Northwoods Notebook: She's spent 25 years in a place where health is sold

by Larry Werner

Judy Owen's parents used to own Waite's Repair Shop, where you could get your lawnmower or snowmobile fixed. And with a father and mother as mechanics, it made some sense that Judy would end up selling parts at the Northern Automotive, where the downtown car wash now stands.

than the hugs she gets from customers who come in after having found a natural pain remedy or additive-free food that helped them feel better.

People like John Bavier, a retired IT guy who moved here from the Twin Cities with his wife, Linda.

Linda is gluten-intolerant

Judy Owens

She says she was good at selling parts, but when she began to have health problems related to mercury in her dental fillings, she visited the health-food co-op that was located below The Apothecary near the hospital. Before she knew it, she was on the board of the Island City Co-Op, and it wasn't long before she left the auto-parts store to manage the place where she could get good healthful food, vitamins and herbal supplements.

That was 25 years ago, and Owen said she loves the little store that is now located on Cumberland's main street, the building that houses a place where, in one room, you can get organic produce and food free of gluten or nitrates, and in the bakery, the most sinful pastries this side of Paris.

"You think I'd be around here for 25 years if this place didn't mean the world to me?" she asked one day last week at a table on the bakery side of the little building just south of the elementary school. Owen said there's nothing better and both John and Linda have aches and pains for which they were taking too much ibuprofen. At the Island City Co-Op, they can find gluten-free food items, and they found a natural pain-reliever called Curamin that, he says, is working.

Bavier, who has joined the Co-Op's board of directors, said Owen and board members are talking about new products, promotions and other ways to get more people to visit the co-op and to get those who do visit to buy more. Last fiscal year, the co-op, which sells baked goods delivered each day from the Spooner Bake Shop, lost money for the first time in its 37-year history.

That loss, a small one, was something new for a business that had grown pretty steadily in membership and sales since its founding in 1981. When the co-op moved from The Apothecary building in 2001 to Tom Hokanson's City Bakery building, annual revenue was about

Something You Should Know About... by Hope Lee Vicich WISCO RV & Marine

After my story about Terry Lundmark's retirement and the sale of Lundmark and Campers I heard a number of my readers remark "There goes another family business" and also "It's too bad so few of the next generation want to come back to Cumberland or stay in town to carry a business on." I, too, reflected on how we have seemingly lost a number of longtime, family-owned businesses recently.

So when my opportunity came to interview the new owners of the Lundmark's business, WISCO RV & Marine came I was very interested to hear their story. Then I finally got to meet with Aaron Simonis and Brian Thompson, and I realized that Cumberland has nothing to worry about.

You see, Brian is a Cumberland native. He graduated from Cumberland High School in 2008. Also, he and Aaron are family, they're brother-in-laws! Their wives, Northwoods Notebook...

$80,000, Owen said, and it's now about $400,000. But with mainline grocery stores now selling organics and gluten-free, it's getting tough for what used to be the only place you could get such products as bulk granola and free-range chickens.

So you saw the "Love of Food Tour" this summer. Sales picked up in July after those cooking demonstrations. And you saw the co-op at The Taste in Cumberland, sampling hummus and organic celery sticks. Owen and her board are talking about other ways to increase awareness of the place where a former auto-parts peddler sells good health.

"I think we need to do more of these community events and get our name out there," Owen said. "I think of how many people work at 3M and have never been in this building."

Owen heard of a brand of premium granola with the name "Crapola" that was devised by a couple in Ely, Minn. You'll now find several varieties of Crapola on display on the "unhealthy" side of the co-op building.

Bavier and fellow board member Jeff Zais said the little business has to come up with ways of getting new people into the little grocery store, and the bakery is one way of doing that.

Owen said many of the customers of the grocery store would never have come in if they hadn't stopped in for a donut or jelly roll. This unholy alliance between a health-food store and a bakery came about because Hokoson didn't want to keep operating a store but did continue making baked goods. He made a deal with Owen that the co-op would get a percentage of bakery sales, and he'd provide the product from the basement of his building.

After he retired in 2015, Owen cut a similar deal with the Spooner Bake Shop to sell that baker's goods. The "bakery" is a gathering place for those who want a sweet roll and cup of coffee in the morning, or a box of those delicious Persians for when the grandkids come to town.

And while you're in the building, maybe you should wander across the hall to pick up some nitrate-free bacon supplied by - you guessed it - Louie's Finer Meats.

St. Croix Casinos' 23RD Annual Turtle Cup Raises $5,000 for the ADA

The St. Croix Casinos' annual Turtle Cup is a long, straight drive down the fairway in the fight against diabetes. This year's Turtle Cup, held at Frederic Golf Course in Frederic, Wis. on Wednesday, August 22, carried on the tradition set over the past 22 years, raising $5,000 for the American Diabetes Association.

Twenty-eight teams participated in this year's Turtle Cup. Finishing first with a score of 54 was the WJMC/WAQE/FOX team, and taking second place with a score of 59 was the FSA Advisors team. The third-place team was the St. Croix Tribal Housing Team #3. Perennial last-place finishers, Impressive Print, failed to extend its record of futility this year. Finishing dead last for this Turtle Cup was the Gaming Capital Group 2 team with a score of seven over par.

But the real winner for the day was the ADA. Casinos General Manager Drew Skeen presented the Turtle Cup's $5,000 donation to Susan Klimek, executive director of the ADA Minnesota/

North Dakota and Wisconsin Affiliate. "I'm again honored to be here today to accept your most generous donation," Ms. Klimek said. "Diabetes is at epidemic levels, with just over 30 million Americans with diagnosed diabetes and American Indians two times more likely to be affected."

"In saying that, your contributions continue to be extremely important," Klimek added. "In fact, since 1952, the ADA has invested more than $735 million in research to support more than 4,500 projects exploring all types of diabetes and better treatments for those living with diabetes. Again, thank you for your amazing support as we work together to defeat this disease."

The Turtle Cup is an invitation-only event: St. Croix Casinos vendors are invited to golf, sponsor a hole, donate prizes for the golf outing's fund-raising raffle or underwrite costs for the awards dinner.

Over its 23-year history, the Turtle Cup has raised more than $118,000 for the ADA.

American Diabetes Association wins big at Casino!

Opinion

By Craig Bucher

Another “Lion” of the Senate has passed with the death of Senator John McCain. I can’t add anything to the multitude of comments made by high ranking officials both here in the United States and around the world. As an American who lives in “fly-over land” and who has watched Senator McCain throughout his entire career, I can only express my sadness at this man leaving the scene. If it is true that a man “struts” his life on the stage for but a brief time, it is certainly true that Senator McCain made the most of his “brief moment.” Such men don’t come along often. Even though I did not vote for him and even though I disagreed with many of his policies, I believe he was a shining example of what a politician can and should be. We will miss him and America is better for his life and is poorer for his death.

Daniel Seddiqui is quite an interesting fellow, so says an article about him in the Minneapolis Star-Tribune. After going on 40 job interviews and not receiving one job offer, he used 18,000 emails and 5,000 phone calls to get himself 50 jobs in 50 states, all in one year. Each job was for one week. He said his toughest job was making cheese in Wisconsin. Wow! Now he wants to have a bucket list of one item in each of the 50 states. I think, if I were a young person, that would be a great project. Just think, it might take you several years to complete, but it sure would be fun.

SEE YOU NEXT WEEK!

LETTERS Editor

A Tale of Two Republicans

To the editor:

With the passing of a great man, Senator John McCain, I thought it would be interesting to compare two Republicans – John McCain and President Donald Trump.

Senator McCain volunteered for military service, serving with distinction including being a prisoner of war. President Trump avoided the draft and refused to call McCain a hero because he was captured.

Senator McCain put his country first, serving as a representative and senator. President Trump chased the dollar using bankruptcy laws to avoid paying debts.

Senator McCain respected his political opponents, even defending his opponent Barack Obama when a person in the audience called him “an Arab.” Donald Trump, when running for president, demeaned and ridiculed his opponents both in the primary and the general election.

Senator McCain worked to solve problems in Congress, frequently including Democrats in cosponsoring bills. President Trump holds Democrats in contempt and relies solely on his Republican majority in Congress.

Needless to say I have a great respect for John McCain and will miss his presence in the Senate. He was the statesman, devoted family man, a man of integrity and an American hero. As for Donald Trump – enough said.

Wisconsin remains ripe for more corporate venture capital

MADISON, Wis. – When the venture capital arm of American Family Insurance launched in 2013, AmFam Ventures was ahead of the curve in terms of corporate investing in that early stage asset class.

Seven exits and more than 25 portfolio investments later, AmFam Ventures is one of the nation’s leading corporate investors in financial technology and “insure-tech” fields. It has solid in-state company in those business sectors with the likes of CFMG Ventures at CUNA Mutual and Northwestern Mutual Future Ventures.

Other companies in Wisconsin with in-house investment arms or related interests in startups include Kimberly-Clark, Logistics Health, ABC Supply, Aurora Advocate and Direct Supply. That list could grow if other companies band together to join the venture capital trend.

A mechanism for those major companies to do so is called a “corporate fund-of-funds,” much like what was created in 2008 in Michigan and more recently in Cincinnati, Ohio. Michigan’s Renaissance Fund was initially funded by Ford, La-Z-Boy, Whirlpool and later added dozens more organizations. Cincinnati’s Cintrifuse launched with investments by Procter & Gamble, Kroger and Western & Southern and has grown as well.

What is a corporate fund-of-funds? Quite simply, it’s a vehicle for pooling capital and investing in emerging firms, either directly or through other professional investors.

Such investments can target products or research related to core businesses of the participating companies. They can also invest in startups and scale-ups not related to the mission of the larger companies, but tied to the larger economy in that state, region and beyond.

Corporate fund-of-funds can also attract money from elsewhere, often in the form of co-investments by traditional, stand-alone venture capital firms that tend to congregate on the East and West coasts.

That’s pretty much what happened in Michigan, which went from a venture capital also-ran to a leader over the past 10 years in terms of dollars invested, number of deals and out-of-state investment.

Chris Rizik, the managing director of the Renaissance Fund, described the fund’s structure, investment experience and results in early 2017 at the invitation of the Wisconsin Technology Council. He described Wisconsin as “poised” for such a fund. The Tech Council most recently cited the benefits of such a fund with the release of its 2018 white-papers report, “Pathways to Success.”

“We have 1.78 percent of the nation’s population, conduct 1.89 percent of the nation’s academic research and generated 1.64 percent of the nation’s patents,” the report reads. “However, we have 0.21 percent of the nation’s venture capital under management and our state’s companies raised 0.35 percent of our nation’s venture capital.”

One solution for improving those numbers at the earliest stage is the Badger Fund of Funds, which will focus more on the youngest companies. That fund is already in place, with five regional funds investing or forming. A corporate fund-of-funds would aim higher in the asset class and likely build on existing investments in young companies.

“Capital availability is one of the major constraints facing entrepreneurs in our state,” said John Neis, managing director of Venture Investors LLC in Madison. “When we talk with investors in other places about investments here, one of the first things they ask is whether the local investors are in the deal. If we in Wisconsin who stand to benefit most, and who know the entrepreneurs and their capabilities best, don’t back them...why should others?”

Neis, whose firm also has an office in Michigan, said the experience in that state showed multiple benefits, including the arrival of venture capital funds from elsewhere to pursue deals.

Wisconsin has a cadre of major companies. It has experienced investors in angel capital networks and stand-alone funds. Increasingly, it has the right talent and ideas.

What’s needed now is a shared sense of opportunity about reinvesting in Wisconsin and a few corporate champions to take up the challenge. The potential is there.

Still is president of the Wisconsin Technology Council. He is the former associate editor of the Wisconsin State Journal.

Richard L. Olson, 50, of Rice Lake, has been charged with operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated, causing injury, 2nd, hit and run causing great bodily harm and knowingly operate a motor vehicle while revoked-causing great bodily harm to another.

The criminal complaint states that on August 19,

2018 at approximately 2:42 a.m. Officers Eckes, Wolf and Taylor with the City of Rice Lake Police Department responded to a dispatch of a car verses pedestrian crash in front of a bar in the City of Rice Lake. Upon arrival, Officer Eckes, who was the first to arrive, observed a male subject who was later identified as J. S. with his hands up in the air, along with a large number of people outside the bar. Officer Eckes asked if everyone was okay, and J. S. said he was not and believed he had broken teeth. Officer Eckes shined his flashlight at him and observed both of his hands to be bloody, and blood on the inside of his mouth with his front teeth chipped. J. S. described a white van, which appeared older, to have struck him. He said the van had driven south on Wilson Avenue and toward Main Street.

Officer Eckes then made contact with another male subject, who showed Officer Eckes a video on his cell phone of the crash. Upon viewing the video, Officer Eckes observed J. S. walking out into the street and the van begin to move forward. The subject then runs to the front of the van, at which point the van accelerates rapidly striking him with the center of the hood. J. S. was shown then flipping over the van, and the van rapidly accelerates away from the scene after striking J. S.

Officer Eckes asked J. S. why he had gone in front of the van. He stated he thought the van was the taxi he and his friend, had called to pick them up from the bar. He said he knew it wasn't the taxi when the van started to rev the engine. He said he was in front of the van when it accelerated rapidly hitting him. At this time Lakeview Medical Center EMT's arrived on scene and took care and custody of J. S. Officer Eckes took pictures of J. S.'s teeth and his knee, which showed road rash on his left knee and his bandaged hands, which had multiple cuts and lacerations on both hands.

Officer Bach spoke with Jason, who said he had witnessed the incident and that Jordan was his friend. He said the white van had been circling the block near the bar. He said the occupants in the van were heckling the crowd. He said he had called for a cab earlier. Jason said he and Jordan saw a van approaching on Wilson Avenue going southbound coming to a stop a little north of the bar on Wilson. He said that Jordan stepped out to flag the van down as they thought it might have been the cab they called for. He said the van then revved its engine and accelerated forward striking Jordan. Jason said the van then sped away continuing south on Wilson Avenue.

Officer Wolfe reports that as she was responding to the crash scene, she observed a Dodge van, white in color, headed eastbound on West Messenger Street. Moments later, she observed a vehicle matching the description traveling southbound on South Main Street near Barker Street. She turned around and pursued the vehicle.

Officer Wolfe got behind the vehicle and activated her emergency lights and siren. She observed the vehicle swerve toward the curb nearly striking it. She then observed the vehicle activate its brakes, but then continued driving for approximately five blocks before turning westbound on West French Street. The vehicle was swerving within its lane of travel while on S. Main St. and took a very wide turn when turning on French Street. The vehicle then came to a stop.

Officer Wolfe made contact with the driver, who she identified as Richard L. Olson. Officer Wolfe immediately smelled a strong odor of intoxicants coming from the vehicle as she spoke with Olson. She also observed a male subject sitting in the passenger seat. She asked Olson if he struck a pedestrian and he said he did not, at which point the passenger said "yes he did." He said Olson struck a pedestrian near a bar, but he was unable to tell Officer Wolfe which bar. She observed that both Olson and the passenger appeared highly intoxicated and were unable to answer simple questions. She also observed two open beer cans in the cup holders near the center console.

Officer Wolfe asked Olson to perform field sobriety tests, which he agreed to do, but which he failed to perform satisfactorily. She administered a preliminary breath test and the reported value was .157. Olson was placed under arrest. Officer Wolfe asked him if he had a driver's license and he stated his license was revoked for a previous "drunk driving."

Officer Taylor spoke with the passenger, who said they had been driving downtown and were "checking out the bars" He said he did not believe that Olson had intentionally struck the pedestrian with the van. He said he asked Olson if he saw the pedestrian in the roadway before he struck him, and he said he "saw the guy when we hit him, and then when he rolled up over the van." Officer Taylor asked the passenger why Olson did not stop the van after he struck the pedestrian and he said, "well I don't know, I kept yelling at him to STOP, STOP, but he did not respond. He said that a ways down the road Olson finally said to him, "we gotta get home."

Officer Taylor located inside the van, three open beer cans, which were still ice cold and partially full, a cooler full of unopened beer and alcohol bottles, and multiple empty beer cans. She also observed the vehicle's windshield which was cracked, and she could clearly see and photographed smudges on the windshield which resembled hand and drag marks. There was also a crease in the hood and a small dent in the roof of the van which both appeared to be freshly damaged.

If convicted Olson may be fined not more than $70,000, or imprisoned for not more than 34 years and six months or both. His driver's license will also be revoked for not more than four years. His adjourned initial appearance was scheduled for August 29, 2018.

David O. Ostermann, 51, of Turtle Lake, has been charged with removal or damage to encumbered property over $1,000.

The criminal complaint states that on January 10, 2018, Barron County Sgt. Graf began investigating a report of a theft of an encumbered property during foreclosure process related to David Ostermann.

Sgt. Graf reports Sheriff Fitzgerald relayed to him a communication from Dairy State Bank CEO Bach, requesting an investigation.

On May 31, 2017, Dairy State Bank was awarded a judgement of foreclosure on the property for $242,370.61.

On December 17, 2017 Ostermann surrendered the home and noted he had cleaned out the property.

On January 2, 2018, at the Sheriff's Sale of the property Ostermann turned over the keys to the residence to Dairy State Bank and they provided a credit bid of $231,445 for the property and Ostermann notified the bank that the home insurance had been cancelled.

On January 3, 2018, Miller visited the property and noticed that the door to the "garage and three seasons room" was unlocked and that the door to the house was also unlocked. He stated that the patio door to the three seasons room was gone and the opening had been boarded up. He said the residences' kitchen, the kitchen cabinets, countertops, sink, appliances and light fixtures had been removed. He stated that the interior doors of the residence had also been removed.

Miller said he contacted the realtor for the property who informed Miller that the last showing of the property was December 21, 2017, or December 22, 2017. He said that the property had been in the same condition on that date as when it was listed.

Miller said that the estimated loss of value to the encumbered property was $31,242.04.

Miller informed Sgt. Graf that Ostermann had filed for bankruptcy and that the confirmation sale for the property had been set for February 21, 2018. Sgt. Graf advised Miller that they would wait until the order confirming the sale was complete before proceeding further.

On February 21, Sgt. Graf received an email from Miller containing numerous documents, which included a copy of the order confirming the sale, which indicated the total sum Ostermann was $256,166.17.

Sgt. Graf received multiple documents regarding cost estimates for bids for the replacement of the items removed from the residence, which totaled $31,242.04.

On March 2, 2018, Sgt. Graf made contact with, and interviewed Ostermann. Ostermann said he had removed all of the doors and the items from the kitchen back in December. He said he was not certain of the exact date, but said he had removed the items to sell them so that he could have some money in his pocket as he was filing for bankruptcy. He said that his attorney told him that he could take all the property he wanted in a bankruptcy.

Sgt. Graf asked him how much money he made from selling the property and he said not much; and that he would have to look it up. Sgt. Graf advised that Dairy State Bank believed the replacement cost was over $31,000. Olson believed it would only cost $10,000 to replace all of the items he removed.

If convicted Ostermann may be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned for not more than three years and six months or both. His initial appearance will be held September 12, 2018.

Mississippi River Adventure

Hello friends,

The clock is ticking. My daughter Selina's junior to senior summer vacation is about over and a year from now I will be taking her to UW Stevens Point to start her education to become a wildlife biologist with a minor in business.

Earlier this summer we made a goal to go on a camping trip each month of the summer and that is what we did. That goal may sound simple but with three part time jobs, lots of friends, and entering her fourth year as a Necedah Cardinal cross country runner it is much easier said than done.

Saturday, August 18th
High 83, low 61

Our only goal on this trip was to have a good time, and so that was an easy one and of course when I say we, naturally, I also mean Fire and her young, crazy, smart and very lovable 28-month old pup, Ruby.

Our destination would be to launch our boat at Blackhawk Park which is a very nice Army Corps of Engineers campground on the Mississippi River about seven miles south of Genoa.

Back in the 80s I camped at Blackhawk Park at least 80 times. I was a steel fabricator in Mauston and I would come to work on Friday mornings with gear, boat, dogs, and head to Blackhawk. I would stay until Monday morning and then head back to work and do the same thing the next weekend.

Today my goal was to get a way from the crowd and camp on an island. At the boat launch we were given an excellent tip when we talked to a couple of fishermen who had a cooler with about 30 huge bluegill in it, and so we headed our rig about three miles upstream in search of paradise.

Much of this summer the Mississippi has been flowing over the islands and fishing has been tough. Today Selina and I had to figure out the fish after we built camp in an area that I have never been to. Several times we became stuck in shallow water and let me tell you, every time this happened to us we were going slow. Lots of fishermen like to drive there boats fast and when they get stuck its a bit more shocking.

After camp was built and firewood was collected we started fishing and it took relocating five times before we found good fishing. It was a beautiful Saturday evening, everyone that I observed really seemed to be enjoying themselves, and though we did not catch limits we caught walleye, catfish and huge bluegills.

At dark we headed to camp, lit a propane lantern the fire and I cooked steaks. The pups were loving life and all was perfect in our world.

Sunday, August 19th
High 82, low 53

Selina slept in and I headed out early this morning in a very dense fog. At first I was one of the only people on the water and then the fog lifted and the boats started appearing. Trolling for walleye is very popular here, as is anchoring and fishing for panfish.

I fished where Selina and I fished last night and the fish were not hungry. Later I picked up Selina and we did well on panfish, and figured out how to catch walleye by drifting.

Perhaps the best part of this adventure was after the fishing we took the boat and the pups to a sandbar and went on what both of us agreed was our best swim of the summer.

My locator said the water temp was 82-degrees, the water was up to 11-feet deep and we just hung out.

For 17-years I have been taking Selina on these adventures, I think that is a good part of the reason that she is so interested in becoming a wildlife biologist. No one can guarantee that she will stay in that direction but it will be cool if she does and with time, maybe I will be writing about her work in nature as so many of you have read about mine for the last 29-years.

Thanks for reading!

Barronett News

By Judy Pieper

The Rutabaga Festival was great! Our friends from Stoughton, Bill and Sally Evans, drove up to take in all the festivities with us. We spent Friday evening in Shell Lake, enjoying food from Lakeview and harassing Pat Olson at the Scoop and Brew.

On Saturday morning, while Art Adams and Duane went to enjoy a pancake breakfast at Range, hosted by the Apple River Fire Department, Suzy, Tinnille and Tru Lehmann and I, along with hundreds of other walkers and runners, did the Rutabaga Walk/Run. After the walk we met Lynn and Kane Thon and hurried down to Range to enjoy some of those delicious pancakes. Alec Adams is Fire Chief there, and he was glad to give up his pancake flipping duties to show Tru and Kane one of the fire trucks. He even turned on the lights and siren for them. Tru and Kane were in awe. After the tour of the truck, Kane whispered to his Grandma Lynn that he is going to be a fireman when he grows up. Hmmm. I wonder how his policeman daddy is going to take that news. While we were at the breakfast, we visited with Alec's sister, Baily, his mom Tracy, and his girlfriend, Anna. It was a great morning.

When we got back to Cumberland, we found Bill and Sally sitting at a picnic table enjoying the festival music and sights. We moseyed around with them, looking at all the craft booths, watching some of the kids in the pedal tractor pull and visiting with lots of people. We picked up a jar of corn salsa from Hustad's Sugar Bush booth, then went to Louie's and got some chips and meat sticks. From there Bill, Sally, Duane and I went back to our house, pigged out on the snacks and visited. Bill and Sally had to leave for home that afternoon to check on their beloved cat, Little girl. We tried to talk them into staying one more day for the parade, but they said that they really had to leave. That's okay-we plan to see them next month at Monroe Cheese Days.

The parade was great too, as usual. We watched it with Jerry, Carol and Roger Hefty and Sharai Hefty and Gary Rahn. My favorite parts of the parade are the town floats and the high school bands. The bands all sounded very professional, and kept in perfect step, but if I had been judging the first prize would have gone to Shell Lake because the young ladies carrying their flags looked so happy and were smiling during the entire time they passed by. I don't suppose that has anything to do with the judges' decisions, but I think it should. Oh, and I was so glad to see so many horses in the parade this year. Maybe we can talk someone into driving a wagon pulled by a team of Percherons in next year's parade. (Are you paying attention, Pat?)

Rita Arnes and Peg Thompson have returned from what Rita described as "the trip of a lifetime." The ladies flew into Halifax on August 11th. They rented a Jeep and drove to an apartment in a remodeled church. They spent the first day touring museums and going to the beach.

The next day they ferried over to Prince Edward Island and visited the site where Anne of Green Gables was filmed. Their abode on the island was fisherman's shanty, which was located about one-half mile from the ocean. They were there a few days, doing a lot of sight seeing and walking on the beach. The last night they were on the island, a big storm blew in and the waves were crashing onto the shore. Rita said that it was an awesome sight.

They ferried back to the mainland and stayed in a very nice loft apartment in a remodeled barn. They were able to walk to the ocean from there, but in order to get to the beach they had to walk down three flights of stairs and then descend a ten-foot ladder. Wow! I think it must have been a lot more difficult going back up.

Rita said that her bags were a lot heavier going home than they were on the way to Canada because of all the shells and rocks she brought back with her. Rita and Peg returned home on August 18th and are very happy to be home, but they are overjoyed that they were able to take such a fantastic trip.

Gary and Susan (Mussolf) Engebretson were in the area from their home in Arizona to attend a Beers family reunion at the Shell Lake Senior Center on Saturday. They came to Barronett Lutheran Sunday morning and we were happy to welcome them. After church they asked where the best place to have breakfast was and, of course, we told them the Red Brick. By the time Duane and I got to the cafe, Gary and Susan were already seated. We got a table next to theirs and started playing a game of cribbage while we waited for our food. Gary and Susan came over to watch and try to remember how to play cribbage, but we decided that we would all play smear instead. It was a fun way to pass the time while we were waiting for breakfast. That dang Duane was ahead when the food came. Anyway, they told us that they were going to take a tour of South Dakota and Wyoming before heading home. It was a pleasure to meet them, and we hope they will come back soon.

Bistro 63 had a celebrity among its guests on Sunday evening. It was-imagine a drum roll here-Kat Perkins. Kat appeared in The Voice season 6 and went on to the semi-finals. She had been in Cumberland on Saturday evening performing for the Rutabaga Festival crowd. She and her entourage decided to have dinner at the Bistro on Sunday. I didn't want to disturb her while she was enjoying her meal, so I e-mailed her instead and asked her if she would let us know about her visit to our town. You can be sure I will let you know if I hear from her.

I have to tell you something funny that Jay Olson told us while he was here last week. His brother-in-law, Willie, lives in an assisted living apartment in Clinton, Missouri, and Willie says pretty much whatever he wants. Anyway, he asked one of the other residents why she had so many wrinkles. The lady looked at Willie and replied, "Well, Willie, as we get older some of us get wrinkles." Then she paused for a beat, looked him up and down and said, "And some of us get fat." Great answer.

That's all I know from Barronett this week. Have a great Labor Day weekend. See you next time.

New Record!

Andy Hanson "cleans up" after setting the new record time for eating a pound of peppers at the annual Hot Pepper Eating Contest held Saturday afternoon. Hanson broke the old record of 6.28 seconds which has stood since 2002 when he downed the pound of hot peppers in 5.38 seconds. Bobbi McSweeney also set a new womens record when she ate 1/2 pound of hot peppers in 5.37 seconds. Congratulations to both!

OBITUARIES

Esther A. Bandli

Esther Arlene Bandli, age 83, of Rice Lake died Sunday, August 26, 2018 at the Sacred Heart Hospital in Eau Claire.

She was born on April 16, 1935 in Cumberland to Emil and Emma (Just) Toft. Esther graduated from the Cumberland High School in 1953 and then attended and graduated from the Northwestern Hospital as a Registered Nurse in 1956. Esther was married on September 22, 1956 at Section Ten Lutheran Church in Cumberland to James Bandli. Esther was a registered nurse at Lakeside Hospital in Rice Lake and for Dr. Maser, Dr. Cotts and Dr. Kristensen offices in Rice Lake. They dairy farmed in Sumner Township for many years. She was the Town Clerk for 22 years and was a 4-H Leader for 30 years. Esther was a member of the Halvorson Ladies Aide and an active member of the First United Methodist Church. She enjoyed quilting, sewing, gardening, cooking and baking.

Esther Bandli is survived by her husband, Jim Bandli of Rice Lake; four children, Tim (Linda) Bandli of Tony, David Bandli of Rice Lake, Pete (Candy) Bandli of Rice Lake and Mike (Jill) Bandli of Sun Prairie; eight grandchildren, Rebecca (Steven) McMahon, John Bandli, Rachel Bandli, Billy (Anne) Bandli, Ben Bandli, Alex Bandli, Elsbeth Bandli and Brooke Bandli; two great-grandchildren, Emma and Leo McMahon; two brothers, Paul (Shirley) Toft and Edward Toft of Rice Lake; and nieces and nephews. She was preceded in death by a daughter, Deborah; her parents, Emil and Emma Toft; and a sister, Ardys Toft.

Funeral Services will be held 11:00 AM Friday, August 31, 2018 at the First United Methodist Church in Rice Lake, Rev. Susan Oeffler officiating. Visitation will be held from 4 - 7 PM Thursday at Appleyard's Home for Funerals and for one hour prior to the service at the Church on Friday.

Lorraine B. Drake

Lorraine Beverly (Johnson) Drake was born on May 13, 1932 to Agnes and Birger Johnson in Cumberland. She married James Douglas Drake on February 10, 1950 also of Cumberland. She passed away peacefully at Gundersen Health System, La Crosse on Friday, August 17, 2018.

Our mother was an extraordinary, selfless woman. She raised five children, loved us all unconditionally, and gave us everything we ever needed and more. After our father lost his vision, she became his caregiver. She went on to survive two more years of life after he passed and after 66 years of marriage.

Mom loved flowers, fishing, and family. She also had an obsession of sorts with the weather, telling us she had learned much from her grandfather as a child. She will probably be telling Mother Nature to move over. She held various positions of employment throughout her life but enjoyed being a veterinary assistant the most.

She always considered herself a realist and was accepting of all life's struggles. She had a deep belief in Christ and strongly believed in visits from angels. As a family, we are all glad that our parents are once again together for eternity. May they rest in peace. They certainly deserve it.

Lorraine is survived by her five children, Randy (Linda) Drake, Reta (Aaron) Fikar, Rick Drake, Mike Drake, and Jay (Sheila) Drake. She is also survived by 11 grandchildren, Melissa, Josh (Lucy), Nichole (Ed), Jamie (Derrick), Jesse, Sara (Adam), Christy, Amanda, Chase, Kole, and Kenni; eight great grandchildren; her brother, Richard (Helen) Johnson; and her sister, Karen (Lowell) Dague.

She was preceded in death by her husband, James; her parents, Agnes and Birger; and a brother, Harold.

We want to sincerely thank Amber Oshan, P.A. at the Sparta Gundersen Clinic for all the loving care she gave our Mom for many years and for always being there for her. Also a huge thank you to end of life care at Gundersen Health System. Especially Dr. Sallaway, Dr. Wendell, Zari Averbek, RN, and Chaplain Blake Gooch. The kindness and care shown to Mom by all of them and all of the nurses involved was absolutely wonderful. Thank you all.

A graveside service was held Thursday, August 23, 2018 in Woodlawn Cemetery with Reverend Loretta Waughtel officiating. Online condolences may be offered at www.schanhoferfh.com.

The Lanham-Schanhofer Funeral Home, Sparta, assisted the family with funeral arrangements.

"Become Doers of the Word"

By: Pastor Todd Ahenman
Barronett Lutheran Church

These past few weeks many churches have been reading scripture selections of the Book of Ephesians, a letter written to Christians new to the faith. St. Paul explained the Word of God was calling them to be His children, and as children grow by learning from their parents, they too should continue listening and following the words of God, letting God work to bring out the best in them. Paul said they should put aside the bad language and poor moral conduct they saw around them and embrace the wisdom of God. Living each day according to that wisdom would be good for them, and for their families, and for their communities.

This Sunday the lessons turn to the letter of James. James also encouraged members of the early church to abandon their destructive patterns of life for ways of life worthy of the children of God. James encouraged Christians to take the next step, to be doers of the word and not hearers only. What is it that we are supposed to do? James 1:27 reads: "religion that is pure and undefiled before god the Father is this: to care for orphans and widows in their distress, and keep oneself unstained by the world."

The Greek word used in the scripture for religion may also be translated as worship. At the end of the service we are given the command: go in peace, serve the Lord (or similar words). Our worship of God does not end as we leave the church. It has begun in a different form. We are called to share words of comfort and hope to people, and bring healing to those we meet. We can make a difference. We must make a difference.

St. Paul wrote: "we urge you, beloved, to admonish the idlers, encourage the fainthearted, help the weak, be patient with all of them. See that none of you repays evil for evil, but always seek to do good to one another and to all. Rejoice always, pray without ceasing, and give thanks in all circumstances; for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus for you." AMEN.

OBITUARIES...

Kay Reichwald
 Kay Reichwald, age 60, of New Lisbon passed away unexpectedly, August 20, 2018, at her home. She was born April 18, 1958, in Ohio to Paul Sickels and Joanne Bush Sickels. Then her family moved to Wisconsin in September of 1970. Kay worked various jobs through her life, but always made time for her family and friends. That is where her heart was. In June of 2007, she was united in marriage to Glen Reichwald, who made her life complete. She will be greatly missed by those who knew her and especially her church family. She is survived by her husband, Glen; her mother, Joanne Melton; daughter, Amanda (Jesse) Crubaugh and their children, Jesse II (fiance' Courtney), Adrianna, Isabella and Gabriella; two great grandchildren: Raelyn and Anthony James; brother, Mike; sisters: Gayle, Karen, Peggy, Jodie and Diane; along with many other nieces, nephews, relatives and friends. She was preceded in death by her step-father, Donald Melton. Funeral services were held on Saturday August 25, 2018 at 11:30 a.m. at the Necedah V.F.W Hall, 105 Plum Street, Necedah. Pastor Dave Delaney officiated. Burial will take place at a later date. The Torkelson Funeral Home in Necedah will be assisting the family with arrangements. Online condolences are available at www.torkelsonfuneralhome.com

Something you should know about - WISCO...

Kelsey and Sarah are Pederson sisters, who also grew up in Cumberland. Aaron hails from Watertown, but I was told "assimilated quickly" into life in Cumberland. Sarah and Aaron met through mutual friends, and Kelsey met Brian through Sarah and Aaron. Or as they like to tell it, "Brian got Aaron a job and Aaron got Brian a wife!" The job that Brian got Aaron was with NextGen Water Sports. After graduation, Brian went to WITC for some vocational classes and then began working at IC Watersports, which later became NextGen. Then, when NextGen moved to Clear Lake, Brian went with them. But, he told me, "I was always looking for a way to come back to Cumberland" So when Brian heard that Lundmark was up for sale, he, Aaron, Kelsey and Sarah put their heads together and decided this was their opportunity. They are really excited to continue on the tradition of quality RV sales and service started by the Lundmark Campers, while bringing their own expertise in water sports to the community as well. Kelsey said "We really love our hometown." Brian added that "We really missed Cumberland" The team at WISCO also includes the "next generation" in water sports, Wren Thompson and Jack Simonis. It seems the couples do everything together, including having babies! Wren is just six weeks older than her cousin. I was really impressed with the enthusiasm that this plucky group is bringing to their new business venture. They told me "Cumberland deserves a good water sport shop to support the visitors to our beautiful lakes and wonderful community." Brian and Aaron are committed to continuing to provide quality service and a variety of quality recreational vehicles or water sports products. Whether you need RV and Marine products or service, WISCO wants you to become part of their business family. So you see Cumberland, we didn't lose a family business we gained a two family business! And I think it's safe to say that they are here for generations to come. Welcome home WISCO RV & Marine.

DON'T MIX DRINKING AND DRIVING!
 Graduations, weddings or holidays. Life's celebrations often involve alcohol and can end in tragedy when mixed with driving. More than 25,000 people each year are killed by drunk drivers. You can enjoy special celebrations by designating a driver, wearing your seat belt and NEVER letting a friend drive while intoxicated. don't let alcohol put the brakes on life's special moments. NEVER DRINK AND DRIVE!
