various programs as it finally sends to the bottom line. Whenever I get one of these cards and go to use it, it is always in the other car or in Sharon's purse. If I had my way, I would like a charge card that would let me select ten or so businesses. A couple of grocery stores, a couple of gas stations, a couple of restaurants, and a few various other businesses. I would then get two percent or so cash back once or twice a year, from the credit card company, depending on the amount of money I spend at these selected businesses. I have one card, my favorite stores, no searching for reward cards and, if I pay my credit card bill, cash back once or twice a year. It would work for me!

SEE YOU NEXT WEEK!

P.S. I don't know about you, but I am happy to see the snow finally leaving.

A Sincere Thank You

To The Editor:

This is to give a shout out to all the county and city crews who did a terrific job during our last snow emergency pranks that Mother Nature played on us starting on Easter, which was of course, April Fool's Day this year.

To the crews that worked hard days, staying late at their jobs and then getting up again very early to start it all over again, and to the ones who worked through the nights. Our emergency personnel were also stretched to their limits.

You all did a wonderful job and we do appreciate all that was done for us during these trying times. Thank you very much.

Teacher Walkouts

To the Editor:

It appears that teachers are walking out of class for two main reasons. 1) Pay and benefits. 2) School funding to help students succeed.

Over the past 60 years the annual pay teachers received has fallen sharply in relation to the annual pay of other workers with a college degree, even during periods of great national economic growth. You hear of full-time teachers working up to two part-time jobs. These teachers make great financial

Inside Wisconsin by Tom Still

Keeping H-1B immigrants at home will help Wisconsin's labor crunch

MADISON, Wis. – The hurried deployment of National Guard troops to America's southern border is aimed at stemming a possible surge of illegal immigrants.

If only the same kind of urgency surrounded the need to keep documented aliens working inside the United States, where they've been educated and expressed a desire to stay.

The national application period for H-1B visas, which is a federal program for high-skilled immigrants, opened and closed within five days in early April. With a static cap of 65,000 annual applications, the H-1B program is limited by law and further constricted by the fact that only about a third of those applications are selected for further processing through a lottery.

The H-1B is one of the few programs that allow foreign-born innovators, such as engineers and computer scientists, to stay in the country and begin the path toward citizenship. And yet, it takes dumb luck to qualify.

Supply is too tight. Congress should increase the H-1B visa cap while creating other pathways for allowing highly skilled workers, as well as graduates of Wisconsin colleges and universities, to stay in the United States and contribute to its overall competitiveness.

Sometimes that means working for large companies; sometimes in means starting companies, as many immigrants living in Wisconsin have done over time.

It makes little sense to accept foreign-born students in our colleges and universities, grant them advanced degrees – and promptly send them home to compete against us. Perhaps every graduate degree should come with a “green card” attached.

The need for talent is more acute in states such as Wisconsin, which, for largely demographic reasons, is on the cusp of a labor shortage in many sectors.

Whether it's dairy and agriculture, information technology, construction, tourism or manufacturing, virtually every part of the Wisconsin economy employs foreign-born workers. About 6 percent of the state's workforce is foreign-born, and the percentage of immigrant workers in sectors such as the dairy industry has been pegged at 50 percent or more.

A steady stream of reports and events has underscored the need for workers in Wisconsin.

Gus Faucher, senior vice president and chief economist of The PNC Financial Services Group, told the Wisconsin Bankers Association in January that most signs point to a longer U.S.

economic expansion – with the noteworthy exception of worker supply. That's true in many states but more so in Wisconsin, he said, due to its low in-migration rate.

A new report on Wisconsin's place in the advanced energy sector predicted the state could add 44,000 jobs a year, many of them tied to the production of sensors and controls. One of the drawbacks, the report noted, could be the supply of workers to fill those jobs.

Representatives of the New York-based Markle Foundation, which supports skill training and coaching projects, recently toured Wisconsin to size up what's being done to develop the workforce. At every stop, they were told by business leaders, academics and government officials that Wisconsin needs more workers now and for decades to come.

Consider this statement: “... Even if we are able to retrain Wisconsin's entire unemployed population and match them with available jobs, we will still fall well short of filling the projected 925,000 jobs created or replaced between 2008 and 2018. This is because our working age population already peaked in 2010 and is projected to continue declining through at least 2035.”

That's from a 2014 report to Gov. Scott Walker from a working group headed by Tim Sullivan, the former Bucyrus-Erie chief executive officer who was asked to study Wisconsin's workforce needs. The conclusion: Legal immigration is good for the U.S. economy and Wisconsin shouldn't miss the chance to attract talent it needs to remain competitive.

The H-1B program has its flaws because of “visas mills” in some part of the world that have rigged the system, but they've been exposed and fixes are proposed. Comprehensive reform is needed, of course, and it remains to be seen if Congress would consider such a bill in an election year.

One hope for compromise has a Wisconsin angle: Speaker Paul Ryan. Now that he's announced he won't run for re-election, Ryan may be free to pursue an agenda that includes reform. He's on record as saying, “We need to enable employers to hire foreign graduates of American universities. That way, they will use their American education for the betterment of the United States – not foreign competitors.”

Sending troops to the border is a short-term answer. The long-term solution is a system that works.

Still is president of the Wisconsin Technology Council. He is the former associate editor of the Wisconsin State Journal.

Gerald P. Krech, 57, Cumberland, has been charged with operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated, 4th.

The criminal complaint states that on Saturday, April 14, 2018, at approximately 9:46 p.m. Barron County Deputy Fick heard via police radio that a St. Croix Tribal police officer had come across a vehicle in the ditch on County Highway H near 28 1/4 Avenue northwest of Cumberland in Maple Plain Township. Dispatch requested Deputy Fick respond to that location as the St. Croix Tribal police officer who made contact with the occupant of that vehicle and indicated the subject appeared to be intoxicated.

Upon arrival, Deputy Fick observed a Chevy Silverado style pickup truck in the ditch and a male subject sitting in the front driver's seat portion of the vehicle. The subject was identified by his Wisconsin driver's license as Gerald P. Krech. Deputy Fick made contact with him and asked him what had happened. Krech said he was extremely tired from working and had fallen asleep while driving home. Deputy Fick asked if he had consumed any alcohol and Krech admitted to having several alcoholic beverages prior to operating the motor vehicle.

Deputy Fick escorted him out of the ditch and walked him to the squad car. While speaking with him outside of the vehicle, Deputy Fick observed that he had red, bloodshot, glassy eyes. He could also smell a strong odor of intoxicants coming from his breath and observed that his speech was very slow and delayed.

Deputy Fick asked Krech if he would be willing to submit to field sobriety tests and he indicated he would not. The reason he gave was that he could not complete the field tests when he was sober. Deputy Fick offered to administer the field sobriety tests at Cumberland Hospital where he explained there is a flat level paved area that was clear of any debris that would prevent him from taking the required tests, but again Krech declined.

Deputy Fick then placed Krech under arrest and transported him to Cumberland Hospital for a blood draw. Upon arrival at the hospital Deputy Fick explained that Krech's refusal to perform the field sobriety tests would be considered an automatic failure to the tests. He again asked Krech if he would submit to the test and he said he would not.

A sample of Krech's blood was collected at Cumberland Hospital without incident. After the blood draw was complete Krech was transported to the Barron County Jail without incident.

If convicted Krech may be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned for not more than six years, or both. He shall also be fined not less than $600 and imprisoned for not less than 60 days, if the number of convictions in the person's lifetime, plus the total number of suspensions, revocations and other convictions since January 1, 1989 equals four, except that suspensions, revocations or convictions arising out of the same incident or occurrence shall be counted as one. His driver's license shall also be revoked for not less than two years, nor more than three years, and he shall be ordered to submit to an alcohol and drug abuse assessment and to comply with treatment as a condition of reinstatement.

His preliminary hearing is scheduled for May 9, 2018.

Barron County ready to assist hearing impaired drivers

by Chris Fitzgerald, Barron County Sheriff

The Barron County Sheriff's Department has teamed up with the Barron office of the Aging and Disability Resource Center to assist the hearing impaired when it comes to law enforcement calls and/or traffic stops.

Each deputy has been assigned a large card that states "I am deaf or hard of hearing" with the ability to point to different violations on it. This will reduce stress or frustration for the person that is hearing impaired and the deputy to make the encounter the best it can be.

I want to thank Director Jennifer Jako for bringing this to our attention and again shows why Barron County is such a great place to live and work because of the cooperation of the departments within the county.

DATCP CONSUMER ALERT: Wisconsin Consumers Report "Apple Tech Support" Scam

A number of Wisconsin residents are reporting telephone calls that falsely claim to be from Apple Inc. The robocalls claim there is a problem with the recipients' iCloud or Apple ID accounts.

These are tech support scam calls. If you receive a similar telephone call, hang up immediately and do not press any keys to "speak to a representative" or to "end the call."

In many instances, consumers have reported that the caller ID information has been spoofed to make it appear as if the call is coming from the Apple Store at the Mayfair Mall in Wauwatosa. In at least one other instance, the number provided was that of an Apple Store in Los Angeles.

Reports made to DATCP's Consumer Protection Hotline provide two call scenarios:

One consumer pressed a button during a robocall in order to speak with a representative. A "support rep" came on the line and asked about the number and types of computers she owns. She granted this scammer remote access to her computer. Over the course of more than two hours, the "support rep" asked her about her online shopping habits and requested $100 iTunes gift cards from Walgreens or

Another former Cumberland athlete, Payton Rose, just completed spring practice with his Division II Lindenwood Lions Football Team. A redshirt freshman, Head Coach Jed Stugart said this about Rose, "Thrown into the fire this spring, Payton has not backed down and has been taking a high volume of reps at the WR position. The experience he has gained this spring will serve him well heading into fall camp giving him a shot at a starting position. Being an excellent route runner and his physical nature makes Payton one to keep an eye on!"

Former Cumberland Coach Mark Fuller, meanwhile, has also had a busy spring at UW-Whitewater, where he's in his fifth season as an assistant coach in baseball. The Warhawks are currently 17-3 and ranked third in the latest National Division III baseball poll.

Cumberland Has Had a Long Love Affair With Golf

by Mark Fuller

As residents wait for the Cumberland Golf Club to open, one can look back on the long love affair the residents of the Island City have had with the sport.

The Cumberland Country Club was founded back in 1925. The parent organization was the Cumberland Land & Improvement Company and stock was sold at $50.00 a share. Many familiar Cumberland names were among the original stock holders including Dr. E.T. Toftness, C.D. Jacobson, C.E. Chubb, and R.H. Hines.

The course was planned and laid out by the "pro" at the White Bear Country Club from Minnesota. The land preparation and ground work was done by a Cumberland company owned by Alfred Hanson and Fred Smith. Play began even before the nine-hole course was completed.

The paper shows the course in 1927 had taken in $1,075.00 in revenue. With expenditures standing at $1163.00 and past bills still coming in, it was estimated the Club had operated at a $400.00 deficit the previous summer. The revenue goal for 1928 was set at $1,215.00.

A seasons ticket committee was formed in March of that year and at a meeting it was agreed that "Improvements on the remaining three holes of the course should be started as soon as the money was raised." W.G. Miller was appointed to see about getting someone to run a refreshment stand on the grounds that summer.

Golf wasn't the only thing happening in Cumberland the summer of 1928. With a Presidential election on tap for that November, both Presidential candidates Herbert Hoover and Al Smith appeared, be in briefly, in the Island City that summer.

A special train carrying Mr. Hoover and his wife went through the city on a Tuesday night that July around 8:00 pm. A large number of people stood at the depot catching a glimpse of the Republican nominee as he stood on the platform of the rear coach.

Democratic nominee Al Smith, the Governor of New York, would also pass through town later that summer. Hoover would eventually win the election and out poll Smith 480-175 in Cumberland that November.

The outgoing President Calvin Coolidge also used the train system to travel through Cumberland occasionally. At one time trains went between Cumberland and the Twin Cities four times a day. Coolidge would pass through Cumberland twice in August of 1928, his last year in office. He owned a summer home in Cannon Falls, Minnesota.

One stop in late July included a 20-minute water stop. The Cumberland Boys band, "in their nifty uniforms," played a number of selections as the President and his wife appeared on the back platform bowing and waving to the crowd. Mrs. Coolidge was present ed with several gifts including, "a lovely silk afghan" made by the Ladies Aid of the Methodist Church here.

The golf course continued to flourish, but was shutdown in 1942 as help was limited due to WWII. After the conclusion of the war, a meeting was held in July of 1946 to reopen the Club. Arthur Brandt had purchased the land and it was said to be, "in fair shape considering it had not been used in five years."

The 17 present purchased memberships for the balance of that summer and Lawrence Mayer and Swede Nelson were asked to seek additional memberships. Curt George was elected President of the newly formed group. The group also announced it was participating in a Tournament that Sunday in Luck. Something they would do often and well during those days.

By the spring of 1947, things were on full go. Mr. Brandt had ordered new mowers and announced that he hoped to get good support from the community as, "we are trying to build up the cities tourist trade and a good golf course is a necessity to attract people here."

The 1946 officers were reelected with Curt George, president, Swede Nelson Vice-President, and John Miller treasurer. The group did say that only 25 season tickets had been sold and issued a plea for more sign-ups.

By August of 1947, a Womens group had also met and formed. Eighteen women enjoyed a dinner and elected Mrs. James Nelson their President. The men, meanwhile, had formed a Men's League and 24 golfers participated on August 7, when Wayne Thompson tied the Course record with a 34, one stroke ahead of Swede Nelson, who shot a 35 that same night.

Nelson would be one of Cumberland's best during those years and years later in September of 1968, he would have a most memorable golf outing when he played a round against Mildred "Babe" Didrickson-Zaharias, considered to be one of the greatest Female Athletes of all time.

She gave a golf clinic in Rice Lake on September 12 and then golfed a round against three area golfers in an exhibition. A winner of 10 LPGA events and two Olympic Gold Medals in Track, Didrickson-Zaharias would only defeat Nelson 74-76 in the match.

Things continued to expand and grow with the Cumberland Country Club finally being purchased by the City for $33,000.00 in 1968. Renamed the Cumberland Golf Club, Inc., the course was financed by revenue bonds and a new club house opened the following year.

By now, the course was well on the way to become, as Mr. Brandt hoped, a draw for Cumberland residents and visitors alike.

The 2018 Blizzard/Youth Turkey Hunt

Hello friends,
This past weekend like many other mentors and turkey hunters under the age of 16 I was in the woods, sitting in a turkey blind with 13-year-old Allie Schuster who is an 8th grader at Deforest Middle School.

What most hunters will remember about this years two-day hunt is the blizzard that dumped ice and up to 28-inches of snow across Wisconsin.

Saturday, April 14th
High 32, Low 24

Because I am really smart I put three rain coats on top of my turkey blind yesterday and netting on top of the jackets to keep them in place. The rain coats job was to keep my blind from being full of rain when Allie and I got into it this morning for a day of hunting.

Because I am not so smart the weight of the very frozen netting and jackets from a night of the worst ice storm that I have ever witnessed collapsed my blind and froze it to the ground.

Allie and I tore the mess apart, set the blind back up, lit my Mr. Heater and soon were enjoying what would be two days of watching the biggest blizzard to hit Wisconsin in many years.

I think most of you realize this but before the snow started three-inches of ice/sleet fell and it was really cool to watch that happen from a turkey blind.

So here is the scenario for Allie and myself. I am her GREAT UNCLE. We have a relationship that is centered around almost constantly attacking each other and we both thrive on it.

Allie is the daughter of Shane and Sandy Schuster, and until she was ten wanted nothing to do with deer camp or hunting. Allie came to deer camp for camp set up back in November of 2015 and could not believe how SUPER COOL her GREAT UNCLE Mark is. Now she is attempting to become a hunter and last October I took her on a camping trip by Stevens Point during the Youth Deer Hunt and she whacked a 7-point buck after sitting in a tree for 12-hours in a pouring rain.

So meanwhile, among the many good adults taking kids out in the blizzard, 14 mentors and the same amount of kids for The Lemonweir Long Beards are in the woods and my good buddy Dan Berry who is the President of this chapter of NWTF is mentoring 10-year-old Sean Fowler of Oak Dale.

Dan worked his calling magic and brought a beautiful gobbler in for Sean who did his job and harvested his first tom.

In our blind, Allie and I are eating lots of donuts, at times Allie is doing her homework (which I 100-percent did not know how to do) and we are both verbally jabbing each other and sometimes even wrestling in the blind.

The land that Allie and I are hunting is the same place that Selina has harvested many birds on, as well as myself but I have to admit that I did not have a good feeling about this weekend.

About 3:00 this afternoon the sleet that was being pushed by a 25-mph wind switched over to snow, and I loved watching it.

Meanwhile my other good buddy, Bob Nicksic who like Dan Berry is a KAMO mentor and member of NWTF is hunting with his KAMO Kid, Keenan Josett. Keenan who is 12 and Bob have become a regular part of each other lives and today Bob helped Keenan harvest his first turkey.

Allie and I watched day become night and the next morning we watched night become day and it was still snowing. Our big excitement besides her creating some beautiful songs about her GREAT UNCLE was when we actually heard a tom gobble off in the distance this morning.

Hunting as we all know is not about always harvesting, I have always said to mentors in KAMO bring good snacks, laugh, have conversations, teach the kids about the outdoors and most of all just make sure they have fun.

Yes Allie, you are a brat! "GREAT UNCLE" Mark

Barronett News By Judy Pieper

What a beautiful glorious week! Temperatures have been in the 50s, and a lot of the snow is gone. The crocuses are blooming like crazy, and the daffodils and tulips are peeking through the ground. We can finally pick up all those broken branches that were frozen to the ground and make this place look less like an abandoned house.

Okay, imagine as drum roll here. We now have a new baby boy in Barronett. Little Bradley Randall Wampler arrived on the scene on Saturday, April 21st. Mom, Dad and big brother, that would be Robyn, Mike and Phillip, are overjoyed to have Bradley join the family. I'm sure that Phillip, who recently celebrated his first birthday, will be a huge help entertaining Bradley and bringing diapers when needed. Congratulations to the Wampler family on their new little bundle of joy.

The big event coming this week is the Barronett Community Spring Garage Sale, to be held at the Barronett Community Center this Saturday, April 28th, from 8:30 a.m. until 2:00 p.m. Barronett Lutheran will, once again this year, have a table at the sale and we are still accepting donations for our table. If you have any treasures you no longer need, give Peg Thompson or Gloria Gunderson a call and they will be glad to let you know where to bring your items.

The lunch counter will be open too, so after you are finished shopping, sit, enjoy a cup of coffee and a treat and visit with friends for awhile. It's a great place to catch up on all the news of the area.

Shirley Overvig was in Barronett again this past Tuesday, so our lunch bunch got together at the Red Brick to visit and enjoy the food. This time, in addition to Shirley, the group consisted of Ruth Grover, Geri Pittman, Dorothy Orth, Pat Sweet, Anita Lehmann and me. We had a great time discussing everything that has gone on since the last time Shirley was up.

Dorothy Orth and I were among the huge crowd of people who attended the Church Basement Ladies play in Barron last Friday night. I have to say, that was one of the funniest plays I've seen lately. I'm old enough to remember what the Ladies Aid of the Lutheran Church was like in the '60s, and they really had it down pat. We laughed through the entire play. It was great.

Oh, before the play we stopped by the Rolling Oaks for supper. Justin, Casey and crew put out quite a spread on their Friday night buffet, and the salad bar is the best you can find anywhere. The supper, play and visiting with Dorothy was a perfect way to spend the evening.

Duane stayed home so that he could attend the play presented by the Barronett Dragons 4-H Club members. Duane said that the play, "The Clown Show," was very funny and that the kids all did a great job with their lines. Peg Thompson directed the play, and the actors were Zach Thompson, Ethan Thompson, Baylie DeMontigny, Sofia Belisle, Laela Scott, Bridgette Anderson, Desirae Anderson and Charles DeMontigny. Duane said that the make-up on the clowns was awesome. And, he said that the costumes were perfect. Friday night was the dress rehearsal for the competition in Turtle Lake. I'll let you know how that went next week.

As you probably remember, school was closed in the area last Monday because of the snowstorm. Well, kids really can't just stay in the house all day and be happy, so I went over to Rice Lake and picked up Wrigley Marsh so that we could have some fun in the snow. He and I went snowshoeing up by the treehouse. It was great-the snow was at least two feet deep, but with the snowshoes we only sunk in about three or four inches. I tripped and fell once, and that was not good. When I put my hands down to push myself up, they just kept going deeper and deeper in the snow. Luckily Wrig was right there and he helped me up. My hero! And, while we were up by the treehouse, we got shovels and tried to find the firepit. We had to shovel a huge area before we found it because the snow had it completely covered, of course, and we couldn't remember exactly where it was. Now though, it's all cleaned out and ready for a bonfire.

Lynn Thon gave me a joke this week she received from her friend, Estella. Here it is-Ole and Sven were in a convenience store, and when they left the store, Sven showed Ole that he had successfully taken three candy bars without paying for them, and he was very proud of his thievery. Ole said, "I can show you something even better than that." They went back into the store and Ole asked the owner, "Do you want to see some magic?" The owner said that he did, so Ole told him to bring him a Hershey bar, a Twix and Milky Way. The owner gave them to him, and he immediately ate all three. The owner was confused and a little angry, and he said, "You said you were going to show me magic and all you did was eat candy bars without paying for them. Where's the magic?" Ole replied, "Just look in my friend's pocket."

That's about it from Barronett this week. Hope to see you at the big community garage sale on Saturday. Have a wonderful week.

Senior News By Gloria Lindeman

I just wanted to remind everyone about our flea market and garage sale that will be held on Saturday April 28th from 9:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. There is still time to rent tables. If you are interested just call Gloria at 715-822-8241 or call the center at 715-822-8794. If you would like to bring items for our garage sale, they can be brought to the center at any time.

We will be setting up for the sale on Friday, April 27th at 1:00 p.m. Sorry, but we will have to cancel card playing that afternoon because we will be using all the rooms.

Barronett is having a sale the same day, so it will be a good chance to get out and attend both.

Hope to see all of you there. It's always a fun event and it's a good time to enjoy the nice weather we are having now.

Some snowflakes were in evidence on Tuesday morning and early afternoon, but by late Tuesday afternoon it started in earnest. Pushed by winds of about 50 mph, evening found a first class spring snowstorm on the scene.

Official time of the breaking up of the ice on Beaver Dam Lake was clocked by Dr. Robb Spray and two witnesses as 7:15:32 a.m. on Thursday. This is a few days ahead of the average break-up date for the lake. In past years the date was between April 20 and 30. But in 1944 winter gave up the ghost and the ice was declared officially out on March 27 that year.

cial sacrifices to help educate our society - important to keeping America great. Many of these teachers buy supplies and food for needy students. Teachers work long hours and require additional educational training, many have master degrees.

An educated workforce is key for economic prosperity in the U.S. and competing against other countries. Comparing educational requirements for teachers to other industries requiring same educational requirements in 2000 to 1940s, an average teachers' salary would have to be over 38% higher, that percentage is higher now. Sources of funding for schools are growing more limited, as federal taxes are decreased, less Federal money goes back to states, counties, and towns. Tax cuts for the wealthiest one percent and corporations do not make sense when income inequality is greater now than before the Great Depression and over 85% of the population believe income inequality is too great. Trump inherited the third longest straight economic growth period in U.S. history. The slow but sturdy expansion began in mid-2009. Targeted tax cuts to lower middle income and poor would have been more helpful as these groups are the ones to benefit last from any growing economy, not the rich or corporations. Only 45 out of the 500 S & P corporations gave bonuses. Unless serious tax reform occurs that can provide the needed funds to raise teacher salaries, finding well-qualified people to teach children will prove more difficult. Yes, the U.S. spending on education ranks in the top six of countries. But the U.S. spends more on non-educational items, such as school security and sports than our counterparts, and the number of days and hours at school has declined since the 1980s. China and India, along with European countries, are eating our lunch when it comes to education. The U.S. was the "gold standard" for education in the late '40s through the '70s. Other countries studied and used our system. U.S. corporations and companies benefit from an educated society. They do not have to individually teach a person how to read, do math, think logically, or at least to a proficiency that enables the worker to do their jobs. If we don't act and reward teachers and provide adequate resources for our students, America will not stay the great nation we are.

Apple scam...

Target in order to "fix" each of her three Apple devices (one gift card per device).

In another incident, a consumer received a live call from a scammer claiming to be with Apple support. The caller claimed that the consumer's Apple ID was being used overseas and warned that the consumer would not be able to shop online or use his passport until the issue was resolved. The caller asked the consumer to run a Google search in order to reach an online support website (that would likely have allowed the caller to gain remote access to the consumer's computer).

Do Your Best By Jay Abington

One of the reasons it was such a great summer was because of school. You see I had failed to pass the second grade and the chance to do the year over without any of my new friends knowing well as you can imagine that was a relief like no other.

This brought back a memory that I had forgotten about till just now.

After a pause of about 1/2 an hour to recall the details I have returned to the keyboard with a lump in my throat to tell all I can remember of the moment.

It was the last day of school down in willow glen and the teacher walked around the class and gave each student a folded paper except me. It was everybody's grades for the year. I was aware that I was failing the class because I couldn't read or write. My mom and I had a few talks about it but I guess I thought it would all work out ok. It dawned on me that minute that I didn't pass.. I don't think I really understood the whole thing. What I did know was that the only things that I was afraid of at that age were my dad and being asked to come up in front of the class and read. I knew I was the only one in our class that couldn't read and I knew I was the only one in the class that was being held back.

The thing was I didn't feel dumb or anything like that I just somehow got it in my head that I didn't need to learn this stuff. I think that I thought their was no consequences for not learning it. Suddenly the lunch bell rang. My seat was next to the door so I just ran out of class across the play ground and field until my hands were clutching the chain link fence that surrounded our school. I burst out in tears as I silently yelled a thousand things at my self.

I sunk to the grass with my head in my knees and a couple minutes later I hear the crinkle of a lunch bag and look up through blurry eyes to see this girl in my class standing over me holding out my lunch. I suppose

"Expressing Love Through Prayer"

By: Deacon Steve Linton
St. Anthony Catholic Church, Cumberland

In our New Testament reading from 1st John, on this 5th Sunday of Easter, we are reminded to "love one another just as he commanded us." Sounds easy, right? I recently asked some of my confirmation students if, when they pray, do they ever pray for their enemy. The response was overwhelmingly "No." I don't blame them for this, nor do I mean to discredit them in any way, it's just plain and simply a symptom of the society that we are living in today. We are so focused on the needs and desires of ourselves and the ones closest to us, that we tend to forget or reject those who don't mean much to us, or who have a belief system different than our own.

If our command is to love one another, we must recognize that "one another" means everybody. Even those who think, act and believe different than ourselves. We must accept what we preach and recognize that we are all created by God, made in His own likeness and image, and are all deserving of His love. Therefore, we must willingly follow God's command and share that love. That doesn't mean we must like and support behaviors that are clearly contrary to God's teaching. Bending God's will to be in line with the desires of our secular society would be subversive at best, and would be a denial of His love for us. So how do we respond to those who challenge us? How do we respond to those who hate us for what we believe? The answer is as He commanded us. We love.

One of the best ways we can express this love is through prayer. First, we can ask God to help us deal with our own anger and frustration over the way we are made to feel when someone challenges us and puts us down. That's natural, we need God's support to help us understand and to forgive. But then, we can go to the next step and ask God to help that person with whatever is happening in their life that has led them away from being in a right relationship with those around them and with God. If we are going to pray for our own forgiveness and healing for the faults we recognize in ourselves, why shouldn't we then pray for the forgiveness and healing of others. That is what true love is, right? It's not selfish. Love is meant to be shared with all, out of respect for one another, and because He commanded it. Let us not bully and belittle our enemy, let us not act disrespectful, spiteful or mean to the person who challenges our beliefs. These things just create more separation between us and lead us further away from one another. Instead pray for God's peace, love and understanding. Show your love through prayer and patience. May God Bless you all!

OBITUARIES...

Alma I. Schreiner

Alma Irene Schreiner, 99, died on Sunday, April 22, 2018 at Glenview Living Center in Shell Lake. Alma was born on October 1, 1918 at the family farm in rural Clayton County, Iowa to Martin and Annie (Meyer) Hanson. She attended and graduated from Cheery Valley County School in 1932 and Elgin High School in 1936.

Alma was united in marriage to Clayton Schreiner at the Bethel Presbyterian Church in West Union, Iowa on August 17, 1940. They had one daughter, Cynthia Ann (Cindi). Alma worked as a legal secretary in law offices wherever she lived, the first being for C.F. Murphy & L.J. Ehrhardt in Elkader, Iowa from 1937 to 1940 for $15 a week and paid $5 a week for room and board. Alma and Clayton both served in the U.S. Navy from 1943 to 1945, Clayton as a Chief Electrician's mate and Alma as a yeoman 2/C and were discharged in 1945. Alma attended Navy boot camp at Hunter College in New York City, trained at the U.S. Naval Training Station in Cedar Falls, Iowa and then was assigned to duty at the Bureau of Personnel in Arlington, Virginia.

After discharge, Clayton and Alma attended and graduated from the Progressive School of Photography in New Haven, Connecticut and then opened a portrait studio in West Union Iowa from 1947 to 1950 after which Clayton returned to his background in the electrical field in various positions in Iowa, Wisconsin, and Missouri. Alma worked in law offices through these years, and they both received their real estate and broker licenses in Missouri and managed McKelvey Realty in St. Peters, Missouri until retiring to West Union Iowa in 1987. After Clayton's death in 1999, Alma moved to Elgin, Iowa near her two sisters and one brother and she enjoyed happy days with them and their families. She moved to Traditions in West Union in 2008 and then to Brentwood Senior Living in Rice Lake where she liked to say "I'm 90 years old, and I just moved to a new state!"

In November of 2015 she moved to Cumberland to be closer to her daughter Cindi and son-in-law John. Alma loved the new acquaintances she made in Rice Lake and her friends at congregate housing in Cumberland. In October 2017 Alma moved to Glenview Special Care Unit in Shell Lake.

She enjoyed playing cards, jigsaw puzzles, Wii bowling and the Internet. She loved the Iowa Hawkeyes Men's Basketball teams and remained loyal to them, even though she was most proud of her daughter, son-in-law, grandsons and great granddaughters who were all Wisconsin Badgers. She was thrilled with the introduction of the Big Ten Network and she rarely missed a basketball game that they televised. She loved her family and so enjoyed being part of the exciting sporting events her son-in-law and grandsons provided for her in their years of coaching and competition.

Alma was preceded in death by her parents, her sisters, and her brother. She leaves her daughter Cindi (John) Schell of Cumberland; two grandsons, Jay (Jeane) Schell of New Berlin, and Steve (Jen) Schell of Menomonee Falls; five great grandchildren: Taylor, University of Wisconsin-Madison; Madison, University of Wisconsin - Madison, Alexandra, John and Isabella, and two bonus great grandchildren: Paige and Drew, all of Menomonee Falls; and many nieces and nephews.

Alma was a member of Bethel Presbyterian Church of West Union, Iowa and the American Legion Auxiliary of Elgin, Iowa.

Skinner Funeral Home is serving the family.

Do your best...

I was embarrassed because I just shook my head and cried even harder. I don't remember her name now but I knew it back then. We were not friends or anything I just knew her name.

She set it down next to me then she sat down and didn't say a word she just sat with me till the bell rang. On the way back across the field she put her arm around me and with her little hand patting my shoulder she said you might not read so good but I think you are the best artist in the class. My mommy always tells my brother if he does the best he can that will be good enough and she ran off.

The rest of the day I was lost in thought but I had drawn a picture of a black horse trying to reach some grass on the other side of a fence. When the last bell rang I went to her desk where she was talking with her friends and put the picture down. As I walked away I could hear the girls looking at the picture. That meant a lot to me because it reminded me that I was good at something. I also realized that I wasn't doing the best I could.

WisDOT schedules Public Meeting for 2018 construction in Rice Lake

The Wisconsin Department of Transportation (WisDOT) Northwest Region is conducting a Public Informational Meeting regarding the scheduled road construction projects in and around Rice Lake this summer. The meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, May 1, 2018 from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. at the Rice Lake City Hall, 30 E Eau Claire St, WI 54868. The meeting will follow an open house format with a brief presentation beginning at 5:15 p.m.

The purpose of the meeting is to provide project information and expected traffic impacts during the 2018 construction season. In addition to the presentation, project overview maps and traffic impact maps will be on display. WisDOT and city of Rice Lake officials will be on hand to answer questions. This summer, there will be six construction projects managed by WisDOT and seven construction projects managed by the city of Rice Lake. Several of the WisDOT managed projects will have major, multi-month impacts on roadways in the city.

Starting in May, the first of these larger projects will begin. Activities include the reconstruction of South St. from Main St. to Kern Ave. In addition, Kern Avenue will be extended south to where Lemler Rd. presently meets Main St. South St. will be closed to through traffic, but local access will be maintained throughout the project. Construction around Tainter School will occur during summer break. This project will be finished by the fall of 2018.

In June, the WIS 48/Knapp St. resurface project, from Bear Paw Avenue to Tainter Street, will start. The purpose of this project is to rehabilitate the pavement surface of Knapp St., install traffic signals at both the intersections at Wisconsin Avenue and Hammond Avenue, and to reconfigure the striping of the roadway from the existing four-lane facility to a three-lane facility, commonly called a "road diet". The three-lane facility will have one lane in each direction with a center two-way left turn lane for turning refuge. The highway will remain open to through traffic and local access with the exception of some short-term closures and one three-week closure of Hammond Ave. This project will be finished in the fall of 2018.

Also in June, three aged bridges on WIS 48 will be replaced west of Rice Lake, located between WIS 25 and 17th Street. During the construction of these three bridges, WIS 48 will be closed to through traffic and detoured. Local access to residents will be maintained. This project will be finished in the fall of 2018.

In July, the Main Street bridge reconstruction project will begin. Traffic impacts from this reconstruction project will not begin until early August. Main Street traffic will be reduced to one-lane in each direction for the duration of the project. Main Street will remain open to through traffic except for short-term closures and one seven-day closure for utility work. Access to residents and businesses will be maintained. This project will be completed in the fall of 2019.

Two other WisDOT construction projects have less impact to the traveling public, and are expected to last approximately a month each. In May, the roundabouts at the County Highway O and US 53 Interchange will be resurfaced. County O and the US 53 interchange ramps will be closed during night-time only, off-peak hours. A detour will be posted for this closure. In September, an existing culvert under US 53 will be rehabilitated. Motorists can expect short-term outside lane closures on southbound US 53 between the Hwy 48 interchange and the County O interchange.

Construction projects managed by the City include rebuilding several local streets, extending the Cedarside Trail to Allen St., and relocating the Northern Star Theatre. The construction activities will impact local streets and residents, but are not expected to have major impact to the main thoroughfares around Rice Lake.

All interested residents, property and business owners are encouraged to attend the meeting. The presentation will also be available after the meeting on WisDOT's www.projects.511wi.gov <http://www.projects.511wi.gov> website.

Citizens who are hearing-impaired and require an interpreter may request one by contacting Diana Maas at least three working days prior to the meeting via the Wisconsin Telecommunications Relay system (dialing 711).

Northwoods Notebook:

The spectacular explosion into spring

By Larry Werner

In 1980, I was working as a reporter for a newspaper in Detroit. One of my colleagues had moved to Michigan from the Twin Cities, where he was unable to get a full-time job in journalism. He desperately wanted to get back to Minnesota, where, he said, spring comes not gently, but suddenly, explosively, spectacularly.

In the past few days, folks have been talking about the weather and supposing we'll go from parkas to shorts overnight. Last week, my pal Bob and I snowshoed at Timberland Hills, and this week, or next for sure, I'll be taking those long walks through town, taking a break to soak up the warmth on a bench at Tourist Park.

Of course, it'll be awhile before I can paddle Beaver Dam in my kayak or cruise this beautiful body of water in my pontoon. Someone told me last week he had measured the ice in front of his place at 26 inches, and you've heard people say the opener will be through ice.

The long, hard winter has also delayed the start of another popular summer activity – golf. Many of us chuckled at the photos that ran two weeks ago on the Advocate's front page. One, from April of 2017, showed Cumberland Golf Club manager Tony Diehl on one of the greens; the other, from this April, was of golf carts covered in snow.

And that 2018 photo was taken before the April 14 storm.

On the morning of April 14, I looked out at the lake and saw three deer taking a run on the frozen surface. A year earlier, I would have been looking at open water. In the fields, you see the Canada geese who have returned scrounging on snow-covered farm fields for food. Robins have returned from their southern hangouts, and I'm tempted to fill my feeder for them. But warnings are out that I shouldn't do that because hungry bears coming out of hibernation might be tempted by food intended for birds.

I've wondered if the bears are confused by the winter that didn't want to end. Do they come out of their dens, see drifts of snow and return, hit the snooze button and doze off for a few more weeks of sleep?

Well, the season is changing, finally. And among the signs that the magical spring has sprung is the annual sighting of black bears wandering along the roads, on the golf course, even swimming the lake – once it thaws.

The skies over Cumberland will be alive with birds. And we'll notice the aroma of brats and steaks grilling. People will be enjoying their coffee on the bench in front of Peter & Annie's. People will be on the street, rather than huddled indoors. Our main street will once again be busy with cars headed north on Highway 63 to cabins that have to be opened for summer.

The bars and restaurants will be busy once again, and the owners of those places will enjoy the sound of cash registers ringing (or whatever noise electronic cash registers make). The quiet time in The Island City is coming to an end. Friends and family will be coming for visits.

The louder, busier, warmer time is exploding upon us. Get out the sunscreen, the tank tops, the shorts. It's spring in the north woods.

Bring it on!

Cumberland sixth grade students and staff were greeted to a frosty reception at Wolf Ridge Environmental Research Center located near Finland Minnesota. The students and staff spend a week learning all about environmental issues and nature as well as themselves through team building exercises and outdoor learning adventures. It is a wonderful experience for all who have attended through the years.
