Two Tornadoes, 90 mph winds wreak havoc across Barron & Polk Counties

by Hope Lee Vicich

One of the things that has always impressed me most about living in Cumberland is the speed with which the community responds to crisis. The community's response in the wake of last Friday's devastating storms is a perfect example.

Last Friday, beginning at approximately 5:30 p.m., our area of Northwest Wisconsin was hit by an intense storm system. This storm generated two confirmed tornadoes (Horseshoe Lake and Upper Turtle Lake) and straight line winds nearing 100 mph. The storm has caused millions of dollars in property damage.

The areas hardest hit were Loon Lake, Staples Lake, Horseshoe Lake, Comstock, Alma and Turtle Lake. As of Tuesday morning, some areas are still without power. Many roads are still closed. Growing Wishes Greenhouse, still trying to recover from the destruction of their greenhouses after the last winter storm, was hit again Friday night. They also sustained damage to their home and greenhouses on the farm. They

Volunteers must check in at our volunteer reception site. By checking in volunteers receive liability coverage. Every hour volunteered provides financial relief to local towns. Volunteers will be driving to work sites.

All volunteers must bring picture ID, wear closed toe shoes, long pants, long sleeve shirts, safety glasses, and work gloves. Volunteers should bring their own bag lunch. Bug spray and sunscreen are recommended.

Volunteers for onsite clean-up efforts ages 14-17 are welcome with completed registration form signed by a parent or guardian. The form is available on the Barron County website: www.barroncountywi.gov.

Registration forms are available online at the Barron County Website: www.barroncountywi.gov. Volunteers may bring the completed form to the volunteer reception center to speed the registration process. Volunteers will need to present a driver's license or photo ID when registering.

These two photos show a sampling of the damage caused Friday night as a major storm system blew through our area creating two tornadoes and high winds. The storm's devastating aftermath will take months to clean up. As of press time, there are still areas without power. Top: A home on Crystal Lake. Bottom: A farm on County Hwy. P as you enter Alma.

"Big Elephant is Drowned" by Mark R. Fuller

The headline in the June 30, 1911 Advocate summed it up quickly, with the headline, "The Big Elephant is Drowned." It described the unusual occurrence that had taken place in the Island City the previous Saturday, shortly after the Yankee Robinson Three Ring Circus had come to town.

The circus flyer described the "two trains of cars that would arrive that summer day. It called the circus, "the marvel of the 20th century, appearing under the largest canvas ever constructed."

It was said to include, "ballet performing sea lions, the roller skating bear, Wild West Bullfighters and "Tom Tom" the largest elephant on earth."

The circus train arrived about 8:00 am that morning and unloaded in front of a large crowd near where Seneca Foods Corporation stands today. The goal was to move everything to the circus grounds, just east of the Lakeside Cemetery, to prepare for the days upcoming shows.

The elephants were the last to unload, as "Tom Tom" first emerged. Described as "the largest elephant on earth," he was very old, partially blind and very cantankerous. Because of this, he had chains from his front feet to his tusks to aid his handlers in keeping him under control.

Before crossing the bridge and moving him to the circus grounds, it was decided to give him a drink from the lake. Unfortunately a drink was not enough for the large elephant as he moved further into the lake. He stepped off the slab fill, which constituted the shoreline, as his front feet began to sink into the mud and water.

Because of the chains fastened to his front feet, his handlers could not back him out. "Tom Tom" showed little concern as he continued to move out into the mud and cool waters of the lake, until in a short time, all that could be seen of him was the top of his head and his upright trunk.

The circus workers tried to locate a boat to aid the elephant, but it was "too little, too late," as he finally dropped his trunk and quit moving. "Tom Tom" had drowned.

Two eight-horse hitchers were secured and were finally able to pull the body up on dry land. His remains were then drug to the nearby fire pit, covered with sawdust, and buried, but not before his valuable tusks were removed. The circus handlers seemed to handle his passing well. The Advocate said employees of the show said he had become so ugly that, "little could be done with him and they were in constant danger."

Saturday's two shows went on that night without "Tom Tom." The afternoon show was well attended, while the evening performance was less so. The paper added, "The circus employees conducted themselves with more than the usual propriety and nothing occurred to justify the bad reputation given the show by newspapers in some of the towns in which they have exhibited."

The circus would continue to come to Cumberland for several more years. The following July, the Gollmar Brothers Circus would appear in town on July 29. Among their attractions were the "biggest hippo in captivity, the Ben Hur Stallions." It didn't say if anyone stopped by the lake for a drink.

Through over 100-years of construction work on Highway 48 and various building activity, no traces of "Tom Tom" were ever found. We believe he was laid to rest somewhere below mill hill. The elephant "Tom Tom" met his demise in Cumberland and his whereabouts are still a mystery today.

Northwoods Notebook: Was the city beach better "in the day?"

by Larry Werner

I belong to a Facebook page called "Memories of Bay City," which has posts about my hometown in Michigan. Many, if not most, of the comments deal with the way things were years ago.

Of course, they were better then, more fun then, safer then – 40, 50, 60 years ago. Or at least that's what those who, like I, grew up there, and probably left, living now in places like, say, Cumberland, Wisconsin.

The other night, Paula Clay called my attention to a discussion on a page called "You know you're from Cumberland, WI, if you . . ." The discussion had to do with whether our concerts on summer Tuesdays should be at the city beach, also known as Tourist Park. Paula posted a comment explaining that Island City Music was started to bring people downtown, where we have a stage on Library Lake.

Most of the sponsors are downtown businesses and organizations and, in fact, the city received an award from the Wisconsin Economic Development Corp. last February for the series. The "Main Street Award" recognizes downtown development efforts.

I joined the Cumberland Facebook group and explained in a post that Paula was correct and that the seed money to start the concert series came from the Cumberland Area Business Alliance, which was definitely interested in having the concerts downtown. But in addition to comments about where to have music, the discussion dealt more broadly with whether Tourist Park was a better place back when, and whether it needs work.

In large white type on a bright red background, there is this comment posted on June 30: "Back in the 50s and 60s the Cumberland beach was packed to full capacity on days like today." The critical comments ranged from rocks in the swimming area to no swimming raft to problems with general upkeep. One woman wrote: "I raised my kids on that beach. Will not take my grandson there. I won't take my dogs."

The critical comments were countered with posts saying it's still a very good place and many recollections of great times there years ago, such as: "I have pictures of our times spent at that park. It's a big plus for that beautiful town."

It's true that the swimming raft is gone because the city can't fill lifeguard jobs, and the park could use some sprucing up. And several posters said there should be a volunteer effort to restore the park to its former grandeur.

Coincidentally, a couple weeks ago, I got an email from a friend who had been discussing the condition of the park with friends. "They were saddened by the fact that the shelters and bathrooms look run down and not clean. It would be nice if some civic groups would take on this (or parts of this) as a project and make the park something to be proud of by Baga."

With Baga Fest just a month away, that timeline might be a bit ambitious, but a volunteer effort to spruce up the park is a great idea.

And, by the way, I always take my grandson to Tourist Park when he's in town. He loves the place.

Windows were blown out, siding ripped off, the roof was badly damaged, water throughout the house and more at the Justin Jobe home located on 18th Ave near Comstock. Pieces of siding were picked up off a pile and literally harpooned through the home. Justin stated "I'm just thankful no one was home at the time of the storm as glass flew throughout the house!"

"Mom is doing a great job of taking care of Dad. I wish she would let us help. What can we do to make things easier for her?"
Meals on Wheels can lighten her load.

Fundraiser To Save Ahnika's Vision!!

AT: THE HAMMER BAR, Cumberland

(715) 822-4004

WHEN: August 3rd from 11a.m. - 2p.m.

(Donations needed at least one week prior to fundraiser)

Spaghetti Feed and prizes throughout the day!!

Ahnika is a bright 11 year old. She was born with Severe Outward Turning Of Her Eyes and Optic Nerve Atrophy. She had eye surgery at 2 yrs old, her eyes stabilized but still has rotatory nystagmus and the optic nerve continues to degenerate. We've struggled to find the correct technology needed to help Ahnika live a "normal" child's life. Until, we found 'Restore Vision' in Germany in 2017!! She underwent Electrical Brain Stimulation and had substantial gains in her vision as she was nearly legally blind. She could not walk down a sloped sidewalk or see objects like a curb or bump without falling. She can now see these things but she continues to struggle with seeing letters, reading, writing and other visual challenges. Having the ability to return a 2nd time would give her the chance of hope with less heartache and tears, to someday live and see as other people do! I know I have to fight for my little girl's life as the answer is out there. So Please come and support my little girl for her chance at a better visual future!!! We are very thankful with much gratitude, as this wouldn't be possible without each and everyone of you, as this treatment is not available in the U.S. and Not covered by Insurance.

Opinion

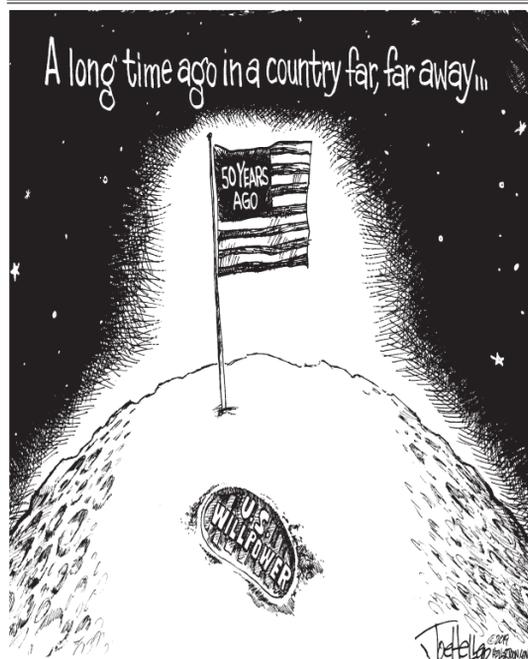

By Craig Bucher

“Ship, Ship, Ship.” These three little words seem to me, to perfectly represent what is wrong with our economic system. They come from a pharmaceutical representative to pharmacy customers in an Ohio county. They express the wish to ship more and more opioid pills to customers in this Ohio county. No matter that big pharmaceutical companies, a couple of years ago, shipped enough opioid pills so that there were 36 pills for every man, woman, and child in the United States. Corporate greed says “more is better.” Is there any clearer example how our system is out of wack? Profit over public good. Make more money - forget about public good seems to be the economic model of the United States and let nothing get in the way of more profits seems to be the rallying cry of the corporations that control our lives.

Rain, heat, and wind, are three words characterizing our weather that all seem to be preceded by the word “extreme.” I hope it doesn’t get any worse than the storm that hit our area last weekend. Although the storm was brutal, at least no one was injured or killed. I can’t imagine what it must be like to live through a hurricane or a flood such as those storms that hit our southeastern coast line this past month. I believe we must, as soon as possible, take steps to slow the process of climate change caused by our human activity. What we do will cause our grandchildren and great grandchildren to either curse us or praise us. I hope we make the right decisions.

SEE YOU NEXT WEEK!

Inside Wisconsin

People win when collaboration leverages Wisconsin research assets

WUWATOSA, Wis. – A few years ago, Melissa Skala and Joe Carroll didn’t know one another. In fact, their areas of expertise as researchers didn’t seem to intersect – at least, not directly.

Today, UW-Madison professor Skala and Medical College of Wisconsin professor Carroll are co-investigators on a project with the promise of helping millions of people who are blind or otherwise visually impaired.

Their partnership is also an example of how Wisconsin’s academic research institutions can – and increasingly do – work together to solve human problems.

Skala was a highly touted recruit from Vanderbilt University who joined the private Morgridge Institute for Research three years ago as a cancer imaging investigator, a role that extends to her role on the UW-Madison’s biomedical engineering faculty.

Carroll is one of the nation’s leading scientists in “adaptive optics retinal imaging,” which can be used to treat eye conditions at the cellular level. He’s a professor of ophthalmology at MCW and an adjunct professor of biomedical engineering at Marquette University.

What pulled their work together, largely through informal contacts versus institutional channels, was a common interest in medical imaging.

Skala had developed imaging technology to help personalize cancer treatments and reduce the side effects of chemotherapy. Her technology is also being used by the UW-Madison’s McPherson Eye Research Institute to better image the progress of disease. That led to connecting with Carroll, whose research brings in patients from around the world to Milwaukee.

After a trip to Carroll’s lab that included a half-dozen of Skala’s students, work began on a project to help answer questions about the role of melanin in vision. Melanin is a compound best known for determining skin pigmentation, but it also serves a protective role in the eye by absorbing excess light that can damage the retina.

Since that first field trip, a team led by Carroll and Skala has developed an imaging technique that offers three-dimensional, color images of melanin in the eye. It marked the first time a technique called photo thermal optical coherence tomography had been applied to eye research.

It’s a breakthrough that could help millions of people, given the incidence of blindness and eye disease in the United States alone. Blindness affects one in 28 Americans over the age of 40, with cases of age-related macular degeneration expected to double by 2050 and cases of diabetic retinopathy predicted to increase four-fold by the same year. The cost of vision problems is estimated at $140 billion, which ranks fourth among chronic medical conditions.

“As the incidence and burden of these conditions is expected to dramatically increase the coming years, better tools are needed to diagnose and treat these devastating diseases,” Carroll said during a July 11 meeting of the Tech Council Innovation Network in Wauwatosa.

Eye disease is one example of how academic researchers in Wisconsin are collaborating, not just on health-related issues, but other technologies with implications for people, animals, industry and the environment.

Marshfield Clinic research scientist Scott Hebring is working with the core computation team at Morgridge to help produce a massive database that shows connections between thousands of human diseases and known genetic markers that influence those diseases.

ing with Skala to do more basic research around pancreatic cancer tumors. The goal is better, more personalized treatment for a disease with a high death rate. The project also is helping Skala look at disparities in urban and rural pancreatic cancer rates.

Morgridge researchers also work with other UW System schools and scientists beyond Wisconsin at Harvard, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and UC-Santa Barbara.

Projects aimed at optimizing battery performance involve researchers at the UW-Milwaukee, UW-Madison and Marquette. Similarly, students and faculty at UW Systems school work together on projects tied to water, energy, engineering and agriculture.

Those are a few examples of how Wisconsin’s academic researchers are working together to address real-world problems, regardless of institutional boundaries that can sometimes stifle cooperation. The more bright minds that can be recruited and retained by Wisconsin colleges and universities, the better the chances of those minds getting together for the public good.

Brandon M. Swanson, 37, of Turtle Lake, has been charged with possession of methamphetamine, and possession of drug paraphernalia. His preliminary hearing was held July 22, 2019.

Daniel W. Loper, 39, of Eugene, Oregon, has been charged with conspiracy to commit possession with intent to deliver THC 2,500 - 10,000 grams.

The criminal complaint states that on January 23 2019, Barron County Detective Hagen obtained a search warrant for a residence located in the Prairie Lake Estate trailer court. The residence belonged to an individual named Kiel Slayton.

According to reports of Detective Hagen, Slayton has been the subject of an ongoing investigation involving the trafficking of large amounts of marijuana from the State of Oregon that are ultimately being distributed in the Barron County area.

Upon his arrival at the residence, a female identified as H. W. and a male identified as G. G. were located in the residence. Upon his entry into the residence Detective Hagen noted a very intense and strong odor of marijuana emanating from the residence.

Officers located two duffel bags that each contained a large quantity of marijuana, behind the living room couch. The first duffel bag contained 308 grams of marijuana inside a vacuum sealed bag. A second bag containing 322 grams of marijuana was located inside a plastic bag that was inside a heat sealed bag. A third bag containing 263 grams of marijuana was located inside an open vacuum sealed bag.

The second duffel bag contained three separate bags of suspected marijuana. The first bag weighed 119 grams and was located inside an open plastic bag that was located inside a gallon size resealable bag. A second bag containing 439 grams of suspected marijuana was located inside a vacuum sealed bag. A third bag containing 460 grams of suspected marijuana was triple sealed in a vacuum sealed bags.

Approximately $1,024 US currency was found in a wallet that contained Slayton's driver's license. In addition $4,960 in cash was located in a locked safe under a table in the master bedroom. A functioning digital scale with marijuana residue on it was located in a center desk drawer of a desk located in the master bedroom.

In addition six yellow manila envelopes containing a suspected marijuana wax was found. Each of the envelopes were labeled as 28 grams and were sealed. They were found in the other duffel bag.

Detective Hagen field tested a sample of each of the packages of suspected marijuana and obtained a positive result for the presence of tetrahydrocannabinol. The suspected marijuana wax was also field tested and he obtained a positive result for the presence of tetrahydrocannabinol. All of the suspected plant material was weighed and Detective Hagen obtained a total weight of 1911 grams, or approximately 68.25 ounces. This is equivalent to a little more than 4 1/4 pounds. If the weight of the marijuana wax was indicated correctly on the envelopes, they would account for an additional six ounces of marijuana for a total weight of approximately 4.64 pounds.

Detective Hagen is aware that this quantity of marijuana is far greater than an amount one would possess for personal use. It is an amount consistent with what someone would possess for distribution in amounts ranging in grams to pounds.

Detective Hagen has been investigating Slayton and is aware that he does not have legitimate employment and in fact, has misrepresented his employment to various law enforcement officers who have had contact with him by claiming he works at a specific place that investigation revealed he did not.

Slayton has been subject to an ongoing investigation involving trafficking of marijuana into the Barron County area. During the course of Detective Hagen's investigation he has interviewed several individuals that were directly involved with Slayton trafficking marijuana.

One of them described how Slayton would arrange for the marijuana to be shipped to the subject in Eau Claire, who would in turn transport it from Eau Claire to a residence in Dallas, WI., where he would meet with another individual. It was at this residence where they would divide up the marijuana and direct which individual sold which quantity of marijuana. Detective Hagen subsequently served a search warrant at that subject's residence and during the course of that search warrant approximately 5 1/2 pounds of marijuana were found. Detective Hagen interviewed the subject, who said he had been distributing marijuana for over a year with Slayton. He indicated that for about the past year, up to October 2016, he was receiving approximately a quarter pound quantities of marijuana from Slayton on a weekly basis. At a point in time when Slayton had been incarcerated, the subject had contacted him and asked him to continue the distribution of marijuana so they could continue to make money. He indicated Slayton put him in contact with someone and directed them to manage the distribution. He indicated they were getting as much as 10 pounds of marijuana at a time and this had taken place on approximately seven to eight occasions since October 2016.

In January 2018, Detective Hagen spoke with a Minnesota State Trooper who would have been involved in the arrest of an individual on December 21, 2018. The subject had been pulled over in a car by the Minnesota State Patrol near Sauk Center, Minnesota, and had approximately 20 pounds of marijuana in a suitcase. When she was interviewed she indicated she was originally from Oregon and was on her way to meet someone in Wisconsin. She reported that she received 20 pounds of marijuana in a suitcase from an individual identified to her as "Yoda." Detective Hagen recognized that name as belonging to an individual named Daniel Loper, who is believed to be the source of Slayton's marijuana from the State of Oregon. She further indicated she was provided with a phone number with a 715 area code from "Yoda." She was instructed to contact the male from Wisconsin about meeting him in Minnesota to exchange the marijuana for a suitcase containing money.

On March 7, 2019, Detective Hagen conducted an interview with Daniel Loper. This interview took place following the execution of the search warrant at a residence belonging to Loper in Eugene, Oregon. Detective Hagen assisted in the execution of a federal search warrant along with agents from the Federal DEA, as well as officers from the Eugene Police Department. During the execution of the search warrant, Detective Hagen observed what he believed to be several bags of marijuana in various sizes and quantities in numerous locations in a bedroom belonging to Daniel Loper. He also observed digital scales.

During the course of his interview with Loper, Detective Hagen discussed an individual named Kiel Slayton. Loper indicated that he knew who Slayton was and was aware that he had been arrested in Wisconsin. Loper referred to Slayton as "father." A subsequent examination of Loper's phone by Detective Hagen resulted in him finding a contact named "father" with a telephone number that matched the number he knew belonged to Slayton.

Loper indicated that he had not been dealing with Slayton for a long time. Detective Hagen confronted him with evidence that he knew Loper had dealt with Slayton as recently as December 2018, which Loper did not deny. Loper indicated that Slayton came to visit him, but he wasn't sure of the exact date. He indicated that he stopped dealing with Slayton when Slayton became involved with cocaine since he deemed them not safe to be dealing with. He indicated that he had known Slayton for about eight years, but refused to disclose how much marijuana he had sold to Slayton over the years or how much money he had received from him for marijuana sales. He explained it was not as much money as the officers would think. He indicated it wasn't a very lucrative business anymore because of losses sustained from seizures, including the seizures of marijuana going out and the money coming in.

The interview ended when Detective Hagen started discussing with Loper, the amount of cash that was found in the residence in question and concerning his mother's knowledge of the cash. Detective Hagen was aware that over $50,000 in cash had been found during the execution of the search warrant in what was believed to be the bedroom of Loper's mother. She indicated that the money belonged to her son Daniel and she didn't know where he obtained it from, but assumed it was from the sales of marijuana that was kept in her room so that none of his friends would know how much money he had in his possession.

If convicted Daniel Loper may be fined not more than $25,000 or imprisoned for not more than 12 years and six months, or both. His driver's license may also be suspended for not less than six months or more than five years. His initial appearance is scheduled for August 8, 2019.

Eric T. Thorson, 37, of Rice Lake, has been charged with arson of a building, disorderly conduct, mistreating animals-intentional or negligent violation.

The criminal complaint states that on July 11, 2019, at approximately 4:19 p.m. Barron County Deputy Storberg was dispatched to 18 1/2 Avenue in Rice Lake Township for a report that a subject was out of control and had started a fire. The Rice Lake Fire Department was paged and also responded to the residence.

Upon arrival Deputy Storberg met with the manager of the trailer park. He indicated Thorson had come home earlier that afternoon on his bike. He said he was drunk. Thorson was later administered a preliminary breath test at the Barron County Jail, and the result as .316.

The manager said Thorson wanted help getting rid of his kittens and the manager told him he had to wait until the next day when the landlord came. He then returned to his apartment. A short time later, Richard's roommate, Sheryl, came running into the apartment saying that Thorson was slamming the kittens on the concrete.

Deputy Storberg also spoke with Richard's brother-in-law. He was sitting in front of his house, which is next to Thorson's apartment, when he observed Thorson come out of his apartment screaming and yelling saying he could not take it anymore. He then started throwing kittens out the door, throwing them from his height where his arm was and down to the ground onto the blacktop pavement. The brother-in-law said this upset him and he told Thorson that he couldn't do that. He ran over to Thorson's apartment and told him he could not let the cats go in the court and that he should take them to an animal shelter. Thorson said he was going to kill all the kittens and then went into his apartment. The brother-in-law went around to retrieve all of the cats because they had taken off after being thrown to the ground. While he was retrieving one of the kittens, he heard someone yelling, "he set the house on fire."

The brother-in-law turned and noticed Thorson was down the driveway and there was smoke coming from his apartment. He and another male subject went inside the apartment and threw a blanket on the fire and put it out. While Deputy Storberg was talking to Richard, the Rice Lake Fire Department arrived. The fire was out, but it was still smoking.

Deputy Storberg spoke with Thorson, who said after he had gotten into an

Hall of Fame!

Dick Nelson

Dick Nelson; Hall of Fame Inductee by Mark R. Fuller

The Cumberland Athletic Hall of Fame Class for 2019 includes five inductees. "Each has left their mark on Cumberland's distinguished athletic history," said Committee Member Chad Olson. Going in the Alumnus category is Dick Nelson, from the graduating class of 1967.

In high school, Nelson lettered four-times in golf and twice in basketball. As a senior, Nelson would become a First Team All-Conference basketball performer averaging 18-points per game. He would score 26-points in the Beavers 69-63 Regional Championship victory over River Falls.

He would go on to play one year of college basketball at UW-Barron County Campus, where he led the team with 21.5 points per game and one year at UW-Superior, before concentrating on obtaining his education degree.

After College graduation, Nelson would take a teaching/coaching position in Pecatonica, where he became their Head Basketball Coach. After three years, he would move on to Valders, where he would serve in those same positions for the next 22-years.

His coaching career in Valders would take him on a Hall-of-Fame path. His teams would win eight Conference Titles, eight Regional Championships, and go on to three State Tournament appearances in Madison, where his teams would finish as the State runner-up in each case.

Nelson would coach in the State All-Star games on two occasions and his teams would win 336 games before his retirement from coaching in 1996. In 1997, he would be inducted into the Manitowoc-Two Rivers Lakeshore Sports Hall-of-Fame.

In 2012, the State Basketball Coaches Association recognized his achievements, by inducting him into the State Basketball Hall-of-Fame.

Nelson would go on to finish with 34-total years in education, concluding his career by serving four-years as the principal at Rice Lake High School, in the community where Nelson and his wife Dorothy live today.

On October 5 this fall, we will be bringing him back home to Cumberland, for the 2019 Hall-of-Fame Banquet, where the residents of Cumberland can also celebrate his athletic achievements.

The Induction Banquet will take place on Saturday, October 5 at the Das Lach Haus in Cumberland. Tickets will go on sale to the public on August 1 in the High School Office.

Brenna At All Star Weekend

Cumberland High School Class of 2019 soccer player, Max Brenna, and Head Coach, B.J. Brenna, were in LaCrosse, WI this past weekend for the 29th Annual WSCA-Masonic Boys and Girls Soccer All-Star Weekend. Both were selected by the Wisconsin Soccer Coaches Association to the Blue Team and were the only northern Wisconsin representatives. Coach Brenna assisted head coach, Chris Becker of Green Bay Preble, in coaching the Blue All-Star Team. Max Brenna was selected as a defensive midfielder and made the starting 11 as a right outside defender. Activities started on Thursday and included two training sessions Friday in very hot and humid weather. "I enjoyed the training even though it was really hot. My favorite part was getting the opportunity to know and play with so many high caliber athletes," said Max Brenna. Much to the dismay of those in attendance, severe weather impacted Saturday's All-Star games. The Girls Soccer All-Star Game was shortened by nearly 30 minutes and the Boys Game was cancelled due to several hours of severe weather. "It's unfortunate these guys weren't able to play, I am grateful for the opportunity and would have loved to see what they could do in a match together," said Coach Brenna.

Coach BJ and Max Brenna

Camp American Legion, Very Impressive!

Hello friends,

I have written several times about the fact that I am blessed to know hundreds of really good people, and this week I can say that again as I made a whole bunch of new friends that you are about to read about.

Chuck and Kathie Stelzners are from Howards Grove and last winter started corresponding with Selina and I. Back in May Chuck asked me if I would like to spend some time with him at Oneida Counties, Camp American Legion. I had no idea what Camp American Legion was and was told that it is a resort/retreat that is owned and managed by The American Legion and is a place for Wisconsin veterans and active duty members that could use a place to rest and rehabilitate.

Camp American Legion is on Big Carr Lake and borders the south end of the Minocqua chain of lakes. In our first conversation I found out that I could bring my 18'6 War Eagle up to camp and take past and present service members fishing and that is what I did, most importantly I learned about an incredible resort that was originally created for WWI vets, and is a spiritual place to spend time.

Tuesday June 9th

High 82, low 54

I had no idea what I was getting into and was amazed when I arrived this afternoon with my golden retriever "Fire" who would be a big hit the next three days. First I met Chuck Stelzners for the first time and the camp manager Don Grundy. About all I can say about Don Grundy is he is a blessing for this place. He can build, create, speak, clean up, and cook.

This entire experience is free to those who qualify and all meals are shared together in a very unique lodge that was built in 1929. About 1200 people stay here a year and I started making friends right off the bat and making reservations. When I say reservations I mean booking out fishing trips which would be a total of seven where people signed up and I took them trolling for walleye and smallmouth bass.

What really impressed me about this camp is all of the volunteers, they need more, of which most are past service members and many of them are veterans of the Vietnam War. These guys and gals take folks fishing on pontoon boats, help cook, do dishes, and simply spend time with with a lot of Wisconsin's

Tonight after my first expedition I had the pleasure of meeting Dave Nance. Dave volunteers here for most of the season and is just a real pleasant man to be around. Tonight Dave had taken Dawn Putzke and her three children Alden, Presley, and Tillie fishing and everyone was in a great mood. Dawn is a Wisconsin Air National Guard member at Volk Field and is here with her father Joe Resop Jr. Joe Resop served in Vietnam in 67, 68 and was beat up pretty bad in the Battle of Hue but still enjoys each and every day.

Wednesday, July 10th

High 84, low 57

Today I took out four groups starting at 6, 9, 1 and 6. It was a great day in my life. I taught our heroes and some family members how to troll, most importantly we went for a boat ride and just talked. In every case I had someone else run the boat, which I just met, as I was running six lines for my new friends.

In a lot of cases I listened to men who I had just met in my boat, share stories about the military or life after the military and for myself it was an incredible experience.

We have all heard about the damage done to some people in military, conflict that does not have obvious wounds and over this three day period I learned how Camp American Legion is such an incredible place for folks to come and heal.

The meals together, and the cabins that are sponsored with great pride by American Legion posts from throughout Wisconsin, are all great.

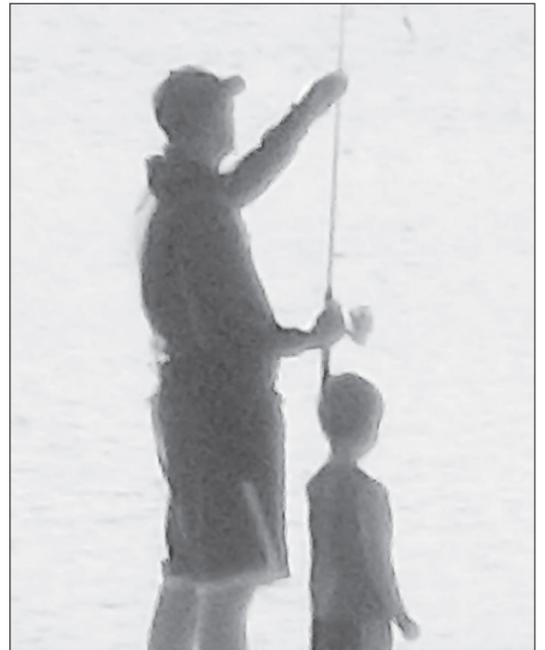

I made a point of not asking any questions and today I fished with a father, son team of Brent and Wayland from Green Bay. Brent and Wayland are just starting to get into outdoor experiences and for myself it would have been worth a $500.00 bill to see how happy they were whenever they landed another fish and the joy they had together through their shared experiences.

Folks, Camp American Legion is there for those in need, but does have a problem, and that is that there simply is not as many people in the American Legion as there used to be which in short comes to dollars and cents.

Think about this for a second, all the wars since WW1, this place has been there to help our vets at

Barronett News By Judy Pieper

It's time for the Barronett Civic Club Poker Run! The Run will be held this Saturday, July 27. Registration starts at 10:30 a.m. at Barronett Bar and Grill. The ride starts at 11:30, so riders can stay at the bar for a Bloody Mary or go next door to the Red Brick Cafe for breakfast or a snack. If you would like to join the fun, but choose not to drive, there is a bus available. The ride ends at Barronett Community center where prizes will be given out. Join the bikers for a great time.

Tonja Metnik told me that it is now official that the Wiesner Community Chapel will be moving to its new location at Hungry Hollow very soon. The Friends of Wiesner Community Chapel had several heartfelt discussions regarding the move versus putting in a new foundation and it was decided that it would be better to move the chapel to Hungry Hollow. The chapel will still be available to the Friends of Wiesner Community Chapel for their family and friends' reunion and for the candlelight service in December.

There will be a memorial plaque posted at the present site stating the date that the chapel was built and the date it was moved to Hungry Hollow. It will be different not seeing the chapel sitting on County Road V, but we are glad there will be a plaque to remember its original location.

And, the annual Friends and Family Reunion will be held on August 18th at the chapel at Hungry Hollow. I will have more news on that in the coming weeks. Just remember you may not know it, but everyone is either a friend or family member of this group. Mark it on your calendar and come to see the new location of the Wiesner Community Chapel and meet all your new (and old) friends.

Dick Grover mentioned to Annie Egstad that he had seen a small bear at her place this past week. Annie said that she had probably seen the same bear. She was looking out the window and saw what was, probably, a two-year old bear crawl under the fence, which is around the corral, then walk out the gate and toward the shed. Well, Jerry happened to be working in the shed at that time, so Annie went out to warn him that the bear was coming. The bear didn't pay a bit of attention to her, just kept ambling along, and finally disappeared into the woods. Pretty scary stuff. There seems to be an awfully lot of bear sightings this year, don't you think?

And now, here's Terry Godrich's tale of the lady bicyclist and the wolf. He had been in northern Minnesota at a cowboy competition and was driving back home when he noticed a few cars stopped on the side of the road. As he approached, he saw that they were looking at a wolf and then started on his way again. A little way down the road he saw a woman on a bicycle headed in the direction of the wolf. After he went past her, he thought he had probably better warn her that there was a wolf right down the road. So he made a U-turn at the next cross-over and headed back. It was a little late, the woman had already passed the wolf and the wolf was following her. Terry said that he just seemed to be following, not actually chasing. Terry got his truck between the wolf and the woman, and every time the wolf tried to come around, Terry would cut him off. He finally gave up and ran off into the woods.

After the wolf disappeared, the woman and Terry both stopped and she thanked him for keeping the wolf at bay. She said that she had been bicycling from British Columbia and was meeting her husband in Duluth. From there she was going to continue on to the east coast. She was very grateful that Terry had turned back and helped her. Terry said that he was still in his cowboy costume, with his suspenders hanging down, and she didn't even seem to care about his appearance. She was just very happy to be safe.

Jim and Summer Marsh hosted an eighth birthday party for Wrigley at their home in Rice Lake last Wednesday evening. There were lots of friends and relatives to celebrate with Wrigley, and we all had a great time. The kids played a war game with guns that shot sponge bullets. They had to try to capture the other team's flag. After that Jim brought out the water balloons. There were hundreds of them, and by the end of the game, there wasn't one dry child in the area. I was impressed-the only adults who got wet were Jim and his brother-in-law, Aaron Barta. They were the ones bringing out the balloons, so the kids figured they were fair game. There was plenty of great food, birthday cake and presents to open. We all had lots of fun.

Miriah Lehmann and Jeremy Olson hosted a birthday party at their home in rural Shell Lake for Ryan Lehmann on July 14th. They had prepared a brunch with lots of fresh fruit and other breakfast items and it was delicious! The weather was beautiful and we ate at tables outside. It was a wonderful party, and we decided that Miriah and Jeremy should host at least one a month.

That was a terrible storm we had this past week, wasn't it? We didn't have any damage, but lightning struck a tree at Lynn Thon's house. It didn't start a fire or knock the tree over, but it was split in half and there were huge splinters scattered for about 600 feet. She said the boom of the thunder was deafening. Duane and I went to Barron to check on Richard, and damage there was devastating. Trees down all over the place, power lines on the ground, buildings without roofs, and the corn fields were flattened. There was only one tree damaged at Richard's house, so we will be cleaning that up this week. He was very lucky-it didn't hit his house or the power lines. It's hard to believe that straight line winds could do so much damage.

That's about all I know from Barronett this week. See you next time.

Senior News By Gloria Lindeman

I haven't been writing the news lately as I am sure you have noticed. I had knee surgery so was out of touch for awhile.

Thank you to everyone for the well wishes and pretty cards. It was very much appreciated.

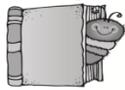

Now the news about the center, as of July 17th the center is completely closed to all activities until further notice.

The reason for this is the kitchen needs to be remodeled and the workers are coming to complete this. They do not want any distractions so they can finish their work. Please do not bother them for any reason.. We will let you know when work is finished and we can use the center again. We are sorry for the inconvenience but will be so nice to have a brand new kitchen.. Please make other arrangements to play cards etc. at other places. Heck, it's a good time to entertain your group at your house.

We will be planning a grand opening when all is ready so just be patient. Until next week stay cool and if you like call Lisa and go eat lunch at St Paul's Church, the food is always good and nice to visit with everyone. Try to stay cool looks like we are in for some HOT days.

This week:

Elvis in Vegas by Richard Zoglin

c. 2019 • Simon & Schuster • $28.00 • 297 pages

Cherry, cherry, cherry.

That's what you want to see, as you reach for the lever and take another spin. Or is it a little ball in a slot you'd like better, or the right number from a deck of cards? When you're in Vegas, baby, anything can happen - even, as in the new book "Elvis in Vegas" by Richard Zoglin, breathing life in what seemed nearly dead.

His first time in Las Vegas was not his idea. And it wasn't a good idea, either.

It was the spring of 1956 and Elvis Presley's star was rising. Teenage girls screamed for him onstage and he'd already been a "regional phenomenon" when he recorded his first mainstream single, "Heartbreak Hotel." That record was at the top of the charts when his manager, Colonel Tom Parker, booked Elvis at the New Frontier hotel but there was one problem: Vegas show-goers in 1956 were more middle-of-the-road and middle-aged. To them, rock & roll was just a fad.

That was Elvis' first show on a Las Vegas stage, and it would be his last for more than thirteen years.

In the meantime, the city grew up and out.

During the 1950s, says Zoglin, every major (and many minor) stars from Hollywood, Broadway, and the sporting world performed in Las Vegas, onstage or in lounges, or they came just to hang out. Singers honed their crafts and made their marks, actors offered unremarkable stage shows that were nevertheless sold out, and "Rat Pack" practically became a household term, while rock & roll bands came but didn't stick around. The city's population swelled to fifty-nine thousand citizens by 1960 and some twenty-thousand tourists visited each day, while Elvis Presley made movies that, at the end, were box-office busts.

He'd always loved Las Vegas for its glamour and fun. He'd been there many times, had even gotten married there, and it was the perfect place for him to perform, which was something he loved best. He signed a contract, put together a band, chose two back-up groups, and practiced. And on July 31, 1969, he stepped onstage...

Elvis Fans Unite! Read this book but be sure to share. "Elvis in Vegas" has something for almost everyone inside.

Author Richard Zoglin does, indeed, write about Presley in his early career, but he does it with a difference: while there's a strong but thin thread that ties the first pages to the last half of this book, the middle half offers a lively, nostalgic, cowtown-rags to high-roller-riches tale of not just a city, but of entertainment itself. The ascent and descent of many careers are wrapped up in Las Vegas history, and Zoglin tells the stories with an insider's feel and a sense that what happened fifty or sixty years ago is still great gossip.

Fans will hunka-hunka burnin'-love this book, while readers who are too young to recall Elvis' comeback but old enough to appreciate Sin City will enjoy it, too. "Elvis in Vegas" is a great summertime read. You can bet on that..

If you're in search of something great to take in the car, on vacation, on the tractor, or to the lunchroom, Terri can be reached at bookwormsez@yahoo.com. Happy Reading!

Church Directory

"God's Grace"

By: Pastor Ellery Groth
Grace Lutheran Church

Romans 5:20: Where sin increased, grace increased all the more.

Some people don't care for leftovers. I rather enjoy them. Many times my lunches consist of leftovers from supper the night before. I just heat them up in the microwave and they're ready to go. Leftovers tell you that when the food was first served, everybody got their fill and there was even some extra.

That's the way it is with God's love. Everybody gets all they need and there is still extra to go around. Paul tells us in our Bible reading that even when sin increases, God's grace, His undeserved love for sinners, increases to more than cover those sins. That's good to remember. How many people aren't needlessly tormented by the thought that some sin they have committed is too big for God to forgive. Gods' love and forgiveness are big enough to cover your sins and even have some left over. Human love often has limitations, but God's love knows no bounds. Nowhere is the enormity of God's love shown more clearly than on Calvary's cross. There, Jesus gave up His life to atone for the sins of the world.

Would you willingly give up your life for people who persecuted and despised you? That is exactly what Jesus did. Even more than that. While hanging on the cross He endured the pains of hell for such people. What tremendous love it took to do those things! That same bounteous love is shown to us every day in God's care for us.

Enjoy His grace, knowing it is with you every day and will never run out.

were forced to close and hope to be open again by the weekend.

In the wake of the storm, area businesses were hard pressed keeping up with the demands for water, ice and fast food. Because of the power outage during the storm, Subway in Cumberland was forced to close early because they ran out of bread and hadn't been able to bake more. Cumberland Ace Hardware sold out of chain saws, and there were no generators to be found.

On Friday night and Saturday morning the parking area at Kwik Trip was packed and lined with campers, trailers as well as passenger cars and trucks. Holiday and BP Amoco also reported record numbers of customers since, for many hours on Saturday morning, Cumberland was the only place with gas for sale at this end of the county. Turtle Lake and Almena both suffering from power outages.

The storm also caused the cancellation of a number of events. The Barron County Fair shut down and cancelled their Friday night grandstand event. Saturday's Annual Hog Jam Run and Dick Ruppel Golf Scramble fundraising events both had to be cancelled. There are no plans to reschedule Hog Jam, but they are planning on having the Ruppel Golf Scramble at a future date.

Though no injuries or deaths were reported during the storm, the clean up effort has taken its toll. One lineman working to clear power lines from a tree was injured when the tree came loose and struck him, breaking his spinal column and leaving him battling for life.

The public's response to the crisis has, as I said, been amazing. Lineman and tree experts from all over the state have been flooding into the area. Both Cumberland and Turtle Lake Schools have opened their gyms to the public for anyone needing showers. Northern Lakes Church hosted a free dinner Monday night for anyone still without power.

On Saturday morning, many area businesses opened early or stayed open late to accommodate those affected by the power outage. Local bars and restaurants report that this was the busiest they can ever remember being - even busier than 'Baga Fest!'

Crews from every energy supplier and road crews are working as hard as possible to get power restored and roads back open. Barron Electric's General Manager Dallas Sloan said, "As far as damage was concerned, this was more extensive than the 2017 tornado. Members can sign up for outage texting at barronelectric.com and view our interactive outage map. We appreciate our members' patience during this time. We also appreciate all of the positive comments from our Facebook followers. The crews enjoy hearing how much our members appreciate them." Barron Electric reported that over 9,000 customers were without service at one point and 70 poles were broken by the storm. Some area residents have reported receiving estimates of another 2-4 days before they can expect service. The clean-up effort is expected to take months.

Barron County is calling for volunteers to help with the clean-up effort. Please see the story on the front page for complete details.

While high praise is deserved by all the community members who have stepped up to help during this crisis, the public should be wary of the scam and con artists who inevitably show up after this type of event. Whenever possible, use known, local contractors for any clean-up or repair work. Get estimates in writing, don't pay for anything but materials up front, and never pay in cash. Get receipts for everything - your insurance company will want them.

Most importantly, be careful when attempting to clean-up storm debris yourself. Be wary of power lines, watch for falling debris, and don't try to lift or move anything big without help.

Many thanks to everyone who has stepped up to help out with this disaster. Linemen, emergency service personnel, law enforcement, and the road crews all deserve credit and praise for going above and beyond in response to the crisis.

Our thoughts and prayers go out to all effected by the storm. Special prayers of comfort and healing for the injured lineman and his family. We will stand together as a community until you are able to stand alone. God bless.

NOTICE OF OPEN BOOK AND BOARD OF REVIEW TOWN OF MCKINLEY

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that Open Book for the Town of McKinley will be held at the McKinley Town Hall, 2527 15th Street, Cumberland, Wisconsin on Tuesday, July 30, 2019, from 1:00 p.m. to 3:00 p.m. Board of Review will be held on Tuesday, August 6, 2019, from 9:00 to 11:00 a.m. at the McKinley Town Hall, 2527 15th Street, Cumberland, Wisconsin.

Please be advised of the following requirements to appear before the board of review and procedural requirements if appearing before the board:

1. No person will be allowed to appear before the board of review, to testify to the board by telephone, or to contest the amount of any assessment of real or personal property if the person has refused a reasonable written request by certified mail of the assessor to enter onto property to conduct an exterior view of such property being assessed.

2. After the first meeting of the board of review and before the board's final adjournment, no person who is scheduled to appear before the board of review may contact or provide information to a member of the board about the person's objection, except at a session of the board. Open book shall occur no less than 7 days prior to the board of review.

3. The board of review may not hear an objection to the amount or valuation of property unless, at least 48 hours before the board's first scheduled meeting, the objector provides to the board's clerk written or oral notice of an intent to file an objection, except that upon a showing of good cause and the submission of a written objection, the board shall waive that requirement during the first 2 hours of the board's first scheduled meeting, and the board may waive that requirement up to the end of the 5th day of the session or up to the end of the final day of the session if the session is less than 5 days with proof of extraordinary circumstances for failure to meet the 48-hour notice requirement and failure to appear before the board of review during the first 2 hours of the first scheduled meeting.

4. Objections to the amount or valuation of property shall first be made in writing and filed with the clerk of the board of review within the first 2 hours of the board's first scheduled meeting, except that, upon evidence of extraordinary circumstances, the board may waive that requirement up to the end of the 5th day of the session or up to the end of the final day of the session if the session is less than 5 days. The board may require objections to the amount or valuation of property to be submitted on forms approved by the Department of Revenue, and the board shall require that any forms include stated valuations of the property in question. Persons who own land and improvements to that land may object to the aggregate valuation of that land and improvements to that land, but no person who owns land and improvements to that land may object only to the valuation of that land or only to the valuation of improvements to that land. No person may be allowed in any action or proceedings to question the amount or valuation of property unless the written objection has been filed and that person in good faith presented evidence to the board in support of the objections and made full disclosure before the board, under oath, of all of that person's property liable to assessment in the district and the value of that property. The requirement that objections be in writing may be waived by express action of the board.

5. When appearing before the board of review, the objecting person shall specify in writing the person's estimate of the value of the land and of the improvements that are the subject of the person's objection and specify the information that the person used to arrive at that estimate.

6. No person may appear before the board of review, testify to the board by telephone, or object to a valuation if that valuation was made by the assessor or the objector using the income method of valuation, unless no later than 7 days before the first meeting of the board of review the person supplies the assessor with all the information about income and expenses, as specified in the assessor's manual under s. 73.03 (2a), Wis. stats., that the assessor requests. The Town of McKinley has an ordinance for the confidentiality of information about income and expenses that is provided to the assessor under this paragraph that provides exceptions for persons using information in the discharge of duties imposed by law or the duties of their officer or by order of a court. The information that is provided under this paragraph, unless a court determines before the first meeting of the board of review that it is inaccurate, is not subject to the right of inspection and copying under s. 19.35 (1), Wis. Stats.

7. The board shall hear upon oath, by telephone, all ill or disabled persons who present to the board a letter from a physician, surgeon, or osteopath that confirms their illness or disability. No other persons may testify by telephone unless the Board, in its discretion, has determined to grant a property owner's or their representative's request to testify under oath by telephone or written statement.

8. No person may appear before the board of review, testify to the board by telephone, or contest the amount of any assessment unless, at least 48 hours before the first meeting of the board, or at least 48 hours before the objection is heard if the objection is allowed under s. 70.47 (3) (a), Wis. stats., that person provides to the clerk of the board of review notice as to whether the person will ask for the removal of a member of the board of review and, if so, which member, and provides a reasonable estimate of the length of time the hearing will take.

Notice is hereby given this 16th day of July 2019.
