New Squad car and payments for street projects approved at special Council session

The Cumberland City Council met in special session on Tuesday, June 29th for the purposes of approving payments on various projects the City is involved in.

First, the council agreed to change the order of the agenda, moving item #11 "Review and recommend approval of 14th Ave & Berdan Street Bid to Haas Sons, Inc. in the amount of $3,364,214.20." to the first spot to accommodate Sean Lentz from CBS2, who made a presentation to the council. After discussion, the council voted against approving the bid, deciding that further review was required to determine if the timing was right to begin such a large project.

Two Safe Drinking Water Loan Program (SDWLP) Reimbursement Resolutions were approved for the Water & 4th and Water & Arcade projects.

Also approved were:
• Change Order No. 1

from DeSantis Excavating & Underground Utilities for the Carlone Street West-Phase 2 project in the amount of $50,144.00.

- An application for payment #1 for CDBG Lift Station #5 Modifications in the amount of $118,127.37 to Haas Sons, Inc.

- An application for payment #2 for Sewage Lift Station #4 replacement in the amount of $115,867.85 to DeSantis Excavating & Underground Utilities.

- An amendment to the Sealcoating budget from $40,000 to $60,000; and

- The purchase of new police squad & equipment not to exceed $37,000 (purchase price plus set up, less trade in). The new squad will be a 2021 Dodge Durango AWD Pursuit Vehicle and will be purchased through Don Johnson Motors.

The Council met Tuesday July 6 at 7 p.m. Details in next weeks Advocate.

Northwoods Notebook: Another coffee shop opens on main street

By Larry Werner

A year ago, things were looking grim for Cumberland's coffee lovers. Peter & Annie's was closing because the building was being sold, and the Island City Food Co-op had to shut down its tables in the bakery because of the pandemic.

Where would we old guys go to sit around and talk smart? Where would the retired teachers go on Wednesday mornings? And what about Pastor Tim Schmidt's Bible-study group?

Over the weekend, a young couple who have dreamed for years of opening their own coffee shop began serving lattes, smoothies and baked goods in the building on Second Avenue that housed Idlewild Outfitters for many years. And following a recent pattern for downtown Cumberland, a young couple bought the building that houses their new business.

Sam and Jenee Heer, two 20-somethings from Rice Lake, bought the building, following the purchase by young folks of the old Mainstream Boutique building that is now White Willow Market, the old Cas' Menswear building that is now Tevin, the old frame shop that houses Sugar Wear and the Schneider drug building that will soon be a dance and yoga studio called The Lodge Cumberland.

All these buildings were bought by people much younger than the folks who used to own them. The new coffee shop is called Roots Coffee Co. and opened last weekend. Jenee and Sam are excited about providing a place for people to gather over java.

"The life we were living felt really good, but I wanted to do more, something we were passionate about," Jenee said about herself and her husband of seven years. "And I think it's mostly that community aspect, where people can come and sit. Coffee is a great meeting point for lots of people."

It certainly is, as you can tell by the number of cars in the lot at the new Peter & Annie's Coffee Shop & Café that was opened in the old Kwik Trip by Ryan Standaert and his wife, Alyssa, another young couple. In their case, the building was bought by the city and is rented by the Standaerts.

The Heers looked at several buildings in town when they started thinking about doing a coffee shop. Edina Real Estate agent Holly Jordan convinced them to look at the Idlewild building that was owned by her sister-in-law, Pauli Kennelly, and Pauli's husband, Neil. Jenee said the old building, with a loft apartment upstairs, was "perfect" for a coffee shop. So with financial and construction help from family members, they turned the old clothing and kayak store into a place for coffee.

They'll be open from 6 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 7 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturdays.

Sam works on his family's dairy farm between Rice Lake and Barron, and Jenee has worked food service. When the couple served last summer as campground hosts at Eagle Point, they fell in love with Cumberland, which led them to look at a building to buy. Renee will run the coffee shop, and Sam will work there during the day and help out at the 3,250-head dairy farm at night.

They are now renting the upstairs apartment to friends, but plan to list it as an Airbnb rental when the friends move out. Wouldn't it be great to stay in an apartment above the aromas of coffee and baked goods?

The Heers wanted to own their own business one day, and a coffee shop seemed like the best of the options they considered.

"We like the atmosphere of a coffee shop," Sam said. "You've got people coming in and you can engage with them."

But can Cumberland support two places serving the lattes I have to get every day?

"I definitely think so," Jenee said. "Spooner has three coffee shops. They do a really good job," she said of Peter & Annie's. "I think the main difference is we're more of a coffee shop, and they do more food."

A Different 4th of July; Cumberland in 1945 by Mark R. Fuller

The tradition of Independence Day first began on July 4, 1777, a year after the signing of the Declaration of Independence. The practice of fireworks became part of that first celebration as Philadelphia's night sky became alive with colors. The day would become a Federal Holiday in 1870.

This past week, Cumberland and area cities were filled with those celebrating the freedoms we have gained since our fight for Independence. It wasn't the case in 1945, however, as residents of the "Island City" were still watching those freedoms under attack during WWII. There was no time yet for celebrating, bands, or community gatherings.

By July 4 that year, things had certainly turned for the better. World War II was nearing an end as fighting in Europe had ceased in early May with the capitulation of Nazi Germany and in less than a month and a half, Japan would surrender unconditionally. The Advocate reminded their readers the first of that month, however, "This year, of all years, lets put victory first."

Most recently, American fighting forces had just wrapped up the deadly 83-day campaign for Okinawa on June 22. U.S. casualties from this operations, including dead and wounded, totaled just over 160,000 men. Of that number, some 61,000 young Americans had paid the ultimate price. These numbers reflected the fanatical fighting spirit displayed by enemy troops in defending their homeland.

The Advocate kept us informed of both the good and bad that was happening to our heroes. In June, Wayne Erickson and Vernon Tappan had both been freed from German Prison Camp's, while the June 14 Advocate announced that Jerry Gargaro had recovered from body wounds on the Bataan Peninsula. He would receive a Purple Heart for his courageous action.

The June papers also included stories on two Cumberland area families whose efforts were exemplary. Six sons of Mrs. L.K. McChesney had enlisted and combined for 14 years of duty during the war. The pictures of Arthur, Myron, Earl, Ray, Clyde, and Fay Thompson told of their efforts from Germany, to Northern Africa, to the Phillipines.

Mr. and Mrs. Corris Booth of Route one, meanwhile, had five sons serving in the war. Cleo, Clyde, Everett, Dale, and Leon Booth had all enlisted, while three other sons remained at home with their parents.

As the July 5 Advocate arrived in the hands of local residents, some more good news about the war arrived. John C. Nesvold had survived a Japanese suicide plane attack on his Bunker Hill Aircraft Carrier that was on duty in the Pacific. Nesvold jumped 30 feet from the burning ship and was rescued by the Wilkes Barre Cruiser. Unfortunately, 372 Americans were not as lucky.

Less happy news came with the announcement that Staff Sergeant Albert Margotto had paid the ultimate sacrifice when his transport plane had been shot down by enemy aircraft fire in Europe.

The paper soon announced that Cumberland was one of six communities that had made their full bond sale quota, with the new total for the city reaching $56, 235.50, but more was still needed. The Advocate also listed 27 Barron County residents who were leaving for the service, including Cumberland residents Pat Capra, Miner Barnes, and Robert Wycoff.

Yes, on July 4, 1945, there was not yet time for a community celebration. The fight to retain our Independence still had some work left to do. Today, we continue to thank these men and women for their sacrifice.

The American Jobs Plan and Wisconsin

by Julie-Keown Bomar, Executive Director Wisconsin Farmers Union

Our recently vaccinated family hit the highways and waterways in a major way this last month. Thanks to public investment, we have highways and interstates that cross the entire country, and I can zip off to visit family in Wyoming or Michigan relatively easily. I can make my way down the Mississippi River facilitated by an important lock and dam system that also allows commerce to flow. American investment in infrastructure is often taken for granted, but having lived and traveled in lesser developed nations with poor roads, airports, and sometimes completely dysfunctional food systems, I can say we have it good.

Public investment in domestic infrastructure allowed the U.S. economy to become one of the best in the world and keeps people safe and healthy.

It's in trouble though. The American Society of Civil Engineers (ASCE) has compiled regular "report cards" on U.S. infrastructure for decades. In the 2017 report, the nation's infrastructure averaged a "D+," meaning conditions were "mostly below standard," exhibiting "significant deterioration," with a "strong risk of failure." Without significant investment, infrastructure gaps will cause major losses to a nation's GDP.

Rural areas see the gaps in affordable and accessible broadband, failing hospitals and unsafe highways, bridges and dams. It's bad in urban areas too. In a recent Farmer-Labor Podcast conversation with Angela Lang, executive director of Black Leaders Organizing for Communities, she described the cascade of individual and community problems caused by lead pipes in Milwaukee. Lead from water lines leaches into tap water and can have unhealthy effects on those who drink it, especially developing children. Lang spoke at length about physical and behavioral problems that affect children and cause a lifetime of damage. Fixing infrastructure problems should be something all Wisconsinites can get behind.

The mayors of Wisconsin's five largest cities recently penned a column of support for the American Jobs Plan, noting how not keeping up with repairs becomes overwhelmingly expensive. This is compounded by major weather events. Wisconsin has experienced 16 extreme weather events totaling $10 billion worth of damage over the past decade.

My personal experience with dangerous flooding came in June 2018. The first day on my new job at Wisconsin Farmers Union was unfortunately compounded by worry. My 19-year-old daughter was living alone in a remote area during the second "100-year flood" to hit Bayfield County in two years. As she came home from work one night, the accumulation of four days of steady rain finally overran the capacity of rural infrastructure to hold back the water and all hell broke loose. Luckily, she made it home despite flooded roads and downed power lines, but we couldn't reach her in subsequent days and were really worried. Two people died in the floods, communications were down, and roads were washed out and closed for months. Some more remote roads were just repaired this year. The reality is rural counties don't have the resources to keep roads fixed when things are normal, let alone when weather catastrophes happen.

If you watch hyperpartisan news shows or listen to corporate-funded noheads on Capitol Hill, you might think Americans are divided about how to pay for the American Jobs Plan and fix our roads and bridges, but the vibe is quite different on Main Street USA. The plan would raise the tax on U.S. corporations who profit from foreign income and impose a new corporate minimum tax. WFU's grassroots membership has long stood against corporate greed. Many Americans support raising the corporate tax rate to pay for the infrastructure plan, including the majority of small businesses. This public support has yet to be recognized by the House and Senate. Maybe their ears are more open to corporate lobbyists than to constituents, or maybe they haven't heard from the masses. While people may disagree on what constitutes "infrastructure", they know that clean water and safe roads are why we pay taxes and both individuals and corporations need to pay their fair share.

Help educate those around you about the benefits of the American Jobs Plan, even if you don't agree with every single line item. This is the largest investment in rural areas that most of us will see in our lifetime and it could change the quality of life in big ways. As one young writer recently wrote in the op-ed section of The New York Times, "The American Jobs Plan is my generation's New Deal." Don't wait for one more flood or one more excuse; the time is now.

Inside Wisconsin

by Tom Still

Venture capital progress relies on attracting larger rounds

By Tom Still

MADISON, Wis. — The latest round of financing scored by Janesville-based SHINE Medical Technologies was one of the largest, and likely the largest, in Wisconsin venture capital history.

A group of investors led by Koch Disruptive Technologies closed last month on a $150-million round that also included Fidelity Management & Research Company, Baillie Gifford and other investors, new and current.

In short, it was a major round led by out-of-state and even world-class investors, which is exactly what Wisconsin's emerging companies need if they are to keep growing into much larger, jobs-producing companies.

The trend toward mega-investments in Wisconsin companies has been gathering speed in recent years, as tracked by "The Wisconsin Portfolio," a publication of the Wisconsin Technology Council since 2008. In 2017, the 10 largest state deals totaled $124.3 million; in 2018, $149 million; and by 2019 and 2020, the top 10 represented a collective $331.7 million and $328 million, respectively.

While most of the 114 deals closed in Wisconsin in 2020 were much smaller — averaging $4.2 million on average and $1 million by median — the trend toward larger investments is a welcome sign. It means companies such as SHINE, Fetch Rewards, NorthStar Medical Radioisotopes and Sunvest are all maturing after humble beginnings.

Those and other Wisconsin companies that landed major investments over time may have started with angel and venture investors close to home but needed to attract venture capitalists from elsewhere. Why? There aren't enough major venture firms in Wisconsin, and those that exist are medium sized by national standards. Wisconsin-based investors often syndicate with out-of-state partners to flesh out homegrown deals in hopes of keeping those young companies in the state.

Unfortunately, that "grow local" strategy doesn't always work. Some promising Wisconsin companies are lured away by investors who want them to be elsewhere for convenience and management reasons.

That is precisely why Wisconsin needs a mechanism to lure more major investors to the state. Gov. Tony Evers proposed a $100-million state investment in a "fund of funds" that would be matched two-to-one by private investors, but the Legislature's budget-writing committee did not include the plan in its final product.

There is hope the idea will resurface in another form, in part because similar public investments have helped in nearby Midwest states. There is also precedent in Wisconsin, where the state-backed Badger Fund of Funds has focused on companies in the earliest stages of development.

Wisconsin must attract outside capital for its young companies to grow while staying home. The state represents close to 2% of the U.S. population but just one-third of 1% of venture capital under management. While some outside investors are finding Wisconsin on their own (55 took part in 31 state deals in 2020), state commitment to a fund would draw even more experienced investors. Here are other highlights of the Wisconsin Portfolio:

- For nearly 60% of early stage companies that secured funding, 2020 was the first year doing so while the remainder received continued support.

- Wisconsin's investor tax credits were used more in 2020 than the previous three years. About $16 million in angel and venture tax credits (Qualified New Business Venture) representing nearly $65 million of investments in 77 early stage companies were charted.

- Fewer women-led or women-owned business raised funding in 2020. Just over 12% of companies that raised funding in 2020 were woman-owned or woman-led, down from 22% in the previous year. The national average ranges between 20% and 25%.

- The two major industries continued to be Healthcare and Information Technology, which combined for nearly two-thirds of all deals and dollars. However, Wisconsin's tech-sector diversity also showed. Charted deals ranged from advanced manufacturing to digital health, from energy to consumer products, and from ag-tech to medical devices.

Wisconsin's early stage investment climate is improving, but it will continue to lag neighbors such as Minnesota, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois and Missouri unless bolder steps are taken.

10 Years Ago July 13, 2011

On Saturday evening, at 6:50 pm, the Cumberland Fire Department was called to the Roger Riebe farm north of Cumberland for a hay shed on fire. When firefighters arrived 11 minutes later, the 40x270 foot shed was totally engulfed in flames, and the roof had already collapsed. Firefighters were able to save a milking barn which is located approximately 30 feet away from the hay shed. By the time firefighters were able to clear the scene, at 1:35 am, over 200,000 gallons of water had been used, 35 fire fighting personnel had seen action, and hundreds of bottles of water had been consumed, but the milking barn had been saved. No one was injured during the fire.

Marcus A. Engebretson, 53, of Rogers, MN., has been charged with four counts of 1st degree recklessly endangering safety, four counts of use of a dangerous weapon, battery, disorderly conduct, and intentionally pointing a firearm at a person.

Deputy Hulback, with the Barron County Sheriff's Department, reports on June 26, 2021, at approximately 2:35 pm, Barron County Dispatch received a 911 call from a female subject, advising that Engebretson who is the female's son, had taken a rifle and shot at her as she fled the residence with some kids. The female advised the address of the residence was in Clear Lake.

Deputy Hulback reports that out of a concern for the safety of the female and the two children with her, they were transported to the Clear Lake Police Department. Deputy Hulback reports he made contact with the female and obtained some statements from her and the two children at the Clear Lake Police Department.

The female stated that the two children are friends of the family that she first met several years ago in South Dakota. Deputy Hulback notes that there is a 13-year-old boy and a 13-year-old girl. The female stated she has taken care of both children and had picked them up and brought them to Engebretson's property to visit. The female and the children had been at the residence visiting for a few days.

The female stated that on June 26, 2021, at approximately 1:30 pm, she returned to the residence with the children from a nearby bakery. Engebretson was parked at the end of the driveway in his UTV when they returned. Engebretson was very upset and yelled for the 13-year-old boy to get out of the female's vehicle and get into the UTV. Engebretson questioned the female if she knew that the boy had brought a BB gun pistol with him while they were visiting. The female stated she told Engebretson she knew about the BB gun and had taken it away from the boy and placed it in a file cabinet inside the residence. The female described the BB gun, saying it looked like a real gun.

The female stated that Engebretson became upset with her because she did not tell him that the boy had brought the BB gun with him. The female told Engebretson the situation was handled and she had taken care of it.

The boy stated that he got into the UTV with Engebretson at which point Engebretson drove him down the road and started yelling at him, and calling him a liar, a stealer, and some provocative names. The boy stated he told Engebretson about the BB gun and that the female already knew about it. The boy stated that, when they returned to the residence, Engebretson began yelling at the female about knowing that the boy had the BB gun.

The sister stated that after Engebretson drove away in the UTV with her brother, she and the female continued down the driveway to the residence. The sister stated that she and the female went inside the house and when they came back outside, Engebretson had returned with the boy. The sister stated that Engebretson then pushed the female down to the ground. The sister observed Engebretson held a gun to the female, which she described as a BB gun that looked like a handgun. The sister stated that Engebretson pulled the trigger on the BB gun multiple times.

The female stated that, while she was on the ground, Engebretson was standing over her. The female stated she was lying on her back, and Engebretson pointed the BB gun at the front of her forehead while pulling the trigger a couple of times. The sister stated she believes Engebretson thought the gun was real and not a BB gun. The boy also observed Engebretson trying to shoot the female with the BB gun by pulling the trigger a couple of times while continuing to yell at her. The BB gun would not discharge because it was unloaded.

The female stated she heard Engebretson say he was going to kill her. The girl also heard Engebretson telling the female how he could kill her while he was holding the BB gun to her head.

The female stated the windows in her car were down. After pointing the BB gun to the female's forehead and pulling the trigger, the female stated Engebretson let her get up off the ground and told her to leave. Engebretson threw the BB gun into her car and went inside the residence. The female stated she thought the incident was over at that point.

The female stated Engebretson then came out the back door of the residence holding onto a rifle. The female stated that, from a distance of approximately 40 to 50 feet away from where she was standing next to the driver's door on her car, Engebretson pointed the gun directly at her and fired a single round. The female stated that the boy was standing next to her, and the girl was standing on the passenger side of the car, also in close proximity to where Engebretson had fired the rifle. The female stated that her car was out in front of her between Engebretson and herself.

The girl stated that the rifle had a sight on it. She also stated that Engebretson was not looking through the sight, rather he was holding the gun out in front of him when he shot in the general direction of where the female was standing, without aiming. The girl stated that Engebretson was aiming the rifle at the female but missed. The girl stated that the boy was standing approximately one foot away from Engebretson when she saw him point the gun at the female and fire. The girl thought the bullet may have hit the barn as the car was directly in front of the barn, but that it could have missed the barn and possibly hit the ground instead. The girl stated she was standing on the passenger side of the female's car when Engebretson fired the rifle.

The female stated that she and the children all got in the car and left after Engebretson fired the rifle at her. While speaking with the female, Deputy Hulback reports she showed him an injury on her left forearm. The female stated she received the injury when Engebretson knocked her down to the ground. Deputy Hulback observed what appeared to be bruising that was starting to turn purple.

Deputy Hulback reports he took custody of the BB gun from the female after she retrieved it from her car. The BB gun is a Sig Sauer Model P365. Deputy Hulback reports the BB gun is similar in weight and feel to a 9mm Sig Sauer handgun. The BB gun did not contain a C02 cartridge and there were no BB's or pellets in the gun.

A check of the Sig Sauer on-line website reveals the semi-automatic C02 powered P365 air pistol is advertised to have a similar weight and feel to the P365 9mm handgun. The specifications described on the website for the P365 BB gun include a 4.5 mm steel BB caliber and a muzzle velocity of up to 295 feet per second.

Sergeant Hodek, with the Barron County Sheriff's Department, reports that he, along with Deputy Fick and Deputy Hulback responded to the residence and made contact with Engebretson who was walking down the driveway with his hands in the air. Sergeant Hodek reports Engebretson wanted to speak with deputies regarding the incident.

Engebretson admitted he drove the boy down the road in his UTV and began yelling and screaming at him. When they returned to the residence, Engebretson stated the female acknowledged the fact that she knew that the boy had brought the BB gun with him. Engebretson stated he became enraged and began yelling and swearing at the female and the two children telling them to leave the property. Engebretson admitted to pushing the female to the ground. Engebretson also admitted to pointing the BB gun at the female. Engebretson stated he did not know if the pistol was a BB gun or a real pistol at that point because the weight of the gun felt the same. He also admitted that he fired a shot from a bolt action 17 HMR with a multi-colored stock as the female and the children were in the process of getting into the car.

If convicted for four counts of recklessly endangering safety, and use of a dangerous weapon, Engebretson may be fined not more than $25,000 for each count, or imprisoned for not more than 12 years and six months or both, for each count. For battery, he may be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned not more than nine months or both. For disorderly conduct, he may be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned not more than 90 days or both. For pointing a firearm at a person, he may be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned not more than nine months or both.

His adjourned initial appearance is scheduled for July 7, 2021.

New Charges for Man who Attacked an Inmate in Washburn County Jail

In 2019, Joseph Rogers was charged with homicide after stabbing Troy Sweep of Spooner to death.

In November of 2020, the court ordered a term of commitment for Rogers in a State mental health institution after determining that he was not competent to proceed to trial on his charges.

According to a criminal complaint filed, on May 24, 2021, Rogers allegedly attacked another inmate of the Washburn County Jail, striking the inmate in the head with an object and putting the inmate into a choke hold. Rogers was tased with a taser as he did not comply with deputies' commands to release the inmate. Rogers then released the inmate and was placed in handcuffs. The inmate later told deputies that he felt as though he might lose consciousness during the choke hold.

Rogers has an initial appearance in August, and remains in custody on his $1,000,000 cash bond.

Cumberland's David Olson named Wisconsin Baseball Coaches Association Assistant Coach of the Year

by Joe Waite

David Olson has been a Junior varsity and varsity assistant baseball coach at his alma mater the past eight seasons and an important reason why Cumberland baseball continues to thrive. That fact is now recognize state wide. Olson, who is also a much respected mathematics instructor at the high school, has been honored with the State Assistant Coach of the Year Award.

After being named the Northwest District Assistant Coach of the Year, Olson was voted as the state assistant winner in a pool of six other highly qualified assistant coaches, two of whom won state championships with their respective teams this season.

In addition to being heavily involved in the Cumberland youth programs and the school sponsored little league programs during the day, Olson has coached baseball at every level, including this season where he, fellow assistant Nick Johnson and myself are teaming up to coach the Cumberland American Legion team. He was certainly qualified to win the award based on his merit as a teacher and a man who cares deeply for the kids he coaches. But this year he went above and beyond.

When I got injured in February from a fall that required spinal fusion surgery on my neck, leaving me extremely limited physically, I had to have another surgery in May on my elbow and wrist. When my surgeon asked me what I was doing at baseball practice, I replied, "Watching my assistants do all the work."

Coach O easily threw 200 pitches, five days a week, for 2 1/2 months, and did it without complaining. I was not able to do anything as far as demonstrating, field care, any of those things that go into coaching this spring because of my injuries. Coach O, and Coach Johnson to a lesser but still a very important level, had to do more this spring than perhaps any staff in the state. I think the committee who voted for Coach Olson to win this prestigious award recognized the extra and outstanding effort needed to keep our team competitive this spring.

The thing I respect most about David is his dedication to each player on the squad. Though he has a son on the team, an outside observer would never know it, because he treats every player with respect and gives his best effort to get them prepared. He is truly a valued asset not only to this team, but the school district and the community.

When I told him I was nominating him for assistant coach of the year, he replied, 'that is the last thing on my mind,' to which I responded, "And that is another reason why I think you should win it."

Olson was one of the finest athletes to play at Cumberland High School, starting in football, basketball, and baseball. A 1992 graduate, he went on to have an illustrious football career at Winona State University. He and his wife, Jessica, who is a social studies instructor at Cumberland high school, make Cumberland athletics a family affair. During baseball games, David is in the first base coaching box, Jessica is upstairs keeping the scoreboard, and son David was either in right field or pitching. Grandpa David Sr. can be heard loudly and often cheering on the Beavers.

Olson played for me when I arrived in Cumberland in 1989, in football, basketball and baseball where I was an assistant in all three of sports. I could tell from the time he was 15 years old that he was a natural born teacher.

I'm proud that Coach O is the State Assistant of the Year. He is certainly very deserving.

The Garden of Eaten

Hello friends,

I am leaving in the morning for a week of backpacking on The North Country Trail. The following column is buying me some time! I live a way of life that is as independent as possible when it comes to food, heat for my house and my income. The following is my annual gardening story and this year I have the biggest of my life.

Potatoes, I have 130 hills of Norland Reds and 130 hills of Yukon Golds. This spring was the earliest and the worst that I have ever witnessed for the Colorado Potato Beetle, aka potato bug, as they were actually eating my plants before and right at emergence.

Several rounds of Sevin Dust "Carbaryl" ended that problem, but it was stressful and would have cost me my entire crop had I not been on top of it.

The following is a very simple recipe for the best hash browns of any that I know of including restaurants. This fall at least 100-pounds of the following will be made into 1 and 2 serving bags for the freezer.

1. Peel and boil potatoes in rapidly boiling water for about five minutes until half cooked.

2. Place in cold water for at least 6 hours, shred, and place in freezer bags/freeze. You will be amazed.

This year I have 26 tomato plants and 32 pepper plants of various types, and they are doing very well and in the end the tomato plants should hit 6-7 feet tall.

Until last year I raised cattle (I want back in) and had excellent soil for my gardens. I saved some of my manure and over the last year froze about 200-pounds of fish carcasses from filleting my catch.

Every pumpkin, squash, tomato, and pepper plant had fish carcasses along with mulched manure put below the plant and it seems that my garden is very

Sweet corn: last year I froze 50- one-quart bags and put corn in 20-gallons of chili and 50 quarts of salsa. In reality, the above is three of my favorite yields from the garden. Of all of my garden columns this tip gave me the most feedback, so I am going to write it again.

Elaine's Frozen Corn! Chill corn on the cob, in kitchen sink! Cut 15 cups off the cobs, mix with 1.25 cups of sugar, four cups of ice water, and 2 teaspoons of salt, bag accordingly. Simple, no boiling, tastes as good as frozen corn can taste.

I pull the blossoms off from my tomato and pepper plants until July 1. I believe this allows the plants to become much larger and the yield of peppers and tomatoes much more abundant due to the larger plant.

I grow everything in my gardens for my chili and add venison burger, no noodles. I freeze it in 1 quart and 1-gallon bags which are double bagged. I literally have zero freezer damage and what a simple and tasty meal as well as gift.

With what the world has gone through with the supply chain due to Covid 19 and could happen again and maybe worse, I believe living as independent as possible helps soften the blow when the shelves are empty in grocery stores or inflation is really hitting home.

The closing argument on this subject is the taste. Homegrown potatoes, tomatoes, green beans, sweet corn etc. Lots of work and responsibility from tilling to harvest but what an awesome sight it is to watch brown become green and then brown and come winter go to the pantry, freezer or root cellar for supper!

Addicted to the garden! Sunset

The tomato plants are thriving!

Using fish carcasses and manure work great as fertilizer!

2021 Hall of Fame Inductee; Clarence Alfonse

By Mark R Fuller

Joining his fellow inductees in the Cumberland Athletic Hall of Fame Class of 2021 is Clarence Alfonse from the graduating class of 1927. Alfonse was born in Cumberland on December 9, 1908, to Thomas and Elizabeth (Ranallo) Alfonse.

Alfonse went on to become a three-sport athlete for the Beavers, starting both ways in football, becoming the teams second leading scorer in basketball and batting clean-up for the Cumberland Baseball squad, for whom he pitched and played second base.

As the starting quarterback in football, he was called by the school paper, "A triple threat man" saying, "His passing was beautiful to behold." He threw for 10 touchdowns his senior year, a total uncommon at that time, while adding four rushing touchdowns to his totals. He played safety on defense while also handling opposition punts. His own punting was described by a 1927 Advocate as, "Excelled by few in the territory."

In basketball, Alfonse started at forward for two years, before moving to center as a senior. Playing for Fred Moser, the Beavers would go 12 and 5 his senior year. "Al" as he was known, would make the All-Tournament team at the District Tournament that season, scoring almost a third of the teams overall points, despite missing two games with injury. The paper described his basketball play, "Cool and heady."

Following his outstanding high school career, Alfonse would attend UW-River Falls, where he would again play and become a key figure in the same three sports. Before graduating with a Bachelor of Science Degree, he was named a First Team All-Conference fullback and team captain in football, Second Team All-Conference in basketball, and lettered three times in baseball. In 1979, Alfonse tremendous achievements at the University led to his induction into the UW-River Falls Athletic Hall of Fame.

Following graduation, Alfonse would have a tremendous career in teaching and coaching, first in Bloomer where he coached football, basketball, baseball and golf. His football teams went on to win three Conference Championships, while his 1936 basketball team finished third at the State Basketball Tournament.

Alfonse then moved to Sparta High School, where he once again found coaching success. His 1939 and 1941 football teams took Conference Championships, while he would win two more titles in basketball.

With the onset of WWII, Alfonse would leave teaching for four years in 1942 and join the Navy. After his discharge in 1946, he would marry Madeline Roessler of Shell Lake and move to Ft. Lauderdale, Florida where he would resume his teaching career until his retirement in 1970.

Following his wife's death in 1982, he would marry Jane Simonson in 1988. Alfonse passed away himself in 1999 at the age of 90 years old leaving behind two daughters, five grandchildren, nine great-grandchildren, and a lifetime of memories.

On August 21, we will have a chance to honor one of Cumberland's all-time best, as we Induct Clarence Alfonse into the Cumberland Athletic Hall of Fame.

Sports Lookback, Summer 1941

The 1941 Beaver Basketball team was the fourth in history of the school to participate in a state tournament, marking it as one of the top notch teams to reach this pinnacle of success were those of 1914, 1931, and 1938.

That first team of 1914 played in the invitational tournament at Lawrence College which was then recognized as the tourney which named the state champion. The six top players on the team that year were,

Wm. Talbot, Geo. Kellermann, Harry Hines, Clyde Talbot, George Loomis, and Arnold Lerdall. Lerdall was named to the all-state team as forward.

In 1931, the Beavers won the local district title, equivalent approximately to the regional tournament now and went to the state. The team won against Tomah in the first round but met defeat at the hands of Watertown in the second round. Playing on this team were Julie Alfonse, Preston Lampson, Lloyd Swenson, G. Christensen, S. Sherman, LeRoy Brown, Cecil Christensen, and Jack Thomas. H. Segersgtrom was the coach.

It was in 1938, that the next CHS team went into the state tournament competition. On this team were Geo Ficoello, Marcin Hodson, Bill Hanson, John Alfonse, Ed Jacobson, and P. Morey. After being eliminated from the championship play in the first game the Beavers came back to win their way into the finals of the consolation round. E.W. Beran was the coach.

The 1941 Beavers team played through the entire regular season without losing a game and then won the regional. Superior East eliminated the Beavers in the first round at the state. This was E.W. Beran's second state championship contender since coaching at Cumberland. The 1941 Beaver team is pictured above.

The Bookworm Sez...

By Terri Schlichenmeyer

This week: Bad Moon Rising: A Bad Axe County Novel by John Galligan
c. 2021, Atria • $17 • 324 pages

In life, a lot depends on what you find. Dinner will be decided when you open the freezer. Your evening's entertainment is predicated by what's on TV. Tomorrow might be scheduled, but minute-by-minute will depend on what you find. And if you're Sheriff Heidi Kick in the new novel "Bad Moon Rising" by John Galligan, you might find a few dead bodies.

The guy laying in the ditch had had a rough few hours before he expired.

His body was covered with bug bites, and stings from wild parsnip growing along the sideroads in Bad Axe County. He'd gone unwashed for awhile; he was half-naked, with a rubber boot on one foot, two gunshot wounds in his body, and dirt in his lungs. When the county coroner told Kick that the man had been buried alive, well, it made her sick to her stomach. That, or she was pregnant again, though she prayed hard that the latter wasn't true. She and her husband, Harley, were having enough trouble with one of their twin boys. She needed another baby like she needed another missing person case.

Leroy "Grape" Fanta had seen action in Vietnam, was injured and exposed to Agent Orange, came home, and ended up in Small Town Wisconsin to become a newspaperman. Covering the southwest Wisconsin area was all he knew and what he'd loved until, and maybe as a part of her son, Barry's, campaign to kick Kick out of office and to be the next sheriff, Babette Rickreiner purchased the Bad Axe Broadcaster and Grape was fired.

He didn't die in Vietnam. No, the Rickreiners might've been the death of Grape Fanta, if his most prolific, most irritating Letters-to-the-Editor writer didn't beat them to it.

It was hot that summer; Bad Axe County had seen daily temps well over 100 degrees, but that was okay with Sammy Squirrel. He barely even noticed, as he cinched his backpack and headed south out of La-Crosse.

Cassie, who lived in his head, called him a Chicken, but he was on a mission...

In your mind somewhere, there may be a checklist of things you need in a good mystery: a few gruesomely-dead bodies, for sure. A crimesolver who isn't squeaky-clean. Murder scenes that make you grimace, perhaps. And a sense of forboding, yes! all of which you'll find in "Bad Moon Rising."

It's that last one that'll get you.

Author John Galligan sets his latest novel down in a heatwave, complete with late-summer shawls of wriggling tree parasites – both of which are downright uncomfortable, even though they're placed off to the side of the story. Their presence make this tale feel ominous, as if it's sneaking up behind you, causing you to look over your shoulder or scratch a sudden, squirmy itch. Add a taunting texter and a soddy, as if the reason for the murders isn't enough to make you recoil.

But we're getting ahead of ourselves here. Just read the book. Read "Bad Moon Rising," and you'll find it to be quite the mystery.

WisDNR asks you to please remember to release your catch responsibly

WisDNR: Please practice responsible Catch & Release

If you are planning on fishing, please remember to release your catch responsibly. Fish have delicate gills and jaw muscles, and holding a fish by its gills or lower jaw can cause permanent damage, making it hard for them to eat after being released. Instead, hold your catch with two hands and gently release it back into the water.

It's important to reduce the stress on a fish after it has been caught. You can increase a fish's chances for survival after being released by keeping a few things in mind:

- Land the fish as quickly as possible.

Keep the fish in the water as much as possible.

Handle the fish as little as possible. Use wet hands or gloves.

If the fish is deeply hooked, cut the line and let the fish go.

Treat the fish gently throughout the release. Visit the DNR's website for tips on releasing different kinds of fish.

Maryville College of St. Louis, MO., has announced the appointment of Bruce Stender as dean of the College. Stender is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Stender of Cumberland. By unanimous decision of the entire Advocate staff, the most important single news item at the time this issue went to press was the fact that no one had been working in the local newspaper office all this week. When warm weather arrives, and the urge to get away from it gets too strong, the gang hangs up their aprons on the date indicated on the calendar by the BOSS' ink-stained thumb. This is that date.

The Cumberland Fire Department responded to an alarm early Sunday morning for a fire in one of George Zappa's buildings west of the Endlich residence. The building and contents were burned to the ground. Mr. Zappa formerly lived in the building, which is in the rear of his two residences, but was now using it for a carpenter shop and store room. The building was partially covered by insurance. Zappa had all of his carpenter tools in the building, which makes the loss quite heavy.

Volunteers needed for tutoring

West CAP and Northwest Wisconsin CEP seek tutors to meet with adults who want to improve their literacy skills.

Lack of literacy interferes with everyday activities such as writing a note to a teacher, reading to a child, checking a grocery store receipt. It may even prevent an individual from getting a job with a wage sufficient to support to their family. The best way adults can improve their employment options is through education. Free adult literacy classes are available through West CAP and Northwest Wisconsin CEP.

Individuals interested in tutoring will receive training to deliver student-centered education, which is provided free of charge. Tutors are matched with learners and meet regularly in mutually agreed upon public locations such as a library, job center or coffee shop. In addition to reading, writing, math and computer skills, tutors can also help navigate online job applications, set up a budget, attain the GED or HSED, prepare to enter college, create a resume, write letters and more. They may also help English language learners with reading, writing and conversation skills.

Tutors are needed in the following counties: Ashland, Barron, Douglas, Pierce, Polk, Rusk, Sawyer, St. Croix and Washburn.

Individuals interested in tutoring in Pierce, Polk or St. Croix counties should contact Stephanie Stark, adult education programs coordinator at West CAP, at 715-410-4735 or email sstark@wcap.org.

Individuals interested in tutoring in Ashland, Barron, Douglas, Rusk, Sawyer or Washburn counties should contact Laura Sullivan, regional manager at Northwest Wisconsin CEP, at 715.392.6127 or email lsullivan@nwcep.org.

Barronett News

By Judy Pieper

Ah, yes – another week in paradise. This is the greatest place that I can think of to be right now. The weather is great, the garden is thriving, and all the baby birds have learned to fly and are coming to the feeders. We especially like to watch the hummingbirds flock in. They are very greedy and, even though we have five feeders up, they will chase others away. The other day one came into the gazebo where I was enjoying a morning cup of coffee, hovered about three feet from my face, and just looked at me. It was great – I keep hoping one will land on me and visit for a while but so far that has not happened.

I think I mentioned that we planted vegetables in stock watering tanks for Oak View Adult Family Home. Well, anyway, that was a very good idea. The tanks are about waist high, so it's easy to pick out weeds. The veggies are growing fast, and we should be able to have fresh onions soon. The tomatoes are still little and green, but by the end of the month they should be ready too. Everyone at Oak View is anxiously waiting for harvest time.

We have been doing lots of work at Oak View to get activities that everyone will enjoy. We have two basketball hoops set up, a volleyball court and a walking trail so far. Lynn Thon has ordered other outdoor games – badminton, bean bags, etc., so everyone should have something fun to do.

Michael, who resides at Oak View, asked me to pass on this joke – he asked, "what has ears but can't hear." The answer, of course, is "corn." Ooh, as they would say on Hee Haw, that is corny.

The Copus family members were up at their campground over the 4th of July. They had way too much fun while they were here – kayaking, golfing, watching the fireworks at Shell Lake, and eating lots of ice cream at Scoop and Brew. They invited me to go kayaking with them on Saturday, but it was so hot and the trip down the river takes three and a half hours, so I decided I had better sit this one out.

Jim Copus and Donna gave me a yard ornament solar powered owl for my birthday. The owl is very large and has huge eyes that give off almost as much light as a bright flashlight. It's pretty neat, and people should be able to see where to walk when they come into the yard at night.

Were you able to take part in any of the activities at the park in Cumberland on the 4th? There are so many things going on, and so many people to visit with. Small towns are great all the time, but especially during the holidays – People are so friendly and enjoy visiting with everyone, even people they don't know. Around here there are no strangers, just friends we haven't met yet.

Jerry and Carol Hefty were among the many people enjoying the small-town 4th at Mikana on Sunday. I stopped by there to visit with them for a while, and they were sitting in the shelter listening to the band and enjoying grilled hamburgers.

Art and Jill Adams invited Duane and me to have ice cream at Scoop and Brew for my birthday last week. Jill's kids, Ryley and Gabi, and Gabi's boyfriend, Jack, came along and we all enjoyed the nice cold treat on that very warm day.

Lynn Thon, Duane and I ordered a wood-fired pizza to go from Bistro 63 this past Thursday. We had been working in the garden all day and were too tired to get presentable, so we thought we should enjoy them (the pizzas) at Lynn's house rather than at Bistro's dining room. We do love Thursday evenings in the summer because the Bistro has music on the deck, and we can enjoy it from our yard. One of the benefits of living next door to a great restaurant. One of the draw backs, of course, is that the smell of the food as it is being prepared is so good that it makes us hungry all the time. (Good thing aroma is not fattening.)

Our raspberry bushes are absolutely loaded with fruit, and they will be ripening within the next couple weeks. I found a fresh raspberry pie recipe that I can hardly wait to test out. If it is as good as it sounds I'll pass the recipe on to you.

I guess that's about it from Barronett this week. Enjoy the sunshine – see you next time.

"Full access to the Tree of Life"

by Pastor Tim Carlson
Timberland Free Lutheran Church

One thing I appreciate about being back in Wisconsin is the beautiful trees during all four seasons -- the colors of fall, the contrast in winter between the dark branches and the white birch with the green pines, the budding leaves of spring, and the magnificent canopy of summer. This love of trees leads me to consider a particular type of tree that is mentioned in the Bible in Genesis 2. God provided the Tree of Life for Adam and Eve, yet their disobedience brought a curse upon themselves and all of us, resulting in their physical death and in being kept away from the Tree of Life. Yet, in heaven, as recorded in Revelation 22, a tree of life is provided for mankind's eternal sustenance.

What is the reason for man being kept from the Tree of Life in the Garden of Eden, but having full access to that tree in heaven? Our sin seems to be the reason. Man needs to be cleansed before he can eat of the Tree of Life eternally. How is this cleansing accomplished? Not through our good works or trying harder! Only through faith in the atoning work of Jesus Christ can one be cleansed of one's sin. Christ paid the penalty for sin, which is death. This death stands in stark contrast to the Tree of Life.

Romans 10:9 tells us, "If you confess with your mouth, 'Jesus is Lord', and believe in your heart God raised Him from the dead, you will be saved." There is a two-step process involved in this verse. First, we need to acknowledge that we are sinners and ask God to forgive us. Second, we must put our faith in Jesus as being the only one who can save us. We must trust in His death alone for payment of our sin and in His resurrection for eternal life. Then when we enter heaven, we will have full access to the Tree of Life.

This thought comes to me, even as I drive throughout Barron County, enjoying the beautiful trees.
