Drowning in Sandhill Lake

On Friday, October 4, 2019, at approximately 4:46 p.m. the Polk County Sheriff's Office Dispatch Center received a report of a possible drowning in Sandhill Lake off of 204th Street in Luck. Polk County Sheriff's Deputies, first responders and EMS were dispatched to the scene.

Upon arrival, emergency personnel found a subject unresponsive and began administering CPR. Attempts to resuscitate the subject were unsuccessful.

Based on the preliminary investigation, it appears that the subject was fishing on Sandhill Lake and fell out of a boat in to the water.

The subject was submerged in the water for several minutes.

The victim has been identified as Larry Richolz, age 70, of Frederic.

Assisting with incident were the Polk County Sheriff's Office, Luck Police Department, Cushing Fire Department, Luck Ambulance, St Croix Valley EMS, Frederic Fire Department, Polk County Medical Examiner's Office and the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources.

This matter was investigated by the Polk County Sheriff's Office and the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources.

Zoning change main focus of October City Council meeting

The Cumberland City Council met for October on Tuesday, October 1st.

After dispensing with the regular business items, the council opened a public hearing on a proposed zoning change and a conditional use request for migrant housing. The change would upgrade the property behind the old Donatell store to a C-1 Housing zoning which would allow for the creation of a 28 unit apartment. The property owners have secured agreements on enough additional land to provide for the parking required by the zoning. The council approved the zoning change.

The council then approved two contracts. They ratified the Cumberland Professional Police Association Labor Agreement for 2020-2022. Mayor Skinner congratulated and complimented all the parties involved in the process for manner in which the negotiations were handled.

The council also approved a contract with an Assessor to perform a total re-assessment of the property rolls.

Emergency was approved to conduct repair/replacement work on Lift Station #4 (Moser Field). An order for drum screen replacement parts from Enviro-Care was also approved. These parts would be kept "on hand" in case needed, to limit downtime on the waste handling equipment.

At the end of the meeting, the Mayor announced that he would like the City to take a more pro-active approach to enforcing the ordinances dealing with "nuisance" properties (run down, junk in yard, etc.). He would like to see the inspectors, police, city attorney and judge to address the problem.

The next regular meeting of the City Council is scheduled for Tuesday, November 5th at 7:00 p.m. at City Hall.

The United Fund of Cumberland begins its fundraising drive

When I first moved to Cumberland I remember noting the bright yellow banner stretched across Main St. reminding all that the United Fund of Cumberland was kicking off their fundraising effort. If I thought anything about it, I just assumed (as many people do) that it was just the local "United Way" drive. I have since learned how wrong I was.

The United Fund of Cumberland is unique to our community. It is not (and never has been) affiliated with the better known national organization the United Way. Though their concepts are similar - donations made are put in a general fund and then distributed to other causes and organizations, the differences are what truly sets them apart and makes the United Fund of Cumberland so special.

The money you donate to the United Fund stays in our community. The Fund supports causes from all tiers of society. The young and old, sports and arts, health and wellness, educational groups and the fire district are all represented in the list of recipients. Last year, the fund made donations to help build the Multi-use Courts (tennis, pickleball, basketball, etc.) at Islander Park, the CMC Wolf Ridge trip, Benjamin's House, Emergency Services of Barron County and Project Santa, just to name a few.

Included on the the flyer in this week Advocate is a complete list of last year's recipients, as well as the Board of Directors (which is made up of representatives from all aspects of our community). The flyer also tells you how to make donations and nominate other causes or organizations for consideration by the United Fund.

The United Fund of Cumberland is a totally volunteer organization. There are no administrative costs or salaries paid so 99% of all donations go directly to the charitable organizations, non-profit agencies or causes that are recommended or apply to the Fund for support. Best yet, those donations are used to support our local community needs.

The Board of Directors also invites you to attend their Annual Meeting. The date has yet to be determined but will be announced in the Advocate. The meeting is open to the public and offers a great opportunity to help support this organization that does so much to support our community. They are always open to new membership or input from the community and would welcome presentations from groups or organizations who would like to apply for funding. You can contact the United Fund of Cumberland at PO Box 134, Cumberland WI 54829 or by Training Exercise!

On Tuesday morning, October 8th, numerous law enforcement agencies from as far away as Ashland, converged on Cumberland at the old Opera House to conduct a training exercise. At least 12 squad cars were on scene. The large law enforcement presence piqued the curiosity of many citizens.

Cumberland Looks for Books; The History of the Library

By Mark R Fuller

The nation's first public library was founded in 1731 by Benjamin Franklin and a group of his friends. It was formed partly as a means to settle arguments and partly as a means to advance themselves through the sharing of information. Franklin's library allowed members to buy "shares" and the combined funds were used to buy more books; in return, members could borrow books and use the library.

Cumberland was less than twenty-five years old before the City Council first discussed having a library for the Island City. A March 15, 1898, meeting was held at Mayor S. H. Waterman's home to adopt its potential by-laws. Many of our city founders attended the meeting, including J. F. Fuller, W. B. Hopkins, and F. L. Olcott.

On April 1, a book social was held in Miller's Hall to begin the process. Each attendee was required to bring one book or 25 cents to the discussion. This led to the collecting of 70 books and $5.00 in cash.

A committee meeting held later that month decided the first library would be established in the back room of the engine house. A book could be checked out for two weeks and renewed for two more. A fee of a penny a day would be established for books turned in late.

With the help of a representative from the State Library Commission, books were classified and the first Cumberland library opened on Saturday, May 21, 1898. Found in the newly painted engine room, it was complete with 200 books and several magazines of the day. Mrs. Finley Urquhart was chosen as our first librarian and paid a salary of $1.00 a week.

By September of 1898, the library had received 114 additional books, 15 packages of magazines, and one package of novels from the State Commission. Despite the great fire of that October, which caused massive damage in the city and surrounding communities, the library was off to a successful start as it continued to get additional reading materials for its shelves throughout the rest of 1898.

In January of 1904, a new High School building had opened on 2nd Street. By now Mrs. G. E. Carr had taken the librarian position and space had become a major problem. To accommodate these concerns, the library was moved to the recently abandoned old high school building, near where the Boys and Girls Club stands today.

In a library audit the summer of 1904, the Cumberland library was found to have 2,000 books with a circulation of 10,000. Thirteen books were condemned while only two books had not been returned the previous year. F. L. Olcott, Secretary of the library board declared, however, that even in the old high school, space was still an issue. The Advocate carried this quote, "Growth would perhaps be of greater proportion if the library was housed in a building more adapted for that purpose."

That led the library Board to fill out an application to the Andrew Carnegie Foundation.

Andrew Carnegie was a leading industrialist and philanthropist of the day, whose interest included the free public library. Carnegie envisioned that libraries would "bring books and information to all people."

Thanks to his generous contributions, a total of 2,509 Carnegie libraries would be built nationwide between 1883 and 1929. During this time frame he gave over $60 million dollars to this project, a vast fortune in those days. Carnegie offered to build and help furnish these libraries if the accompanying city would agree to maintain and staff it.

Much joy was met by the people of Cumberland, when in January of 1905, the city received a letter from Carnegie's Private

Northwoods Notebook: Serenity Shores is being finished - finally

by Larry Werner

A few years before the Great Recession, three local families put together a partnership to build a development of condos on Beaver Dam Lake. The Jacobsons, the Bakers and the Turcotts designed a community of Twin homes on Grove Street, a short walk from downtown, on land that slopes down to the lake that surrounds Cumberland.

A few units were sold before the biggest economic downturn since the Great Depression put a brake on housing sales, and many developers and developments went belly up. Ann and I had bought a house from the largest independent home builder in Minnesota who folded up the three-generation company with unfinished new neighborhoods getting claimed by banks in foreclosures.

But the three Cumberland families who built Serenity Shores kept at it, and, as you might have noticed while driving or walking along the 1500 block of Grove Street, the last buildings are going up. Two condos and three garages are being built for my new neighbors. All homes will be occupied by early next year.

Lee Jacobson, the retired optometrist who was one of the original partners, stopped by a few weeks back to take a look at the start of the last two condos before returning with wife, Judy, to their retirement home in Arizona. He gave credit to his son-in-law, builder Craig Turcott, and daughter, optometrist Jennifer, for not walking away from the project.

"That's the kind of people they are," he said of the couple.

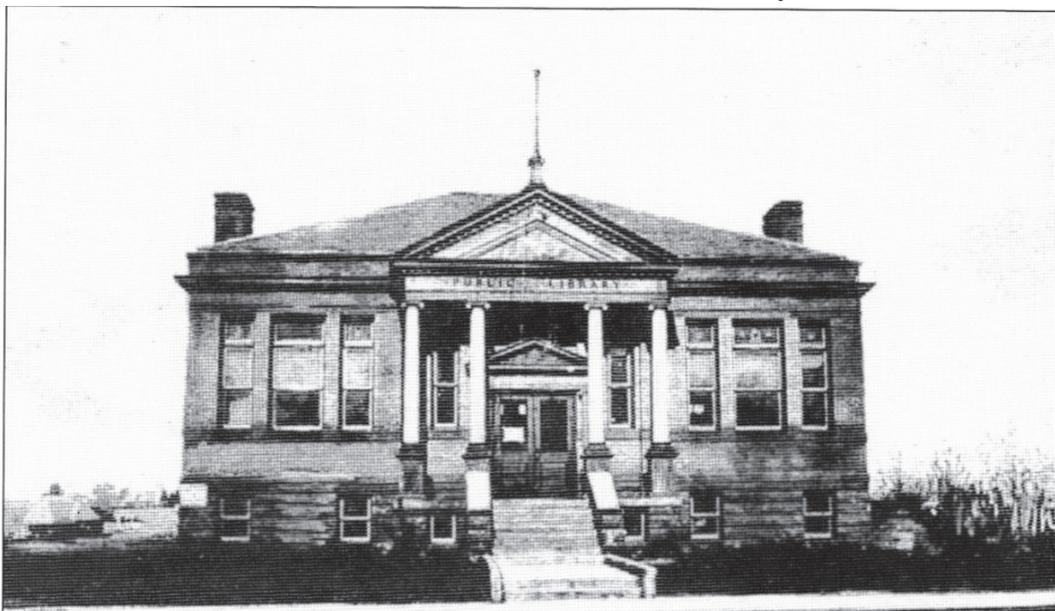

Ann and I bought a condo that was bought new in 2005 by a fellow who was transferred in 2013 to Ohio. We had looked at condos in northern Minnesota, in Shell Lake and in Birchwood. Nothing we looked at had the workmanship or the setting of this cluster of homes on Beaver Dam. There were three homes for sale when we looked at Serenity Shores in the winter of 2014. And there were many empty lots.

Those three homes sold and the developers built two more on spec, and they sold after many months on the market. In the past year, two couples looking to downsize contracted for the last two homes, and residents contracted for three detached garages being built along the street.

We are looking forward to our new neighbors moving in and becoming part of a condominium community that I feel very blessed to call home. When the sun rises across the bay from the sunporch where I read the morning paper, I look across the water at the town we have grown to love and say a prayer of thanks for my place in "God's Country."

Thank you, Jacobsons, Turcotts and Bakers (Lee and Judy, Craig and Jennifer, Jim and Pam), for hanging in there through tough times, when others would have walked away.

Larry Werner's email is lhwner47@gmail.com.

Cumberland organized a library in 1898. The city council appropriated money annually and provided rooms to be used as a public library. In 1904, the city requested funds from Andrew Carnegie for a new library. Funds were granted, and the library building, designed by Minnesota architect C.H. Patsche, was constructed at 1305 Second Avenue. It was completed in 1906. The building was listed in the National Register of Historic Places on June 25, 1992. In 2009, it was expanded and renamed the Thomas St. Angelo Public Library. (Courtesy of Thomas St. Angelo Library.)

History of Cumberland Library...

Secretary, Mr. Bertram, stating the recently filed application would be accepted if the city would provide $1,000. a year to maintain the library and a suitable site could be chosen. In March, the City and Library Committee accepted those requirements with the understanding that a $10,000. library grant would be the result.

In May of 1905, the Library Committee announced that after looking into four sites, the library would be built on the corner of Lake and 2nd Street on the Hafslund lot. Plans called for a, "Handsome ionic portion supported by four elegant polished granite pillars, which will adorn the main entrance." While working to get the Townships to help pay for the yearly maintenance, the Committee also announced that "A rest room for farmers and their families," would also be in the new building.

The contract for the new building was given to Anderson, Peterson and Jacobson, a local group whose bid came in at $8,540. It was hoped that the remaining $1450. which would come from Carnegie's $10,000. grant, could be used for architecture costs and changes.

A large crowd attended the laying of the cornerstone on September 16. Music was played and Judge Comstock gave the major address, while Mayor Hines and W.B. Hopkins were part of the official ceremonial act of recognizing the foundation of the city's new building.

The new Carnegie Library would be one of 63 ever built in our State. The price to the city would eventually come under the initial grant at $8,800. The library was one of several new buildings that went up in town during 1905-1906, a period the Advocate called, "A record breaker for Cumberland construction."

The first public meeting ever held in the new building would be a Commercial Club Meeting in February of 1906. In a March 15, 1906 Advocate, the newspaper called the new library, "The prettiest library in Northern Wisconsin," and indicated library hours would be Monday through Saturday, 1:00-9:00 p.m.

That summer, the finishing touches would be added as local newspapers were added to the inventory. Summer hours would move to Monday, Wednesday and Saturdays only. Cumberland had another offering for its residents that equaled any in Northern Wisconsin.

Many individuals have left their impact on the library since its beginnings. Among those were Dr. W. B. Hopkins, Mrs. H. H. Poukey, Katherine Robinson, and the Thomas St. Angelo family among others. From 1970-1972 the library was remodeled and updated, while in 2009, it was expanded once again and renamed the Thomas St. Angelo Public Library.

A picture, requested and sent by Mr. Carnegie himself, can still be found in the library. Although our library has changed and adapted to our more modern society, it still disseminates books, archives information, and provides a community space for people to interact and manage information in a sensible way. It still has an important place in the Island City, just like it did back in 1898.

The flowers in Sharon's garden are still blooming, grass is still as green as it was in July and the tree's have just begun to change into their showy foliage. I see, however, that the weather forecast has a possibility of a bit of snow by this coming weekend. It reminds me that winter is fast approaching. The Fall sports season will soon give way for Winter sports. The seasons roll on, the years pass and one day we all wake up - suddenly old. In my head I should still be able to head off to the diamond to play ball, yet my body tells me to sit back and enjoy watching the game. I feel the chill of the cold of Winter beginning to seep into my bones and I know I am not the kid playing ball but the old man watching. Even though I can no longer play, it is great that I can still enjoy watching. I look forward to a winter watching football, basketball and hockey. Then before we know it, Spring will be here and the baseball will once more be with us. I guess everything is right in the world.

I am sad this Tuesday morning. The Twins exited the playoffs last night. They went with a "whimper" not a "bang." Their offense deserted them at just the wrong time and the pitching was exposed as just mediocre. There is just something about those "Dammed Yankees." Oh well... Both the Brewers and the Twins had great seasons.

SEE YOU NEXT WEEK!

A story to restore your faith in humanity

To the Editor:

My husband and I recently attended Wurstfest at Louie's. It was the best one yet! We spent time enjoying all the samples, visiting each vendor booth, and eating our $1 bratwurst. It was a great place to greet friends and sense the "spirit" of our community.

When we returned to our car, which was parked across the highway from Louie's, we found a note tucked under the windshield wiper. It was a small white recipe card and stapled to it was a business card from Louie. The written note said "Did you lose some rings?" Check at Louie's to claim and it was signed by Louie. It was then that reality and shock set in. They were my rings! I just didn't miss them until that moment. When we made our 10 minute drive into town from home, I took my rings off, laid them in my lap and rubbed hand lotion into my hands. It then dawned on me, when I got out of the car, they dropped on the ground (near a mud puddle).

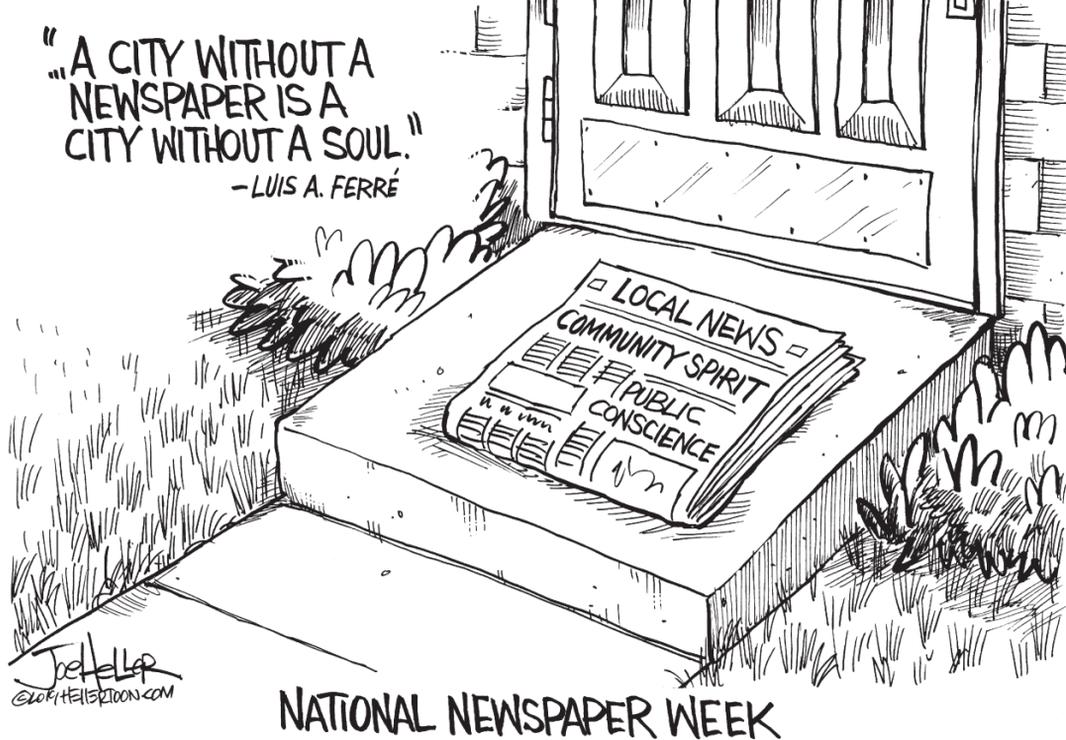

I walked into Louie's and asked a clerk if someone had turned in a wedding ring and another silver ring and showed her the card from our windshield. She went back to the office and returned with my rings. I was so grateful and asked if the person had left a name so I could thank them. She said no and was just happy for me.

For days afterward, I just couldn't get over the thought of how fortunate I was that someone found them and turned them in for me to claim.

And so my message to that anonymous person, THANK YOU, THANK YOU, THANK YOU!

I want everyone to know that my faith in humanity was restored by your one act of kindness. God Bless You. And, I wanted to take this opportunity to remind everyone that there are good, kind, honest and caring people in our community who go out of their way to help others! We just don't hear the "good news" stories often enough.

No secret sauce, but some common ingredients for university-based startups

MADISON, WI - An over-used word to describe the connections between technology, startups and angel or venture capital investments is "ecosystem," which implies that startups and the people who help support them are akin to a naturally occurring rain forest.

If only it was that simple. Mother Nature can't spawn what it takes to build a healthy structure for researchers, innovators, company builders, service experts and investors to take ideas from the lab bench to the marketplace. It takes people who bring a combination of expertise, passion and a high tolerance for risk to a social network that values those talents and connections.

For many people, the Silicon Valley is the exemplar of that structure. Home to many of the world's most successful tech companies, it was born in the area between San Jose and San Francisco in the 1940s and '50s because a Stanford University engineering dean had the wild notion that faculty with good ideas should start their own companies.

The idea carried over from engineering to computer sciences to medical science, where Stanford's Byers Center for Biodesign teaches med-tech innovation to teams of doctors, engineers and business professionals who bring a cross-functional approach to turning ideas into products.

The Wisconsin-born and educated co-director of the Byers Center, Dr. Tom Krummel, will talk about its work across the country and around the world Nov. 5 when he speaks at "Innovation Day," a half-day conference produced by the Wisconsin Alumni Research Foundation. That event will be followed Nov. 6-7 by the Wisconsin Early Stage Symposium, also at Monona Terrace Convention Center.

Will Dr. Krummel, a pioneer in surgical robotics who has been a part of more than 20 early stage medical device companies, reveal the "secret sauce" of what made Silicon Valley cook?

No, he said, because there isn't one. And if there was such a potion, it wouldn't necessarily work for others.

"We don't have a secret sauce, but we do know a thing or two about core ingredients," said Krummel, who was raised in Racine and earned degrees from UW-Parkside and the Medical College of Wisconsin.

What are those common ingredients? Here's a list that applies to academic research centers, many of which he will detail in his talk, "The Best Way to Predict the Future is to Invent It."

• Where there is a major research university in place, make sure the expertise can escape the ivy-covered halls. "There should be a porous wall between the university and the rest of the world," he said, to reinforce the interplay between technology "push" and market "pull."

• Encourage a mental mindset of risk tolerance. "If you think about the Silicon Valley, think first about the kind of people who settled this state. They were miners during the gold rush of the late 1840s who dropped everything to come here," Krummel said.

• Move beyond publishing academic papers and moving on to the next grant; turn what you learn into action. "(Researchers) should ask themselves, 'Do I have an interest in closing the final mile?' You can write papers and speak at symposia and tell yourself, 'We'll leave the final mile to someone else.' But often the best person to cover the final mile is the researcher, working with a team that brings other skills to the race."

• Technology transfer works better in universities where the science disciplines are paired with other disciplines, such as a strong business school.

• If universities don't have what is needed in-house or on-campus, import help from elsewhere. Even major universities can't be storehouses of all expertise needed to build products and companies that change solve problems.

• Stick with it. "Don't be afraid... go do it," said Krummel, when he asked how he balanced his work as a surgeon with spinning out ideas, products and companies. "Physicians see the problems. We know the faces. Our failures and shortcomings come when things don't work as they should. That becomes a powerful motivator in terms of why someone would want to do this."

That final ingredient appears to have worked for the Byers Center, as more than 2.8 million patients have been treated by tools and technologies developed by the program. Now, Krummel hopes to pay back Wisconsin through his work as a board member for the Madison-based Morgridge Institute for Research, which operates at the cusp of translating research into products.

"This state and its people matter to me," Krummel said. Welcome back to the rain forest, doctor.

Still is president of the Wisconsin Technology Council. He can be reached at tstill@wisconsintechnologycouncil.com

Daniel P. Capuzzi, 59, Cumberland, has been charged with violating foreign protection orders.

On September 27, 2019, Deputy Weise, with the Barron County Sheriff's Department, responded to a residence in Cumberland to check on the welfare of a female subject. The caller who was identified as the female subject's ex-husband, advised that he received suicidal messages from his ex-wife.

Upon arrival, Deputy Weise observed a camper on the property. Deputy Weise made contact with Capuzzi, and the female subject. After speaking with the female subject, Deputy Weise determined the suicidal risk for the female subject was unfounded.

Deputy Weise ran a record check on both Capuzzi and the female subject prior to leaving. The records check came back showing an active protection order with the female subject's name as the petitioner and Capuzzi as the respondent out of Stearns County, Minnesota. Deputy Weise reports both Capuzzi and the female subject stated that they were both aware of the protection order. The female subject stated it was due to a domestic incident where the defendant had attempted to choke her. The protection order prohibits Capuzzi from having contact with the female subject.

Deputy Weise confirmed with Barron County Dispatch, that the protection order remains active. After receiving this information, Deputy Weise placed Capuzzi under arrest for violating an out-of-state protection order. If convicted, Capuzzi shall be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned for not more than nine months or both.

Sean Diesterhaft, 20, New Auburn has been charged for consuming alcohol in violation of his bond in Eau Claire County.

On September 28, 2019, Deputy Weigand and Deputy Pressley, responded to a request for assistance from Officer Breidenbach, with the Chetek Police Department. Officer Breidenbach advised she initiated a traffic stop in the city of Chetek, and a passenger on his motorcycle was refusing to identify himself. While in route, Barron County Dispatch advised that the driver of the motorcycle who Officer Breidenbach identified as Diesterhaft, who was out on felony bonds that included charges of threats to a law enforcement officer and attempted battery to a law enforcement officer out of Eau Claire County.

Upon arrival, Deputy Weigand reports that he made contact with Diesterhaft and a second male subject. Deputy Weigand observed that the male subject had difficulty speaking and his speech was slow and slurred. Deputy Weigand also observed that both Diesterhaft and the male subject's eyes appeared to be glassy.

Deputy Weigand remained at the scene as backup while Officer Breidenbach finished writing out citations. As Officer Breidenbach was explaining the citations to Diesterhaft, the male subject stated the alcohol was probably coming from him because he had been drinking that evening.

Deputy Pressley, who was also on scene to assist, radioed dispatch requesting information about the defendant's bond conditions and if he was subject to testing by law enforcement. While waiting for a response from dispatch, Deputy Weigand, who was now standing downwind of Diesterhaft, smelled to odor of intoxicants coming from Diesterhaft's breath.

Deputy Weigand administered standardized field sobriety tests to Diesterhaft. After Diesterhaft completed the standardized field sobriety tests, he consented to a preliminary breath test. The result was .08. Deputy Weigand determined he was not going to place Diesterhaft under arrest for operating while intoxicated. At that point, Officer Breidenbach placed Diesterhaft under arrest for felony bail jumping.

Jail Sergeant Kunkel reports he administered an intoximeter test of Diesterhaft's breath after he was transported to the Barron County Jail. The reported value of the defendant's breath alcohol concentration was .08.

If convicted, Diesterhaft may be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned not more than six years, or both.

Cumberland Football Cruises to Another Victory; Moving Up State Polls

The Cumberland Beavers cruised to another HON victory last Friday night, easily defeating the Chetek-Weyerhaeuser Bulldogs 46-12 in front of a hometown crowd at Endeavor Stadium. The 6 and 1 Beavers now prepare for a trip to the 3 and 4 Spooner Rails this Friday night at 7:00 p.m.

Cumberland, averaging 38.6 points per contest on the year, surpassed that total in the first half against C/W. Currently ranked eighth in the State in Division 5, the Beavers used four Maddux Allen touchdown passes and a 25-yard run by Jack Martens to score five times in taking a 40-0 halftime bulge.

"We wanted to get out of the gate quickly, feeling like their offense would be less effective if they had to play from behind. Creating a few turnovers on defense in the first half and some big plays on offense helped us do that," said Coach Corey Berghammer.

Cumberland would stay in control during the second half, adding a touchdown on their first second half possession, when Sam Schradle returned a Bulldog kickoff 65 yards for a touchdown. Martens added the two-point conversion run for Cumberland's final two points of the night. Much of the second half was played with a running clock.

Coach Berghammer was pleased with the teams overall play in the victory. "I am very proud of the effort and the attitude our kids have been playing with the past few games. It's all about the team and playing hard for each other," he added.

Offensively, the Beavers rolled up 345 total yards, 260 coming through the air. Maddux Allen continued his impressive Sophomore campaign, as he completed 14 of 15 tosses for 260 yards and four scores. On the season, he has passed for 1786 yards and 20 touchdowns, which ties him for third in the State in passing scores.

His favorite target on the year, Jack Martens, had another big night catching eight balls for 80 yards. He continues to lead the State in receptions, yards gained, and touchdown catches. On the season he has caught 71 balls for 1021 yards and 11 scores. The talented Martens added a 25-yard rushing touchdown on his only carry of the night.

The biggest night for a receiver, however, came from Junior DeShaun Ames, who had two catches for 135 yards and two long touchdowns. Sam Schradle, meanwhile, caught three balls for 38 yards and two scores. It was another big night by the Beavers passing game.

The Cumberland defense held C/W to 274 yards, 180 coming on the ground. They caused four Bulldog turnovers, including interceptions by Lucas Anderson and Gavin Jarchow. Carter Bickle, Blake Seibert, and Sam Schradle each had seven tackles on the night.

2019 Mississippi River Duck Hunt

Hello friends,

For myself it is very hard to believe that 48-years ago I camped on an island on the Mississippi River near Ferryville and hunted ducks for the first time. About all I can say is how can time pass so fast?

Friday, September 27th
High 73, low 54

High water and a wedding had this group of generally about 20 narrowed down to 12 and let me tell you high water is becoming a major issue for much of the world. All you have to do to understand what I am saying is look at all of the dead trees on our riverbanks and islands, which is due to being flooded for extended periods of time over the last three years.

As the trees succumb to the high water they fall over and the loss of their root structure causes the islands to become smaller with the loss of each tree.

Today we found an island that was high enough that we could pitch tents and stay dry and one by one our group arrived with the last being Dick Schuster and his son Trent after the Trevin Krier and Erika Gundlach wedding.

Something that was very special for me is that my 18-year-old daughter Selina arrived today after her last class at UW Stevens Point. Selina would not miss a class which meant she had to drive alone.

It is hard to describe the mood on night one of this adventure but "electric" would work. The old timers are Dick Schuster, Jeff Moll, and myself, everyone else is 17 to 30, and to listen to each of these kids around the campfire as they describe their love for this trip is pretty darn cool.

Saturday, September 28th
High 70, low 51

Selina and I would be hunting in my War Eagle which I had built a blind around and we were both very excited as we started to become comfortable at 4:30 under very pleasant conditions.

Our golden retrievers Fire and her pup Ruby would be our official duck retrievers. Well folks I must tell you our day started and lasted with quite a bit of bad luck. I had all four of my 12-gauges serviced and started my day not really shooting but watching Selina. I bought Selina a Tri Star and that was not a good purchase and lasted for one round.

Next round I gave her my 11-87 which I love but is severely worn out. That lasted one round and literally broke inside. I had just picked them up. Next, I gave her my Charles Daly and just like that the ducks 100-percent quit flying by us.

Another interesting fact is that 99-percent of the ducks we were seeing were wood duck and that really had me thinking as usually we are harvesting teal, woodies, mallards and a stray widgeon.

About noon with not a duck to our name we moved our set up about 100-yards and headed back to camp for a snooze and to hang out with our buds. The common talk was all woodies with just one teal for 12 guys and at this time I came up with the following theory.

For three years the nesting habitat has been flooded on this section of the Mississippi. Wood duck can adapt as they nest in trees. I believe that the teal and mallards are getting flooded out of their nests and it is really putting a hit on their numbers.

This afternoon Selina and I returned to the blind and though she did not want to she did homework for two hours before she started hunting, it did not matter as I did not come close to getting a shot.

At 5:30 she turned off the computer, closed her books and grabbed her 12-gauge. Just like that a drake wood duck flew over, she shot and by God it fell out of the sky. Ruby did an excellent retrieve and we were on the board.

The Charles Daly also died on us, but we got three more wood duck and went back to camp in an excellent mood.

Tonight, at camp was simply a blast. We cooked

Ross Moll and his golden doodle "Maple" experiencing their annual Mississippi River adventure.

our dinner on the campfire watched a lot of dogs do stupid things as Ross Moll's golden doodle was in heat (the only male in camp was cut).

We laughed our heads off all night long, as usual it rained and when the final man left camp on Monday all ducks harvested were wood duck except for two teal and a widgeon, not one mallard!

My guess is come hell or high water I will be back next year.

Soccer Team Splits Pair of Middle Border Contests

The Cumberland Boys Soccer Team split a pair of Conference contests last week, defeating Spooner 2-0 and losing to Hayward, 3-0. The team is back at home this Thursday against New Richmond, as they have only three games before Tournament play begins on October 22.

The victory came on a rainy night in which goals by Chase Lussier and Tanner Johnson gave the Beavers the victory. Ethan Sandman assisted on Johnson's goal as Matthew Friess had another good night in goal.

Another rainy night came in the Hayward shutout loss, where the Cumberland offense could not get untracked "Hayward made some good adjustments as we had several chances early in this match. We just couldn't find the back of the net and spent the rest of the match trying to find scoring opportunities. Give them credit, they defended very well. We look forward to playing them again for our Pink Night," said Coach B.J. Brenna.

That match against Hayward for Breast Cancer Awareness Month, was played on Tuesday night.

Gorres would score twice on runs and once on a pass from Cooper Schramski. Linebackers Uriah Johnson and Derrick Gideo played well on defense as did corners Jack Owens and Chayden Framstead.

In the Eighth Grade game, Ryker Allen scored rushing touchdowns of 2 and 58 yards, while Alexis Comacho rushed for 100 yards, adding another touchdown. The final touchdown came on a 62-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Gavin Prinsen to Jack Odegaard. Church Directory

"You will be free indeed!"

by Pastor Jerome C. Nikunen, Timberland-Ringebu Free Lutheran

"So, if the Son makes you free, you will be free indeed." John 8:36

As we turn our calendars to October, we have just come through a period of some of the nicest weather we've had, warm sunny days with the trees changing into beautiful colors and cool nights bringing back memories of football games, bonfires and harvest moons. October will bring cooler days, the raking of leaves and preparing the gardens and flower beds for winter.

But October also brings a very special celebration at the end of the month. And no, I am not thinking of Halloween with its pagan-like customs. The celebration that should be observed is on October 31, otherwise known to Christians as Reformation Day. On Reformation Day we celebrate the gift of God to the Christian Church through His servant, Martin Luther. Luther reminded us of our true freedom from the Law in the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

In John 8:34 we read what Jesus told the self-satisfied religious leaders of His time, "Everyone who sins is a slave to sin." They seemed to think, "I've got it made." They believed that because they were born as Jews and the descendants of Abraham they were automatically free. In the 16th century when Martin Luther lived, many religious people felt much the same way. Birth and because they had some religious vocation gave them a false sense of freedom. Could it be possible that people who have been members of the church all their lives, who have been baptized and confirmed, with good records to make the same mistake - "I've got it made"?

Tragically, there is another mistaken group who says, "I've got to make it." People in Jesus' day followed the Pharisees and tried to keep their religious laws to the "n-th" degrees. Paul even once lived by that standard: "I've got to make it." In the 16th century many struggled to gain freedom from guilt through prayers, fastings, pilgrimages, and indulgences. Is it possible today that many depend upon their church attendance, financial contributions, the fact that they teach Sunday School or serve on a board, or other acts of service to "make it" before God? Friends, that's a hopeless task!

I pray that we would all joyfully realize that the Son of God makes us free. Jesus Christ took on the slavery of the Law and died to atone for our sin. God declares us righteous for Jesus' sake. "So if the Son sets you free, you will be free indeed." (John 8:36). Martin Luther discovered this freedom through faith in Jesus Christ as his personal Lord and Savior, and the gates of paradise opened to him. And so can we!

NOTICE CITY OF CUMBERLAND RESIDENTS

The Department of Natural Resources has implemented an "SSO Rule" (Sanitary Sewer Overflow). The rule deletions, amendments and additions are contained in chapters NR 110,205, 208, and 210.

Starting date of 8/1/2013, all SSO's, Treatment Plant Overflows, and basement backups will be published in the Advocate newspaper. This is implemented to keep the public safe and knowledgeable about the possible impact the overflow may have on human health and the City's natural resources.

On September 30th there was an overflow of the gravity sewer main on the high school berm adjacent to Washington Street. We found a large amount of flushable wipes along with tree roots that caused the blockage. Please do not flush these "flushable" wipes; they create havoc on the sanitary sewer collection system. The overflow was stopped within 3 hours of its findings. There was approximately 3000 gallons of wastewater that ended up on the ground and flowed into the storm water drainage ditch that flows into Collingwood Lake.

Any other questions or concerns, please contact me at 715-822-2951.

Barronett News By Judy Pieper

I just don't know what to say - Wasn't it great to see the sun on Sunday. Do you remember any September that was as rainy and cold as this one was? I hope that we see some of our usual beautiful fall weather this month. We have to get in the garden and get it cleaned out, and right now it's so muddy it's hard to get anything done. Congratulations and best wishes go out to Cheryl Jaastad on her retirement. We all hope you enjoy your life as a lady of leisure, Cheryl.

Bonnie Fogelberg sent a note letting us know who won the major prizes at the Colorfest raffle drawing. They are: Tom Weston, Savage 270; Rick Anderson, smoker grill; Bob Jerry, Packer tailgate package; Jane Elmborg, Made 4U furniture piece; and, Donna Organ, Yeti soft side cooler. In all, there were more than 90 prizes given away. Civic Club members would like to thank the many donors who made the raffle so much fun and such a success. Marshall Straw and his dad, Marvin, were among the many hunters who participated in the Youth Hunt this past weekend. We had breakfast with Marshall, Marvin and Jerry Marsh at the Red Brick Café on Saturday morning after Marshall and Marvin had been sitting in the hunting shack waiting all morning for a deer dumb enough to be out in that inclement weather. Needless to say, they hadn't seen a single thing up to that point. Hopefully the rest of the weekend went a little better for Marshall.

Duane and I met Pat Olson for breakfast at Hilltop on Sunday morning. We had a very nice time visiting and eating the great food that Justin puts out. After breakfast we visited with Gabi Otto, who was slaving away over a sink full of dirty dishes. I asked if she had taken part in the Youth Hunt, and she said that she thought she would be going out that afternoon. Didn't bear anything about the big buck though, so maybe she had the same kind of luck as Marshall did on Saturday.

Sharai Hefty stopped by to visit for a while on Sunday afternoon. You probably know that Sharai is very active at ETC in Cumberland, and up to this time has always been an actress in one of the plays. Now, though, she is so excited (and a little nervous) to be a first-time director of a short play called "The Gift." Auditions for the play will be held on Saturday, October 12th from 9:00 to noon and Monday, October 14th from 6:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. in the ETC basement. If you are interested in auditioning, look on ETC's website for lines. The play will be presented on December 14th and 15th.

Shari is also very happy to be down to one job again. Yup, she is finished with taking census. One of the nice things that happened during the time that she was doing census was that she found a new diner she likes very much. It's the old Dinner Bell, now Jessie's Diner in Trego. She stopped by to get a bite to eat between census areas and found that they have great food and excellent service. Sharai said she would be going back there a lot.

Plenty of Fall Festivities heading our way!

It's that time of year! A Chill is in the air, the leaves are turning and kids are counting down the days until Halloween.

We have a slew of Fall events happening in our area this year. The Cumberland Chamber of Commerce is going all out again in their efforts to bring you some Fall fun. Once again, the Chamber is sponsoring a Scarecrow Contest. Local businesses will be pulling out all the stops to create the best, funniest, and most over-the-top scarecrow display for your enjoyment.

Vote for your favorite scarecrow! The Scarecrows will awarded prizes for Scary Crow, Traditional Crow, and Industry Crow. The Chamber will also have a "Fall Photo Op Display" in front of the Chamber office. Visit the Scarecrows and take a selfie! Post the selfie to the Chamber Facebook page with #CUMBERLANDSCARECROWS for a chance to win a $25 Chamber gift certificate! The winners will be announced at noon on Halloween.

Next up, the Chamber is once again hosting a Pumpkin Give-away on Saturday, October 19th. Kids can stop by the Chamber office from 10 am through noon and receive a free pumpkin! In conjunction with the give-away, the Cumberland Library will host a decorating party! Grab your pumpkin and then head on over to the Library. There will be all the supplies you need to spruce up your Halloween gourd. The Library is open until 1:00 p.m on Saturdays.

Barronett News...

I'm not sure if you know this, but I have the most adorable grandkids and great-grandkids in the world. (I miss arguing with Curt Hefty about that.) Anyway, here's the latest - Tru Lehmann's mom, Alyse, is going insane trying to get an eight-year old girl to hurry up and get ready for school in the morning. One morning last week Alyse knew that Tru hadn't brushed her teeth so she said, "Tru, did you brush your teeth?" Tru, who isn't always truthful that early in the morning, answered, "Yes, Mom, I did." Well, you know how that goes, the same question was asked, and the same answer given in slightly louder voices, about four times. Finally, Alyse said, "Will you swear on Nana's (that would be Suzy Lehmann) life that you brushed your teeth?" That stopped Tru dead in her tracks. She hesitated and then said, "Oh, did you mean today?" What a little stinker. My advice to Alyse is - Be patient. Things will get better when she's about 30.

Jeremy Olson's parents, Shaun and Jackie traveled up from southern Wisconsin to visit with Miriah Lehmann and Jeremy this past weekend. Miriah said it was so rainy that they didn't do much, but they did work inside the barn. Fun!! And, Miriah, who is an excellent cook, made them breakfast on Saturday morning.

I guess that's about all I know from Barronett this week. And, again I say, I hope we have some nice weather so we can get our garden cleaned out. Time will tell. See you next time.

More ways we care. For you.

Jonelle Gideo Benefit

Sometimes, the person who's been there for everyone else needs someone to be there for them.

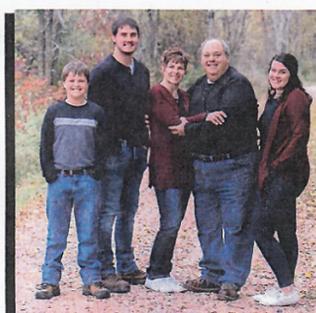

Join us in being there for Jonelle, Spike & family by showing them how much the Cumberland Community cares and appreciates everything they have done for others.

Jonelle has been struggling with overlapping connective tissue diseases, including lupus and sine scleroderma for over six years. Jonelle is now in stage 4 kidney failure and congestive heart failure. All of this has contributed to her decision to quit working to spend quality time with her family while she still can. The medical expenses have added up leaving Spike and Jonelle the worry of how are those bills are going to get paid.
